HOOVER IS TOLD RIDER TO PACT MAY BE NEEDED

Reservation Likely, Borah Says.

Brookhart to Aid

Des Moines, Ia., July 14.—(AP)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart said today he favors ratification of the London naval treaty and expects to return to Washington in time to vote for the pact.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover learned today that it may become necessary for him to accept the Norris reservation if he is to obtain ratification of the navy limitation treaty at this time.

This information was conveyed to him by Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee, whom the President summoned to the White House to report on the situation affecting the treaty in the senate.

Senator Borah found the President highly indignant over what he regards as the implications of the Norris reservation which provides that the senate in ratifying the treaty does so with the understanding that there is no secret agreement modifying its terms. Inasmuch as Mr. Hoover has given his word to the senate that no such secret understanding exists, he feels that the reservation is a reflection upon his good faith.

Borah Disagrees with Him.

The President was full of fight when he sent for Senator Borah, and was confident that he has a sufficient number of votes at his command to defeat the Norris reservation. Senator Borah, who intends to vote for the Norris reservation, was unable to agree with the President on this point. He thought it highly probable that the reservation will be adopted.

The Idaho senator, who is in charge of the treaty, also pointed out that if the reservation were rejected he could not answer for the fate of the pact. He did not think it likely that the treaty would be rejected, but he regarded it entirely possible that the supporters of the Norris reservation, if defeated, would be able to prolong the fight indefinitely, if not to bring about a postponement of final action until autumn.

After the White House conference it became known that administration leaders had approached Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] with a proposal to modify his reservation. This development was interpreted as indicating an intention on the part of the administration to accept the Norris reservation if worse comes to worse, and to endeavor to soften it.

Preamble May Be Dropped.

For one thing, the Nebraskan was asked to drop the preamble of the reservation, which recites that the senate has been compelled to act without knowledge of all the facts because the President refused to submit the information. Mr. Norris said that the preamble is the proper premise of the resolution, but that rather than have his reservation defeated he would agree to drop the whereases.

More gossip was in circulation today regarding the contents of the secret documents which are in the hands of Senators David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] and Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], two of the negotiators of the treaty, and which other senators are permitted to peruse under seal of secrecy.

One story is that the diplomatic correspondence and memoranda disclose that Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain promised President Hoover in the Rapidan conversations that the United States would be allowed to build one, if not two, superdreadnaughts in order to establish Anglo-American battleship parity and that Britain would concede to America the 21 eight inch gun cruisers upon which our navy general board was insisting.

Report MacDonald Reneged.

When the prime minister returned to London, however, he went back on the promises. The explanation for the change of front is said to be given in the dispatches of Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, who is represented as calling the prime minister undependable. The British admiralty, according to the version of the Dawes dispatches, compelled MacDonald to renege on his pledges to Mr. Hoover.

There were also some undependable persons in Washington, according to reports of the secret correspondence. The state department is being quoted as reporting to Mr. Stimson that Senator Borah cannot be depended on from one day to another and as referring

BOY PATIENT ADMITS STABBING HIS NURSE TO DEATH ON HIKE

New York, July 15.—[Special.]—Miss Anna Miller, a 23 year old nursemaid employed in the home of Harry Woolsey, owner of the Woolsey Paint company of Jersey City, was found stabbed to death on the side of a cliff near Green Pond, N. J., late yesterday after a twenty hour search by state troopers and neighbors.

Harry Woolsey Jr., 14 years old, who was described by the police as mentally abnormal, early today confessed he had killed the young woman. He had been questioned for hours in the state trooper headquarters at Morristown, N. J. He had been taken into custody early in the evening when he walked into the police station at Dover, N. J., and asked for lodging.

The boy said he and the young woman, who was charged with his care, had quarreled over "different little things," the nature of which he declined to specify. She started to slap him, he said, and he drew a hunting knife from his pocket and plunged it repeatedly into her body.

Miss Miller's body was found about 3 p. m. by two boys who had joined the search. The young woman had been stabbed twice in the breast, twice in the abdomen, and seven times in the back, according to Dr. J. P. Kuhl of Butler, N. J., the physician who viewed the body.

EVANSTON WIFE HOPES TO SHARE FLAGLER WEALTH

Mrs. Ruth Taylor Pontius and her husband, John, of 1132 Maple avenue, Evanston, were believed by relatives last night to be in New York City to consult with attorneys regarding Mrs. Pontius' participation in the $15,000,000 estate of her grand aunt, Mrs. Ida Flagler, widow of Henry M. Flagler, who died last week in a New York sanitarium.

They were motoring to Southern California. The last word heard from them was June 28, at Pasco, Wash. Mrs. James Gotcher, Mr. Pontius' sister, said they undoubtedly had learned of Mrs. Flagler's illness and had hurried east, probably by train. She said Mrs. Pontius had often discussed the estate. She expects to share a one-third interest, as there are only two other heirs.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pontius are graduates of Northwestern university. They were married four years ago. He is now taking a medical course at the Northwestern school in Chicago.

6 Youths Slip, One by One, to Death in Sea

Boston, Mass., July 14.—(AP)—Five young men and a girl sank to death, one by one, in the bitter cold water of the Atlantic in the darkness of a long night after they had clung for hours to a little sloop that had capsized in a sudden squall a few miles off Scituate.

One lone survivor, Baden Garceau of Scituate and Boston, clung to the tumbling wreck for hours after his mates had disappeared and was saved at last by the mackerel seiner St. Rita, which brought him and the body of the girl to Boston.

The dead were:

Willis Earle, 27, Kansas City.

John Blower, 25, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Betty Munsell, 19, Watertown, Mass.

David Gierasch, 27, Concord, Mass.

Charles Hall, 23, Greenbush and Cambridge, owner and skipper of the knockabout Nomad.

The closing hours of the tragedy were enacted after G. Abeel Hall and John Hall, father and brother of Charles, had pressed a coast guard boat into a search for the craft, and later had obtained the services of three coast guard destroyers and two seaplanes.

Tells Story of Tragedy.

After Garceau had been landed at Boston by Frank Favalora, captain of the St. Rita, he went with his father, Albert Garceau, a Boston lawyer, to the office of the harbor master, where he told his story.

"We started out in Hall's sloop from Scituate at 5 o'clock yesterday," he said. "Two others who had planned to go with us, found they could not go.

"On the way to the pier, we met Gierasch and the girl and invited them to go along. The boat was an 18 foot knockabout. We went out five miles and decided to return. We got back about three miles when a squall came up and capsized us. The main sail was up and the sheet was tied.

"Five of the party climbed onto the keel and two of us into the rigging. Those in the rigging were Hall and myself. Gierasch became panic stricken. He screamed and threw the others of the party into a panic.

Sea Claims Them, One by One.

"Gierasch went overboard twice and I hauled him back each time. Gierasch went over a third time and as he did so he grabbed Blower by the leg. I then went overboard and rescued Blower, but Gierasch was swept away and drowned.

"The waves then washed Blower off and he was lost. The next to go was Earle, who was clinging for his life to the keel. Labire clung on until midnight when he was forced by the rushing water to relinquish his hold and was drowned.

"During this period of time we saw the New York boat go by and a coast guard boat half a mile away.

"Following the disappearance of Labire, there remained only Hall, the girl, and myself. The girl was calm and clung with Hall to the keel while I stayed in the rigging. Eventually, the girl collapsed and was swept off the keel, but Hall saved her. Later the girl and Hall were forced off the keel and I went to the rescue of both.

"Finally Hall lost his hold and disappeared.

Girl Gives Up Fight.

"At about 6:30 today, the girl, despite her valiant efforts to cling on until a vessel should come to our succor, gave up the fight and floated away from the bobbing craft.

"I was picked up by the St. Rita at 9 o'clock, six miles off Scituate by the skipper of the St. Rita, a mackerel seiner."

Capt. Favalora, attracted by the frantic signals of Garceau and the sight of the girl's body, halted and took both aboard. For an hour, he and his men attempted to revive the girl.

Capt. James Barry of the yacht Neptune, said his craft was anchored about five miles off Scituate last night and that the members of the ill-fated party came aboard his vessel, were shown around the yacht, and then returned in a skiff to their own craft in which they started back toward shore.

The body of an unidentified, gray haired woman about 68 years old was recovered from the Jackson park lagoon last night by Woodlawn police. Strollers had observed the body floating in about eight feet of water. The woman wore a dark blue dress, black silk hose and black shoes. Police said the body had not been in the water more than 24 hours.

BRUNDIDGE WILL TELL HIS STORY; READ IS NAMED

American City Editor Capone Guest.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Harry T. Brundidge, staff correspondent of the St. Louis Star, will appear before the Cook county grand jury to repeat the charges he has made against Chicago newspaper men, and to give the names of those he alleges are racketeers.

This appeared certain last night after a series of developments during the day which included the revelation that Harry Read, city editor of the Chicago Evening American, is one of the newspaper men referred to in the articles written by Brundidge on which the latter is to be questioned by the grand jury.

This newspaper man, now identified as Read, was mentioned, without names, by Brundidge as a friend of Al Capone and a guest of Capone on his Florida estate and on a trip to Havana.

Jurors Advised by Judge.

The promised appearance of Brundidge before the grand jury was brought about by Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court, who called the jurors before him and advised them to summon the St. Louis reporter. The jury, after conferring with State's Attorney Swanson, then made it known that Brundidge would be invited to appear. The St. Louis Star in a published statement repeated its willingness to have Brundidge appear, and Brundidge himself, in Havana, Cuba, cabled that he would return to St. Louis at once prepared to heed the Chicago summons.

Brundidge came to Chicago to report the investigation of the murder of Alfred Lingle, reporter for THE TRIBUNE. In his articles he outlined the results of a further inquiry he made into newspaper conditions in Chicago, and he declared that other newspaper men than Lingle were engaged in gangster rackets of various kinds which he described without mentioning the names of those newspaper men.

Report Read as Visitor.

According to investigators, City Editor Read was the newspaper visitor reported by Brundidge to have been a guest at the Florida retreat of Scarface Al Capone and to have flown to Havana, Cuba, with the gang chief and a party of his friends. The investigation of Read's activities resulted from a pursuit of a theory that light might be thrown on the motive for Lingle's murder by an inquiry into the connections of other newspaper men with notorious gangsters.

The investigators stated that shortly after Capone's return to Chicago, following his release from a Philadelphia prison last spring, Read saw the gangster, and was invited to the Capone estate on Palm Island, near Miami Beach. Soon afterward, Capone departed for Florida.

Read, it is reported, went south on a vacation, and shortly after arriving at Miami went to visit the gang leader. While there, it is related, Capone proposed an air hop to Havana, inviting Read to go with him.

Name Former Alderman.

The party set off, landing in the harbor at Havana, and registered at the Sevilla Biltmore hotel. Read was the first to sign the register, but he signed his name, according to the investigators, as "Harry Reed, realtor." Another guest, who is named by the investigators as former Ald Albert Prignano of the Bloody 20th ward, also registered under an assumed name. When it came time for the gang chief to put down his name, he inscribed it with a flourish—"Alphonse Capone, retired."

In high spirits, the party retired to rooms—the best in the expensive hostelry—and immediately a procession of waiters, flunkies, manicurists, barbers and other hotel attachés was summoned. The guests tipped lavishly with $5 bills.

The hotel management, however, notified the Cuban police of Capone's presence, and the day after their arrival Capone, Read and the others

While the board of education yesterday held another meeting in an effort to raise $6,100,000 to meet teachers' pay rolls now more than three weeks overdue, stories of distress and want among 13,000 teachers and their dependents began to harass members of the board who admit there is no immediate relief in sight.

The board holds $13,000,000 in 1930 tax anticipation warrants which it is unable to market until they retire a like amount of 1928 and 1929 warrants now in the hands of bankers. The special session of the legislature authorized the board to issue $25,000,000 in bonds. But the board cannot legally sell the bonds even though a market is found. The bonds must be sold by the city controller.

Hold Court Ruling Is Needed.

Doubt was expressed that a buyer could be found before their sale is justified by a Supreme court ruling. The board adopted a resolution urging the city controller to do all in his power to relieve the situation and adjourned.

James Hemingway, chairman of the finance committee, told board members the special session relief laws held out hope for the future but provided no immediate relief. "We are authorized to sell bonds," he said, "but bankers tell us a court ruling is necessary because they are to be issued without a referendum."

Lewis E. Meyers, chairman of a special committee appointed to deal with the pay roll dilemma, said "the situation is serious. Many teachers are suffering from lack of money. Last night a teacher called me and told of desperate circumstances."

Teacher Describes Plight.

A typical case brought to attention is that of Mrs. Marian C. Lewis 7217 South Lincoln street, assistant principal of the Burroughs school and teaching summer classes at the Clarke school.

"Yesterday," she said, "I could not go to my classes because I lacked sufficient money to buy gasoline. I lost $9.50 which the board will dock from my check, if and when I get it. Today will be the same. My husband has been out of work for two years and my brother is ill. Both are dependant on my salary. I have $275 due me but only 76 cents in cash. We cannot even buy food. Banks will not loan me money on my overdue salary and starvation stares us in the face."

Recall Christmas Plight.

The present plight of the teachers, many of whom may be compelled to forego vacations for lack of funds, parallels the situation of last winter when the teachers waited until late on Christmas eve for their pay envelopes.

It was on Dec. 20 that H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, admitted that the teachers would have scant chance of doing any Christmas shopping with their December pay checks.

On the afternoon of Dec. 24 the board of education announced completion of a deal with Halsey, Stuart & Co. and the Central Trust company for a loan of $3,100,000 with the board's building fund of $40,725,000 as security. That night the pay checks were distributed to the city's 360 public schools by a fleet of taxicabs under police escort.

URGE PUBLIC ECONOMY

Warning that the recent failure to meet public pay rolls will be repeated unless rigid economy is practiced was contained in a letter sent yesterday to the members of the city council by the Civic federation.

The letter, signed by Clayton Mark, president, and Douglas Southerland, secretary, urges that the supplemental appropriations which the general assembly has just authorized be held down to absolutely essential requirements and be kept within the newly created revenue.

"Unless this is done the council will be greatly embarrassed next December when confronted with the new limitations hereafter to be imposed upon the making of annual appropriations," the letter stated. "Any deficiency created by overappropriations now will have to be taken care of in the next annual appropriation ordinance and will materially reduce the amount of revenues remaining for general corporate financing in 1931."

Four Firemen Injured by Collapse of Roof

Four firemen, fighting a small blaze in a cottage in the course of being razed at 511 South Morgan street, were injured last night when the roof on which they were standing collapsed and pitched them 20 feet into a heap of debris. The injured, all of whom were taken to the West Side hospital, are: Lieut. Michael Moline, 6037 South Tripp street; Ernest Schabes, 6447 South Honore street; Walter Sulkowski, 1653 Cortland street, and Thomas Grace, 4914 Quincy street.

MRS. M'CORMICK AND NYE CLASH IN FUND INQUIRY

She Backs Previous Expense List.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chairman Gerald P. Nye, United States senator from North Dakota, and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick occupied the whole stage yesterday in the opening of the Chicago hearings in the investigation of campaign funds in the April primary which gave Mrs. McCormick the Republican nomination for United States senator from Illinois.

Mrs. McCormick was on the witness stand for nearly four hours. She appeared alone, unrepresented by counsel. Chairman Nye—except for investigators and other employes—also was alone. The other four senators, members of the special committee created by the senate to delve into campaign disbursements, were absent. The one man and the one woman held the eyes and ears of a capacity crowd in a courtroom of the federal building.

Four minor witnesses were examined briefly. A few routine questions and they were excused. About 20 other witnesses were present but were dismissed until 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Applaud Mrs. McCormick.

There was applause when the woman nominee closed her formal statement with a declaration that "you cannot buy an Illinois landside," but interest among the spectators ran highest during a prolonged exchange that followed between her and Chairman Nye.

"This is the most miserable job ever wished on a man," said Senator Nye after the hearing was closed, "but, here may be some consolation after it's over if some credit is given for an effort to be fair."

During the hour or so that preceded this remark, Mrs. McCormick had protested several times, emphatically and formally, against the methods used during her examination. At one point she read extracts from the resolution creating the committee and said that several questions directed to her were impertinent. Once she questioned whether the proceedings were those of a "fact finding committee."

Call Deneenites, She Says.

She also said that she has been the only one of 33 nominees for the senate selected this year whose expenditures have been investigated. She suggested that Deneen leaders be called to tell about their outlays for United States Senator Deneen, whom she defeated. And once she flatly refused to answer a question, only to withdraw the refusal a moment later when she understood the query.

These were incidents in a course of the inquiry by the chairman bearing upon Mrs. McCormick's relations with Republican organizations and leaders in Chicago and the state.

Nye's first series of questions in this field related to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. The second series referred to Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, and to Charles V. Barrett, member of the board of review. The third concerned what he called the "city machine." In all of these instances the witness denied the existence of any alliance or understanding with the leaders mentioned.

Gets Right to Cross Examine.

When the session was completed Mrs. McCormick had won from Chairman Nye an agreement that, following their direct examination, she may cross examine witnesses called during later hearings. Senator Nye previously had refused her repeated demand that she be told the source of some of the information used by him in the questions he asked.

Mrs. McCormick's opening sentences stressed the fact that she voluntarily reported to Chairman Nye three weeks ago, and on June 30 she said in a newspaper statement that three volunteer organizations had spent in her campaign contributions amounting to $67,214.10 in addition to the $252,672.30 she declared in her first accounting to the committee. The organizations were the Voters' Progress club, the Ruth Hanna McCormick Volunteers, and the Illinois Young People's Republican clubs.

"My statement of personal expenditures still remains as made on May 1," her statement before Nye read.

Prior to her reading of this portion of her testimony and her extended exposition of the political situation in Illinois and Chicago during her campaign, Chairman Nye had asked a few questions concerning the three organizations mentioned, and others. The witness said she never had heard of the "Century of Progress Woman's club." She said she had loaned—and never had been repaid—$3,000 to aid the Civic league because of its purpose to effect the distribution of pasteurized milk in the poorer districts of Chicago.

The chairman also asked Mrs. McCormick about the work of her regular staff of employes, who, she said, except for two handling her political affairs, devote their time to her business as a farmer, milk producer, cattle breeder, and newspaper publisher and to her other activities. She said that none of her campaign business had been handled in her governmental office in Washington but entirely in her personal office in Chicago. She also said that she had franked none of her campaign mailings.

One of Chairman Nye's questions concerned eight counties for which no expenditures had been listed in Mrs. McCormick's "county budget" showing the amounts she turned over to county managers. Those counties were Cook (including Chicago), McLean, McHenry, Cumberland, Lee, Pitt, Putnam, and Stephenson. He said those counties gave the candidate 375,770 votes and that the other 94 counties gave her only 315,404.

Mrs. McCormick's laughing comment at this time was undistinguishable, but she reverted to the subject later.

"That is an interesting manipulation of figures," she said then, "but the chairman might as well have said that Cook county alone gave me more votes than all the rest of the state."

Explains Lack of Expenses.

Then she explained just why there had been no expenditures from her purse for any of the seven downstate counties. In some instances volunteer organizations did all the campaigning for others. In one county she had no manager.

Chairman Nye went repeatedly into the candidate's activities in Cook county. She said that possibly one-third of the general expenses of the battle such as postage, telephone, printing, and radio could be charged up to work in Chicago and its suburbs but that she knew heavy outlays in the metropolis were unnecessary.

"I don't flatter myself," she said, "that the vote I received was entirely a pro-McCormick vote. I consider that a very large percentage of it was an anti-Deneen vote."

Nye Raises Question.

"The chairman may be wrong," said Senator Nye, "but you must have had some assurances of strong support in Cook county. You must have counseled with somebody."

"You are wrong," replied Mrs. McCormick. "You're entirely wrong. It wasn't necessary for me to counsel with anybody.

"I know the situation in Illinois and in Chicago. I know it from A to Z. I knew the factions opposing Deneen would spend money, time, and energy in the county contest here. Deneen was running for two offices. He was running for United States senator and for what you might call county leader. To defeat him for county leader the opposing factions had to beat him for senator."

In response to further questions Mrs. McCormick said she did not consult anybody about how her campaign should be conducted. Then Chairman Nye asked her if she had not consulted W. R. James, president of the west park board, an appointee of Gov. Emmerson, who took charge of her Monroe street headquarters a few weeks before primary day. She said President James was not a county manager, as were her representatives in downstate counties, and that he had no voice in her campaign policies.

Chairman Nye's next move was to quote from a letter written by Mrs. McCormick in 1926 saying that in that year she was supporting the Barrett-Crowe ticket. She said that concerned only the single campaign. Later she said the letter was part of the Deneen material in this year's campaign and was "gotten out" by her opponent's headquarters.

In reply to other questions Mrs. McCormick said she did not recall ever indorsing Crowe but remembered indorsing Barrett. She also said she held no conferences with Barrett about her campaign policies. Then the chairman's questions swung to the subject of ward committeemen.

"This is a fact finding commission—at least it is supposed to be," began Mrs. McCormick.

Nye Interrupts Witness.

"Have you any reason to think the attitude of the committee indicates anything else?" interrupted Senator Nye.

"I know that I'm the only one of 33 candidates that's being investigated in this way," said the witness.

"You may rest assured," said the chairman, "there will be an investigation in each case of the conduct of the primary."

When Mrs. McCormick suggested that Deneen funds were collected in some downstate districts, the senator said she should give the committee the names of the collectors.

"When you begin to investigate the Deneen expenses," she replied, "I think you should start with Roy O. West, his state manager, with Thomas J. Healy [county campaign treasurer], and Jake Allen [county manager]."

"They will all be heard," said the chairman.

Taking up the question of patronage used in the senatorial campaign, one of the questions put to Mrs. McCormick was whether she did not have some patronage to use.

"None at all," she said.

Senator Nye asked what federal patronage had been used by Deneen. Mrs. McCormick replied that it included postmasters, census enumerators, and marshals.

"One federal judge," she said, "openly conducted the Deneen campaign in his entire district, solicited funds and solicited support."

"Is it not generally conceded that your candidacy had the backing of the city machine?"

"At this point I want to read——" began Mrs. McCormick.

"After you have answered the question," insisted Senator Nye.

"I'm not going to answer it," said the witness.

Senator Nye manifested surprise. Mrs. McCormick continued her insistence upon reading the document in her hand. Then the question was read to her, and she laughingly replied that all the anti-Deneen factions had supported her. Then Senator Nye asked how many ward committeemen had marked their sample ballots for her.

Reads from Resolution.

"The last few questions asked by the chairman are not pertinent," she said, "and I want the Chicago public to know just why this committee was appointed."

Then she read from the senate resolution authorizing the committee to investigate campaign expenditures, the use of patronage and similar matters.

"I have answered specifically concerning what I spent," she went on, "in a more detailed account than ever has been submitted by any candidate in any investigation."

"Nobody is disputing," answered the chairman, "that it was a very splendid statement you submitted, but the question is whether you did not have the support of the Chicago machine."

Mrs. McCormick asserted that there is no organization that can be known by that title, that there are seven factions opposed to Deneen, and that they are not in any one machine.

Asks About Organization.

Then the senator asked if the witness did not have an organization of her own, a woman's organization. She said she helped to organize the Illinois Republican Women's clubs and had aided in the formation of similar organizations in Pennsylvania, New York, and several other states. She explained that the Illinois clubs do not indorse primary candidates.

Chairman Nye quoted from a magazine article about her written by William Hard, and then, after explaining that he disliked to put the question, asked her if she had ever paid any money to Mr. Hard.

"That," she replied, "is a very impertinent question that has no bearing on this investigation. Mr. Hard and I have been friends for many years and after my husband's death there was an arrangement made whereby he did a specific work concerning Senator McCormick. I want to know why you ask that question."

"The charge has been made that Mr. Hard was in your employ," was the reply.

"By whom?" asked Mrs. McCormick.

"I can't tell you."

"That's not fair and I'm going to enter a complaint," said Mrs. McCormick. "The charge is a false and base lie. It has no foundation in fact. Do you refuse to let me know who makes the charge?"

"Indeed I do," answered Senator Nye.

Mrs. McCormick's examination was closed by replies that she had turned over to the volunteer organizations supporting her such "small contributions" as were sent to her by relatives and friends.

The formal typewritten statement that she read into the record was nearly 7,000 words in length. In detail it analyzed conditions faced by a candidate for the United States senate from Illinois, particularly those during the last campaign. She said she started her campaign with no organization or leader behind her except Speaker Shanahan of the lower house of the legislature, and that her organization strength came to her as the leaders recognized the probability of her nomination. She also dissected the lineups in the local Republican battle for county, sanitary district and Municipal court offices and for ward committeeships.

"Votes Cost 44 Cents Each."

In analyzing her expenses she said that her votes had cost her 44 cents each in campaign disbursements and that the cost was $42.63 per 1,000 of population. With this she contrasted the expenditure of $105.08 per 1,000 of population in the Republican presidential campaign in Illinois two years ago. She quoted similar figures for other states for that same election showing the cost per vote for Hoover was $1.44 in Arizona, $1.03 in Nevada and 73 cents in Chairman Nye's own state, North Dakota. These figures were taken from the Steiwer senatorial committee report.

"I believe that my opposition used more money in the recent Illinois campaign than I and my volunteer friends used," Mrs. McCormick read from the prepared statement.

"I am willing to insert here," she interpolated, "that I believe they spent nearly twice as much."

Tell of Campaign Expenses.

During the morning session two downstate witnesses were called so that they might return to their homes. Attorney John L. Flanagan of East St. Louis said he had received from Mrs. McCormick $6,995, which was all that was spent in her campaign in that city. Former State Senator R. E. Duvall of Belleville said he had received and spent only $1,500 in that community and surrounding territory in St. Clair county.

After Mrs. McCormick was excused Dr. Charles Compton of Springfield said he received and disbursed $10,000 in Sangamon county. Albert D. Lasker, Chicago, said he contributed $2,000 to the Voters' Progress club.

I. C. C. TO HEAR PLEA AGAINST TRACKS ON SHORE DRIVE TODAY

The petition of the Lincoln park board for removal of the tracks of the Chicago Surface Lines on Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street is scheduled for a hearing today before the Illinois commerce commission at its headquarters in the City Hall Square building.

The tracks are included in the local transit ordinance recently passed by the city council, but it was placed there pending the outcome of the litigation before the commerce commission. If the commission decides against the surface lines the lake shore tracks will be excluded from their list of properties in the ordinance.

A petition for the removal of the tracks was denied by the commission in 1926. The present park board has presented a petition for a rehearing which will come up today.

MICHAELSON GAIN OF 59 VOTES CUTS MORELAND LEAD

Congressman M. A. Michaelson gained 59 votes and J. C. Moreland gained 11 votes in the 117 precincts counted yesterday in the contest over the Republican nomination for congress in the Seventh, or "leaky trunk" district. The net gain of 48 votes for Michaelson leaves Moreland 581 votes ahead, with 460 precincts still to be recounted. The original returns gave Michaelson a plurality of only 56, which was wiped out last week in the canvass of the first 200 precincts, which put Moreland 629 votes in the lead.

MILLIONAIRE IS SHOT TO DEATH IN COURTROOM

"He Ruined Me," Slayer Says; Gives Up.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—[Special.]—Motley H. Flint, millionaire financier, politician and former postmaster of Los Angeles, was shot to death in the courtroom of Superior Judge Frank C. Collier this morning by Frank D. Keaton. The slayer, a shabby, middle aged real estate man, told police "that man and his bank ruined me."

Keaton threw his emptied .32 caliber pistol on the prostrate body into which he had fired three bullets and immediately surrendered. He stood bewildered just at the railing which separates courtroom spectators from the attorney's space until Judge Collier leaped off his bench and seized him.

Flint died instantly. Two of the bullets severed his jugular vein. In his pockets later was found $60,000 in currency and checks.

Had Finished Testifying.

The slaying paralyzed the court room, in which Flint, a witness in a civil case, had testified that he remembered little of a deal in which David Selznick, motion picture man, asserted he deposited stock of $250,000 value as security for a bank loan, but had been unable to get his stock back from the First National bank, in which Flint long had been a power.

None in the courtroom knew Keaton or that the little gray faced man was carrying a weapon when he suddenly lurched to his feet after Flint concluded his testimony. Flint walked the few paces that brought him from the witness box to the courtroom railing. He turned to address Mrs. Louis Selznick, just inside the railing, when Keaton's bullets struck him.

Keaton swayed drunkenly as the banker fell. He lifted his hands in the air after throwing the gun on the dead man's body.

"Didn't Mean It," He Says.

"O, my God, O, my good God," Keaton cried as he covered his eyes with his hands. "I didn't mean to hurt him. Something got hold of me and made me shoot."

Later Keaton gave out a statement in which he said: "I lost $4,600 in Julian stock. I heard that Mr. Flint was responsible. It was all my money and it made me a failure.

"I had kept this old gun in a trunk for twenty years. I took it out yesterday and had it cleaned. I decided I would go see Flint and talk things over. I had not had any words with him for seven or eight years.

"I heard Flint was to be a witness in this case so I went to the courtroom and sat in the second row of spectators. As he passed through the little gate in the railing I had a sudden terrible pain in my right side and arm and my head and everything went black. I don't remember anything about the shooting."

Keaton is married and lives in Inglewood. He is father of two children, one 5 and one 2. He has been active in the Los Angeles Bible institute and his wife and neighbors today said that he recently had been "acting queer," that he talked of losing money in stock transactions, and said "the big fellows always get off." Physicians tonight said he was deranged.

Flint was one of the Los Angeles banking and political leaders who was indicted following the crash of the Julian Petroleum company three years ago, when 20,000 small stockholders had more than $30,000,000 investments wiped out.

Flint was three times indicted in successive grand jury investigations into the Julian collapse. The first indictment, charging usury, was dismissed under the prosecution of ex-District Attorney Asa Keyes, who is now in San Quentin. A second resulted in Flint's acquittal in Superior Judge William Aggeler's court.

A third indictment, charging violation of the state corporation securities act, was due for trial early in September.

Just Back from Abroad.

Flint returned from France voluntarily three months ago, to face his last two indictments of Julian case charges. He retired from many of his business affairs after the first Julian sensation and went to live abroad.

Flint served as postmaster from 1896 to 1904, and his brother, the late Frank B. Flint, was United States senator.

Flint was high in fraternal affairs, having been imperial potentate of Al Malaikah shrine temple in Los Angeles, and an Elk and Mason.

His name was recently advanced as a candidate for governor of California, but he asked that the movement be dropped.

Companion Finds Way Out, but Can't Return.

Bennington, Vt., July 14.—(AP)—Frank Goldsborough, daring 19 year old aviator who recently established a junior transcontinental record, lay gravely injured and pinned in the wreckage of his airplane somewhere in the woods west of here tonight while a posse was trying to find him.

A large group of men with a doctor and a nurse searched through the woods for the plane, handicapped because Donald Mockler, Goldsborough's companion, attempting vainly to retrace his steps through the forest, collapsed and could go no further. Mockler was with Goldsborough when the plane struck a tree top while flying in a fog. Part of the plane stayed in the tree while Goldsborough was pinned in the cockpit as it fell to the ground. Failing after an hour's struggle to extricate Goldsborough, who was still alive, Mockler set out for Bennington. He wandered for five hours before finding aid. Mockler feared Goldsborough was severely injured. Both his legs were broken and he was unconscious.

Planes Fail in Search.

Rescuers' first attempts to reach the imprisoned pilot had been unsuccessful and scores of volunteers were searching aimlessly through the thickly wooded sides of Woodford mountain. Planes brought from Manchester and Springfield circled the woodland for miles without avail. They reported back to their ports at dark to wait until daylight to take up their search again.

Alive when his companion left him, Goldsborough lay somewhere in a tract of unbroken wilderness. Mockler, who before he collapsed, scoured the mountain sides with rescuers, was unable to take them to the wrecked plane. He had traveled five hours through the dense woods, unmindful of direction, and only remembered that "they crashed a tree near the top of a mountain. He was dazed and bewildered. He not only is not a woodsman but is nearsighted and his spectacles were broken in the crash. He collapsed from exhaustion and from an injury to his head, after aiding the searchers for several hours.

Mockler, despite his condition, refused to be brought out. Wrapped in blankets beside a camp fire he stayed with the party to continue the search tomorrow morning.

Lonely, Uninhabited Woodland.

Unsettled and uninhabited, Woodford mountain is one of the loneliest spots in the unbroken country that lies in a triangle between Bennington, Brattleboro and the Massachussetts line near Greenfield, Mass.

A few sparsely laid state highways run through the southern Vermont mountains and those few wind up the mountain sides and down again with hardly a vestige of road or bypath running down from the hills, to meet them. Spans of woodland, unbroken and wild, lay between the roads. Miles of thickly wooded hillsides run through the country with hardly a hut or camp to break up the monotony of the trees and brush.

If searching parties fail to sight the small bit of wreckage that hangs to a tree top tonight or tomorrow it will probably be days before the woody acreage could be covered thoroughly by searchers.

Father Lost in "Dawn."

New York, July 14.—(AP)—Frank Goldsborough, 19 year old flyer, who crashed today near Bennington, Vt., is the son of Brice Goldsborough, who lost his life in the Dawn, Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson's plane which disappeared in the North Atlantic ocean in December, 1927, during an attempted trans-Atlantic flight from Newfoundland to Denmark.

JEAN ACKER SUIT BARED BY MOVE IN GOTHAM COURT

New York, July 14. — [Special.] — Jean Acker Valentino, first wife of the late Rudolph Valentino, is suing William R. Delehanty for $25,000 for breach of an alleged agreement to pay her $10,000 a year and $700 a month for the rest of her life, it was revealed today when counsel for the defendant filed an appeal from a motion permitting her to examine him before trial in regard to his knowledge of a contract she had five years ago with the Cecil B. De Mille productions.

Miss Acker alleges that the agreement was made in California in November, 1925, when she was an actress with the De Mille productions earning $125 a week under a contract that had renewal clauses for five years, with a graduated salary up to $900 a week for the fifth year.

Mr. Delehanty, whose address and business were not given in the papers, met her during the first year of the contract. He induced her, she states, to resign her position and come to New York to live.

Miss Acker states that she performed all the conditions imposed on her in her agreement with Mr. Delehanty.

Judge Jesse Holdom of the Superior court died yesterday in his home at 211 East Chestnut street. Death was due to a heart attack. The judge had been in poor health since last December, but had been sitting on the bench of the Appellate court to which he had been assigned until last Friday.

The judge was the oldest member of the beach in point of service. He had served almost continuously on the benches of the Circuit and Superior courts since 1898. He antedated Superior Judge Marcus Kavanagh, who was appointed to the bench in the same year. Judge Holdom was 78 years old.

Works Despite Friends' Protests.

The judge suffered his first serious heart attack four months ago. He had been ill, but remained on the bench, earlier in the year. His wife, Mrs. Mable Brady Holdom, died Jan. 4, at Ardsley-on-Hudson, N. Y. After his first attack the judge remained at home until May 15. He returned to his work over protest of his friends and physicians and remained until he suffered a breakdown.

Judge Holdom was born in London, England, Aug. 23, 1851 where he received his early education. At the age of 17 he came to Chicago where he married his first wife, Edith I. Foster of Chicago in 1877. He was admitted to the bar in 1873.

In 1898 he was elected to the Superior court and served until 1906. From 1906 to 1912 he sat in the Appellate court. The judge resigned from the bench in 1912 to head the law firm of Holdom, Manierre & Pratt. He returned to the bench in the Circuit court in 1915 to serve until 1921 when he again returned to private practice in the firm of Holdom, Pratt & Ziess.

Member of Bar Groups, Clubs.

In 1924 he was elected to the Superior court. He was reelected last fall. The judge was a member of the Chicago, Illinois, American, and New York Bar associations. He was a member of the Art institute, the Chicago Historical society, the Union League club, of which he was president in 1909-10, Caxton, Cliff Dwellers, Lotus, and Hamilton clubs. He was chairman of the legal advisory board of exemption of Chicago and a member of the Illinois state council of defense.

He is survived by two children, Cortland Holdom of San Francisco, and Mrs. Edith Abrego of Compton, Cal., and two grandchildren, Jessie Holdom and Alfred Wheeler. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

BOY IS FATALLY BURNED IN BLAST; FATHER SAVES 3

Fourteen year old Clarence Melka, living on a farm near Mundelein, was fatally burned yesterday when an oil stove he was trying to light exploded. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Melka, had gone to the barn to milk the cows. They heard him scream and saw him running toward them, his clothes in flames.

In the meantime, oil had spilled over the kitchen floor. It ignited while the parents were trying to save the boy. The house, a two story frame building, burned to the ground before help could be summoned. The three other Melka children, asleep upstairs, were rescued by their father.

Expect Names to Back Racket Charges.

were arrested for questioning. The police declared they feared that Capone's purpose in the capital was to arrange for the purchase of 50,000 gallons of liquor stored there.

The gang chief, however, assured the police that he was nothing but pleasure bent, and the party was released.

Another section of Brundidge's article, which is said to have referred to Read, read:

"The reason why one editor maintains an office in the loop separate from his newspaper office also might develop something of interest."

The investigators stated that Read for a time did maintain a private office in addition to his regular office at the Chicago American.

Read, asked by a TRIBUNE reporter for a statement, declined to comment. He was interviewed at the Hamilton club, where he had gone after leaving his office at the American.

"Eyes of Nation on You."

Judge Normoyle in advising the grand jury to call Brundidge said:

"I believe you are cognizant of the fact that the eyes of the nation are focused upon you. That is, as to the Lingle murder case which has appeared in the press. I do not believe that you are interested in publishers' quarrels, if they exist, but so much has appeared in the press about this case that I deem it my duty to suggest to you that you call before you such witnesses as you want to hear, irrespective of the fact whether they may or may not be advised by the state's attorney's office before they come to you.

"You in pursuance of your duty cannot fail to observe, or neglect to observe, or brush aside that which may be deemed irrelevant and consider that which may be relevant. As I say, the eyes of the nation are upon you and I know you will not neglect your duty.

Told to Call Brundidge.

"It appears there is one man, I think his name is Harry T. Brundidge, correspondent of the St. Louis Star, who published articles in relation to the Lingle and Reese matters, and I deem it my duty to tell you to call him before you, and if by hearing what he has to say you may solve the Lingle murder or any other murders, or help the authorities in solving them, you will have done your duty.

"You have a right to hear witnesses and have witnesses brought before you without anybody intervening between them and you, and it is my suggestion to you, today, that you cannot neglect doing what you can in that regard."

A juror interrupted with a suggestion that Brundidge is out of the jurisdiction of the court and consequently could not be required to come in.

"Yes, I so understand it," Judge Normoyle said, "but according to the press he evinced a desire to come before you and make his statement voluntarily."

"Can we assure him that he will not be mistreated here if he comes?" another juror asked.

"Under the law," the chief justice replied, "a writ of attachment might be gotten out for him. I would not want to advise you upon that. The only thing I said is that you can invite him to be here. Of course, the state's attorney, as I understand from the press, desires to interview him, which is a very common and regular procedure, a very good procedure, but, of course, they might well waive the rule and invite him to come."

Suggests Reese Inquiry.

In his charge to the grand jury yesterday Chief Justice Normoyle also suggested that the jurors inquire into the affairs of Leland H. Reese, reporter for the Chicago Daily News.

It was indicated that the grand jurors will go into the events surrounding the murder of Julius Rosenheim, which occurred on Feb. 1. Brundidge, in the articles referred to by Chief Justice Normoyle, stated that Rosenheim had been a "shakedown artist" who had collected tribute from vice mongers and speakeasy operators, under threat of exposure in the Daily News.

Following the publication of Brundidge's articles, Reese in a signed article in the Daily News revealed that Rosenheim was a paid investigator for that newspaper, who gave Reese information on gang activities which Reese used in his articles in the News.

At the same time Reese disclosed that he also had received threats of death, and that while he was riding with two bodyguards, near DeKalb, Ill., his car was forced into a ditch by gangsters who had followed him for ten miles in another car.

Judge Normoyle, interviewed by newspaper men, said that by his message to the jury he did not in any way intend to embarrass the conduct of the investigation of the Lingle murder, which is in charge of Charles F. Rathbun, assistant state's attorney and a member of the law firm retained by THE TRIBUNE.

State's Attorney Swanson received a message from the grand jurors asking him to appear before them. He was in the grand jury a short time, and upon emerging said:

"The grand jury asked me to define their powers. I told them they had the power to call whomever they pleased. They asked me concerning Brundidge, and I stated that I had desired to call him in to see if he had any evidence which would be of value if presented to the grand jury and which would not waste their time. If he is called directly before the jury, I stated that I would assume no responsibility for his statements, or the truth of them.

A Vote of Confidence.

"The jurors requested that if and when they call Brundidge, I or one of my assistants should be present, so they might proceed intelligently. A vote of confidence was given by the jury in the present management of the Lingle investigation, and the jurors promised they would call no witnesses the calling of whom in my opinion would work harm to the Lingle inquiry.

"I told the jurors that so far as I knew Brundidge had no essential facts concerning the Lingle murder the telling of which would embarrass that investigation, and that I had no objection to Brundidge being called."

Appearance Is Promised.

After receiving a dispatch relating to the Chicago developments, the St. Louis Star printed the following statement yesterday:

"The St. Louis Star will, on receipt of a proper request from the Cook county grand jury, produce before that grand jury its reporter, Harry T. Brundidge. Mr. Brundidge, at present, as disclosed in a CHICAGO TRIBUNE dispatch from its Miami Beach, Fla., correspondent, Sunday, was in that city in connection with the St. Louis Star's continued investigation of the Chicago matter."

Brundidge, at Havana, said he had received a cablegram from Frank W. Taylor Jr., managing editor of the Star, notifying him of the new developments. Brundidge arrived in Havana Sunday, and has conferred with officials of the department of immigration and the national secret police, according to Associated Press dispatches. He will return to Miami today, and will go at once to St. Louis to receive further instructions from his office, it was stated.

SPUR BURKE HUNT AS WIDOW NAMES HIM AS SLAYER

Michigan Police Search Boats and Trains.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Tomko, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

The hunt for Fred Burke, elusive desperado accused of twenty murders, including participation in the Moran gang massacre, was being pressed with renewed diligence last night following Mrs. Thomas Bonner's positive statement yesterday that Burke was one of the two men who shot and killed her husband last Thursday in his home, 7353 Yale avenue.

Notwithstanding the statement of Lieut. John McGinnis of the homicide squad that his raid on a cottage at Hess Lake, Mich., Sunday night, yielded no evidence that the place was Burke's hideout, activities of the western Michigan police last night indicated they believed Burke to be at large in that vicinity.

An informant in Grand Rapids, Mich., telephoned to the Chicago detective bureau yesterday that he had seen a man in a parked automobile near Casnovia who strongly resembled the slayer. The man covered his face with his hands, jumped from the car, and fled. Before this informant could stop his own speeding car and return to the place the suspect had vanished.

Officers Search for Burke.

An Associated Press dispatch from Muskegon, Mich., said that officers, heavily armed and wearing bullet proof vests, were searching for Burke on every boat and train leaving that city. Muskegon is approximately 40 miles southeast of the Hess lake cottage from which Burke was reported to have fled half an hour before Lieut. McGinnis and his raiders surrounded the cottage Sunday evening.

The lieutenant and his men, returning from their futile search yesterday morning, brought along W. A. Smith, owner of the cottage, and an automobile which Smith claimed had been left at the cottage last Tuesday by a mysterious stranger, to whom he had loaned his own car. The car returned here bore a license issued for a machine of another make to Philip R. McDonnell, a druggist of 501 West 79th street, who is reputed to be a relative of Burke.

Smith, who bears a marked physical resemblance to Burke, was taken yesterday afternoon to the home of the slain Bonner and confronted by the latter's widow. She was asked if she could identify Smith as the slayer.

Names Burke for Killing.

"That's not the man," she said. "I'd know Tom's murderer anywhere. It was Fred Burke and a sandy haired fellow with him who shot Tommy. How do I know? Well, my husband and Burke worked together for years as brakemen on the Panhandle division of the Pennsylvania railroad. Later, when Tommy kept a saloon at 97th street and Vincennes road, Burke was his best customer."

On Burke's head there is a price of many thousands. According to police, Bonner, whose dabblings in the drug and booze rackets had not been lucrative, decided to recoup his fortunes by spotting Burke's hideout, turning up the fugitive, and claiming the reward. He made a trip to the Hess Lake region, supposedly in pursuance of his scheme, returned home, and was killed.

Correspondent Tells of Racket Inquiry.

The following dispatch was printed yesterday in the St. Louis Star:

BY THEODORE C. LINK.

[Staff Correspondent of the Star.]

[Copyright: 1930: By the Star-Chronicle Publishing company.]

Chicago, July 14.—[Special.]—The newspapers of Chicago, some arrogant and rich, are today uneasy and worried. The politicians and police are perturbed, and the average Chicagoan is blase but interested in the drama of the press being enacted here as the result of the murder of "Jake" Lingle, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reporter.

Charges by Harry T. Brundidge in the St. Louis Star that Lingle was not Chicago's only racketeering newspaper man aroused a storm that promises to gather additional fury.

Tells of Newspaper Fight.

One outgrowth of the Star's charges has been to set the powerful TRIBUNE, self-styled "The World's Greatest Newspaper," and the News at each others throats. The two Hearst papers, The American and Herald-Examiner, are siding with the Daily News. The Daily Times, a tabloid, is also against THE TRIBUNE. The Chicago Post has taken an even, unwavering stand, not touched by partisanship or jealousy.

Meanwhile no evidence in the Lingle case nor anything allied with it has been presented to the grand jury. The state's attorney has received many anonymous letters telling of racketeering newspapermen and police captains, but of these he says none is of value. Ironically enough in the circumstance, the Chicago newspapers, with their elaborate "stool pigeon" systems, have not dug up a scintilla of evidence, or, if they have, they are not giving it publicity.

Action by Publishers.

The staffs of Chicago newspapers are large, so large that some workers do not know others who have been in the same organization for years. As a result of the stir created by Brundidge's charges, one publisher has moved from his skyscraper office to the editorial rooms on a lower floor to be near and to know his staff.

Several other publishers, it is understood, have been considering leaving palatial offices for the time being to take quarters near the city rooms so they can personally inspect their workers and keep their fingers on the pulse of their organizations instead of considering the workers as mere robots.

It came as a surprise to the publishers when definite charges of racketeering were made and they got an intimation of what some employés were doing.

Some of the publishers are now calling staff men into private conferences and having them explain in detail their financial affairs and any sources of income which they have other than their salaries.

Takes Charges Seriously.

One man, prominent in the general investigation now on in several quarters, told the reporter:

"The disclosures, which some of the newspapers are ridiculing, would be far more serious than yet charged if earnestly pursued. Racketeering is not just rumor or hearsay, as some Chicago papers would like to have the public believe. Right now some of the newspapers are afraid of what they will find in their own ranks and are stalling for time, when they should be publicly cleaning house instead of letting the St. Louis Star do it for them.

"The Lingle murder has some editors cross-eyed from looking behind them. Some have placed their chairs so that they can keep their eyes on the door while they work.

"But the murder of Lingle has run most of the hoodlums out of Chicago for the time being. Lingle knew who was after him and so do some of his friends. Why they will not tell, I don't attempt to explain.

A Lingle Explanation.

"'Jake' Lingle in his affable, easy way, was known to the underworld as 'THE TRIBUNE,' which might have surprised the owners of that paper had they known of it. Often during the height of bloody gang wars, when everybody was tense some one would ask 'Jake' how it happened that he could go in and out of gang strongholds without fear and without being harmed.

"Jake would say, 'I don't take,' and as long as a reporter doesn't 'take' from gunmen, or anybody, he can go anywhere and not be hurt."

That's what 'Jake' told his best friends, and then he'd explain further by saying, "If a reporter is dishonest he is classed as a hoodlum. Then is when he had better look out, for they will deal with him like they do with any hoodlum."

That was "Jake's" story and he stuck to it, and that's why he appeared to be a wizard of uncanny skill in extracting news from the underworld.

Acquainted with Gunmen.

In Chicago you are not among the "elite" unless you know a gunman. Everybody does. Most of the "elite" are talking through their hats, but they get to thinking they know a "gun" if they see him at a speakeasy or night club and they brag about it. If they don't know one they know somebody who does, and the gunmen, too, talk boastfully about themselves. Chicago "hoods" are proud of their standing.

Racketeering in so many lines has become so common in Chicago in the past few years that only the humorous side of the thing is seen. It is laughed off and taken as part of the game except, as the Star has stated, by those honest and upstanding reporters and editors in the great majority still, who almost have despaired of Chicago journalism purging itself of its racketeer members.

The Reese Incident.

Leland H. Reese, Daily News reporter, who was injured in an automobile accident when forced off the road near De Kalb, Ill., is under guard in a north Michigan boulevard hotel.

He has never been questioned by authorities since he reported an attempt on his life, although it might be a logical assumption that with Lingle recently assassinated the authorities would be active in trying to find out what happened to Reese.

If the story is true that he was set upon and injured, and there seems to be no reasonable doubt of his injuries, then I might follow as a matter of conjecture that he came near to being the second reporter killed by assassins.

He made the pertinent comment that he thought he knew what happened to him, or words to that effect, and maybe he does. It might even be that it was not intended to kill him; just give him a good beating and let the attack appear for what it would. He admitted his connection with the murdered stool pigeon, Rosenheim, first developed and brought out by the Star, saying it was entirely professional.

Old Bitterness Smoulders.

The strong competition between the Chicago newspapers, which is reflected more than ever in the current developments, really started when THE TRIBUNE and the Hearst organization began to fight over circulation a number of years ago. Shootings and slugings occurred all over the city in this bitter controversy. In recent years there has been no trouble, but the bitterness still smoulders.

Chicago newspaper publishers adopted the policy after the Lingle murder that to say anything about reporters who might be suspected would endanger the confidence of the people in the press and hence they never printed anything except routine police reports on the Lingle killing. Now some of the publishers are beginning to question whether that was the right policy inasmuch as the Star brought about the discussion from the outside.

BINDS AND ROBS MILK DRIVER.

METHODISTS DEMAND INQUIRY BY SWANSON ON NEWSPAPER MEN

A resolution asking for a full investigation of the relationship of Chicago newspaper men with racketeers was passed yesterday at the preachers' meeting of the Methodist Episcopal church at the Des Plaines camp meeting and addressed to State's Attorney Swanson. Mr. Swanson has been invited to appear before the Chicago Church federation crime investigation committee today.

The Methodist resolution is expected to form the background of the questions which the committee will ask Mr. Swanson. The resolution said:

"We believe that public confidence in the investigation of the crime conditions in Chicago and in Chicago newspapers requires a thorough investigation by the state's attorney and the grand jury of the charges of the relations of newspaper men to rackets. We call upon Mr. Swanson to carry forward such an investigation without favor or quibbling."

9TH SLAIN IN 10 DAYS OF DETROIT GANGLAND WAR

Police Refuse to Take Hand in Feud.

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—[Special.]—Two more men were victims of Detroit's gang warfare today. One was killed and the other probably fatally wounded. They were shot by three men who drove up while they were seated in an automobile.

The man killed today was the ninth to die in gang battles and ambuscades in Detroit in ten days.

He was Henry Topancy, 30, member of the Moceri-Licavoli gang. The wounded man is Louis Salvio, 36, also a member of the gang. Salvio refused to name the assailants.

The police are taking little interest in the killings. Police Commissioner Wilcox announced today that at least four more of that class of undesirable citizens were virtually "on the spot" and will be killed off before there is a let-up in the liquor war.

Earlier in the day an automobile owned by Charles Ciaramitaro was riddled by bullets while standing in front of 1422 Larned street—another down-town location. No dead man was found inside, and later in the day friends informed police that Ciaramitaro was not shot nor injured, but was in hiding.

FILE SUIT TO COLLECT $40,000 INSURANCE OF EUGENE BYFIELD

Suit to recover $40,000 alleged to be due on an insurance policy held by the late Eugene Byfield, vice president of the Hotel Sherman, was begun yesterday in Superior court against the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company. The bill, filed by Ernest Byfield, a brother and president of the hotel, says the company has failed to pay the insurance. Eugene Byfield, a well known sportsman, died on Feb. 24 of a brain concussion, the result of being thrown from his polo pony during a practice match at the Chicago Riding club.

SECOND BODY IN WEEK IS FOUND NEAR SAME ROAD

Springfield, Ill., July 14.—[Special.]—The body of an unidentified man with a rope tied about his neck was found this afternoon near Edinburg, Christian county, the second to be found near the hard road between Springfield and Taylorville within a week.

The body found today was discovered by berry pickers. The victim is about 35 years old and partially clad. The body is decomposed.

The body of a man believed to be George Brown, a Canadian soldier, was discovered last Friday.

PARIS, July 14.—Bastille day, the French Fourth of July, was celebrated this year with the greatest and most colorful military review since the "Victory parade" of July 14, 1919, when world war troops marched under the Arc de Triumph.

The parade featured the army of Africa, depicting 100 years of colonial conquest and development.

CHICAGOANS CELEBRATE.

Bastille day was celebrated yesterday by Chicago's French colony at Pilsen Bohemian park, it also being the colony's 50th annual reunion. Alphonse Campion, its dean, was in charge. The program was given under the auspices of the Societe Française de Secours Mutuels and other Franco-American organizations.

Hoarding

Most great fortunes belong, not to those who have hoarded, but to those who have learned to "cast their bread" in an intelligent, purposeful way. Saving is primary; investment is only less primary because it must necessarily be preceded by saving. An analysis of large fortunes will demonstrate the importance of land as the "bread" of their development. Land is the basis of all wealth.

And 23,720 beauty experts the world over recommend Palmolive for keeping skin lovely.

IN Hollywood, beauty is not accepted as a gift of the gods and casually dismissed. Lovely women of the screen must rely upon professional beauty experts to keep their skin flawless for the tell-tale camera.

Perhaps that is why laws regarding beauty practice are so stringent in California. Every beauty shop owner in this state must be a licensed operator, and must know, thoroughly, how to care for the skin.

You can appreciate, then, the importance of this fact: 76 of the 80 beauty shops in Hollywood advise their patrons to use Palmolive Soap as the best means of keeping skin lovely between salon treatments. These 76 shops care for all the well-known stars of the screen. They are the Hollywood authorities on beauty culture! And all 76 of them consider Palmolive best!

The Hollywood treatment

The twice-a-day treatment advised by the Capital of Screenland is the very same method urged by the great beauty specialists all over Europe and America. Here it is:

Massage a lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water gently into the skin for about two minutes. Rinse this off with generous applications of warm water, then colder and colder. That final cold water rinse closes the pores, acts as an astringent.

You could use no finer daily care than this. And use Palmolive for the bath, as well. Millions do, all over the world. It costs no more than ordinary soaps, you know.

In every city in America are specialists who have spent years in study of the complexion. Go to one of them with your beauty problems regularly. Let them prescribe the daily treatment best suited to your skin.

CONCLUDE OLIVER TRIAL; JUDGE TO RETURN VERDICT

Defense Sees Political Consequences.

The fate of County Assessor Gene G. Oliver, who had been on trial for more than three weeks on charges of evading income taxes, is in the hands of Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, who continued the case until July 23 when arguments of counsel were concluded at 10:30 o'clock last night.

Judge Woodward tried the case without a jury, at the request of the defense counsel, who declared the nature of the evidence would prejudice the minds of ordinary citizens. Since the case was continued until July 23, a decision will not be rendered by the judge before that time.

In closing for the government, First Assistant United States Attorney Cassius Poust declared Oliver was worse than the twenty-eight "public enemies" listed by the Chicago crime commission.

Charges Violation of Trust.

"These men do not pretend to be anything but lawbreakers," he said. "They have no regard for and expect no consideration from society. But here is a man who occupies a position of public trust and who betrays it by accepting what he styles campaign contributions from men who appear before him with complaints on their property valuations."

The efforts of the government were styled by State Senator James J. Barbour, Oliver's counsel, as "a vicious prosecution designed to expose to four million people the shortcomings of one of their public officials." He charged that the prosecutors had devoted less attention to proving Oliver evaded his income taxes than to attempting to show he accepted bribes for fixing taxes.

The defense counsel predicted dire consequences to the Republican party of Cook county as a result of the Oliver prosecution.

"I venture to say," he declared, "that the legislature will wipe out both the board of assessors and the board of review as a result of this trial, and that the Democrats will carry off all the offices at the next election."

Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Grossman in his opening argument cited the case of a bootlegger who did not file income tax returns because he feared disclosure.

Feared Disclosure, Claimed.

"The same was true of Oliver," he said. "He filed no returns for 1926, 1927, and 1928 until Aug. 23, 1929, when he learned the government was checking up on him. And what did he do then? He merely estimated his net income at $10,000, $18,000, and $15,000, giving no information as to the source. He still feared a disclosure."

Mr. Grossman attacked the defense contention that the government's claims of income represent campaign contributions by referring to his bank deposits.

"In 1926, the evidence shows, he deposited $89,000 in the banks," Grossman said. "That was the year he ran for office. Now let us see how those deposits jumped in 1927. A total of $233,000 is shown, almost three times as much, in a year Oliver wasn't even running for office. That was the year of the quadrennial reassessment."

"All his deposits are explained as campaign contributions except one, the certificate of deposit which came from checks given by Werner A. Wieboldt. He couldn't call that a campaign contribution because Wieboldt was too explicit, so a dead man, Butch Douglas, was dragged in and it was called winnings on races."

BRIG. GEN. RUSSELL IS REPORTED SLATED TO HEAD U. S. MARINES

Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]—Reports that the state department is bringing pressure to bear to secure the appointment of Brig. Gen. John Russell, American high commissioner to Haiti, as the next commandant of the marine corps has stirred marine and naval circles. Although state department officials today deined any intention to interfere rumors persisted that the state department was exerting influence at the White House to secure Brig. Gen. Russell's appointment.

The appointment of successor to the late Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville is expected this week. President Hoover has given no indication as yet as to who he favors for the post but indications today were that he will pass over Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, senior officer of the marine corps, whose criticism of the administration's use of marines in Caribbean waters a few months ago resulted in his being asked for an explanation by Secretary of Navy Adams.

TOLL OF DEAD IN COREA FLOODS LEAPS TO 220

TOKIO, July 15 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The death toll of floods in southern Corea leaped to at least 220 today. A Taikyu dispatch to the Tokio Nichinichi said 117 perished in addition to 103 mentioned in dispatches from Seoul yesterday.

The dispatch indicated floods in Keishohokudo province were the worst of the last week's series of disasters in southern Corea. One river rose sixteen feet in a few hours, washing away a Buddhist temple, fifty monks of which were reported missing.

BOMBAY HALTS MOVE TO FREE REVOLT LEADER

Motion to Release Gandhi Is Withdrawn.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, July 14.—The Bombay presidency government, now in session at Poona, escaped defeat today, only by inducing the withdrawal of a motion calling for the immediate release of Mahatma Gandhi, civil disobedience leader, from prison. Unquestionably India's "holy man" is still a popular hero and one word by him would put an instant end to civil disobedience, observers declare.

Mr. Gandhi's imprisonment also figured today in the debate of the legislative assembly at Simla, where Minister of Law and Order Haig said that, although Mr. Gandhi could be prosecuted successfully under the ordinary law, the Indian government thought the public's interest would be better servede by Gandhi's detention under the Bombay regulations.

Moslems Condemn Revolt.

While the All-India Moslem league, in session at Simla, voted disapproval of civil disobedience, it also urged the government to repeal all repressive measures. At the same time the league expressed the view that the recommendations of the Simon commission were unsatisfactory and inadequate.

In the Bombay legislature, the government forces, after lining up all possible supporters, discovered that the motion for Gandhi's release made by Dr. Nariman would prevail. An urgent meeting of the cabinet was called and the motion was withdrawn.

Wears Gandhi Cap in Commons.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—A Gandhi cap, the symbol of the Indian revolt, was worn in the house of commons today when Fenner Brockway, left wing Socialist, was heckling the government over the order forbidding it to be worn in India.

"Put it on," shouted a Conservative member, and Mr. Brockway did, wearing it a few minutes.

BRITAIN FEARS EGYPT HEADED FOR REVOLT TO DETHRONE KING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—The British government is much worried about the situation in Egypt. It is afraid that it may become involved, against its will, in an Egyptian revolution growing out of the domestic quarrel and situation which has arisen due to the interplay of politics between King Faud and Nahas Pasha, who recently resigned as prime minister and is leader of the Wafd or independence party.

The Wafd has always been opposed to the king, who is said to have displayed too much independence in judgment, and its policies are said to have been either to depose him and proclaim a republic or replace him with a minor, who could be controlled for years by Wafd politicians.

Great Britain's anxiety is that if Nehas Pasha tries to stage an open revolution, as he is expected to do, it will devolve on British troops to protect foreigners and they may, therefore, be brought into direct contest with the Egyptians.

Paris Shivers in Cold Spell; Snowfall Is Recorded

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 14.—A few flurries of real snow fell here today, immediately developing into rain. The unseasonable cool spell continued throughout the national holiday, Bastille day, with a stiff breeze blowing. It was so chilly that women were forced to wear jackets, coats, and neck pieces.

As noiseless as the good old icebox— and far less expensive

WHAT'S the use of putting up with old-fashioned refrigeration when you can have the very newest, finest automatic kind for less money?

Electrolux not only costs you less than ice but is cheaper than any other automatic system. A few pennies a day is the usual operating cost.

Figure the saving yourself. It doesn't take long for this marvelous refrigerator to return you its purchase price.

And right from the first you have perfect automatic cold—cold that never stops and starts, that varies scarcely at all from the ideal point. You have pure sparkling ice cubes, all you need, any hour of the day and night.

But never any care or worry. Never any responsibility. Electrolux needs no attention, almost needs no thought. You can't tell it's in your kitchen, except for the perfect service it gives.

No noise. Not a whisper of sound as long as you live, for there is nothing about this refrigerator to make sound. Not one single moving part does it have. Not a speck of machinery. And so of course no friction, vibration or wear—not any of the troubles that go with these evils.

A tiny gas flame and a trickle of water do all the work, take the place of moving mechanism in Electrolux. They circulate the vital chilling liquid that actually makes the cold. The liquid alternately expands to vapor and condenses back again. That's all there is to it. This endless cycle goes on indefinitely.

The liquid is hermetically sealed inside a rigid one-piece steel unit, with no openings of any kind. It never needs renewal. Even the tiny little gas flame is protected at all times. Should the flame ever go out, the gas automatically shuts off, and stays off until you are ready to light it once more.

With all these advantages you might think that the price of Electrolux was higher than other automatic refrigerators. It's not. $195 to $430, f. o. b. Evansville are the prices, covering a wide range of sizes and models.

Kitchenette model shown above, freezes 36 large ice cubes at one time, and has 6.45 sq. feet of shelf space.

QUICK FACTS!

1. Permanently noiseless.
2. Absolutely safe.
3. Only a few cents a day to operate.
4. Lasts indefinitely.
5. No mechanism to wear, to vibrate, to need oil.
6. Free from trouble.
7. Perpetual, steady cold.
8. Plenty of pure ice cubes.
9. Tested and endorsed by national authorities.

JOBLESS CRISIS IS EXAGGERATED, BRITAIN IS TOLD

Government Cites Figures to Prove It.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—The Labor government, which is facing a serious crisis in its own party owing to its failure to deal with the unemployment problem, is making a desperate effort to show that the situation is not as bad as it is painted.

The official number of unemployed now is 1,896,600. A set of figures has been issued which is intended to show that the real unemployment is only about half of that number, and that in view of the fact that about 600,000 were normally unemployed before the war there has really been an increase in employment, taking into account the increased population.

How It Is Figured.

It is also pointed out that of the total on the list, about 700,000 should be described as "suspended, but employed." These include many thousands of workmen, such as builders, carpenters, etc., working on contracts, who report themselves unemployed every time a job is finished and who probably are at work again for the same contractor within two or three days.

Then there are 100,000 miners, who are admitted to be a permanent surplus and who must be absorbed by other trades, while the steel and cotton trades are both temporarily depressed, according to the report.

On the other hand, it is pointed out, new industries are daily absorbing more labor, and it is indicated that the real problem is not so much of making more work, but of giving increased mobility to labor, which is frozen in dying trades and declining localities.

Seeks New Dole Fund.

In a desperate effort to provide food for the army of unemployed, the government intends to seek authority of parliament to borrow another $50,000,000 in order to maintain the solvency of the unemployment insurance fund.

Although the maximum for this fund was originally set at $200,000,000, the Laborites succeeded in raising the ante $50,000,000 last March. A demand for another such sum is expected to meet with lively opposition in parliament, where the dole has powerful enemies among the Conservatives.

The minister of labor, which today issued a memorandum concerning the new demand to make the maximum $300,000,000, says this sum will last until March, 1932, providing the average number of unemployed is 1,500,000.

2 MEXICO TOWNS ARM FOR "WAR" AFTER TEN DIE

AYUTLA, Guerrero, Mexico, July 14.—(AP)—The killing of ten persons and wounding of many others in a fight yesterday between the rival villagers of Cahuatache and Zoyatlan today roused both sides to warlike preparations.

Great excitement prevailed in both villages, and further clashes were feared. The trouble arose from a dispute over the boundary line of communal lands.

The villagers of Cahuatache allege they were attacked by men from Zoyatlan while peacefully working in the fields. Most of the dead and wounded were among the men of the former village. The survivors are said to be preparing a swift reprisal.

ITALY AGREES TO NAVAL HOLIDAY FOR SIX MONTHS

Negotiations with France to Go Ahead.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 14.—The much advertised "naval holiday" for six months between France and Italy has now become a reality.

The Italian ambassador to Paris today handed the Quai d'Orsay a favorable answer from the Rome government to Foreign Minister Briand's suggestion of an agreement not to lay down the keels of any new war vessels before the end of December in hope that the difficulties between the two countries will be ironed out by that time.

In diplomatic circles here considerable relief is felt over the Italian reply, especially since it was erroneously reported that Premier Mussolini was going to reply with some sort of counter proposition.

French Have Two Motives.

Actually the term "holiday" means little. The French have two motives in not starting new constructions within the next six months. First, the program for the year is already complete. Second, the shipyards are so busy filling orders placed by the navy earlier in the year that they will not be clear for six months. It is presumed here that the same situation exists in Italy.

No formal treaty has been signed between the two countries. The French note and the Italian reply really constitute a gentlemen's agreement.

While the agreement means little from a naval standpoint, it has immense psychological importance, and is calculated to relieve the tension. Benefiting from this improved atmosphere, diplomats of both countries hope to settle the major problems before the holiday comes to an end. The importance of this is seen when it is recalled that the recent Franco-Italian negotiations were broken off due to the popular excitement stirred up by Mussolini's belligerent speeches.

British Plans Unaffected.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—The fact that the French government has accepted Italy's proposal for a naval shipbuilding holiday will have no effect on Great Britain's construction plans for 1930, according to Prime Minister MacDonald, who was questioned on this subject in the house of commons today by Lieutenant Commander Kenworthy, a former naval officer and now a member of Mr. MacDonald's own party.

"It is not necessary that we take any action since our 1930 program is purely necessary replacement within the tonnage limits imposed by the three party treaty," Mr. MacDonald said. "Our intention to carry out this program is well understood by the powers represented at the London conference."

"Is the prime minister aware that French ships which are not to be laid down until the end of the year are also described as for replacement purposes? Could we not postpone, also?" asked Commander Kenworthy.

The prime minister replied that the French government never said the ships on its program were for replacement purposes, while on the other hand the United States, France, Italy, and Japan clearly understood that the British program was in no sense competitive.

to Senator Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], chairman of the naval affairs committee, as a "pinhead."

Still another story is that the suppressed documents contain evidence of a secret understanding between the American and Japanese delegates that in consideration of Japanese acceptance of the navy settlement the United States would repeal the Japanese exclusion act and give Japan an immigration quota. Steps have already been taken to obtain such legislation from congress.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] assailed the President in a senate speech today for refusing to furnish the secret documents.

President Criticized.

"The President says that to give you any information of a confidential nature about a treaty made with our country would be a breach of confidence on his part," said McKellar. "It is inconceivable that any President would take such a position. President Hoover is willing to violate in spirit the constitution of the United States, to disregard its mandate of equality between himself and the senate, to affront ninety-six senators elected by the people, rather than to affront representatives of foreign nations. The President is surely an internationalist. He has more regard for the representatives of Great Britain, Japan, or France or Italy, apparently, than he had for members of the United States senate who are his co-equals in the treaty making power."

Senator Tasker L. Oddie [Rep., Nev.] delivered a lengthy speech opposing ratification of the treaty on the ground that it fails to establish parity with Britain and increases the ratio of Japan. Senator Robinson of Arkansas defended the pact.

OFFERS LONDON NAVAL TREATY TO BRITISH HOUSE

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—A. V Alexander, first lord of the admiralty today presented a bill giving effect to the London naval treaty, so far as Great Britain is concerned, for approval of the house of commons. The bill was formally read for the first time, and there was no discussion.

The bill will have to pass through the normal stages of two more readings in commons, with the committee stage between them, and then go to the house of lords for three readings and a committee stage.

It was impossible today to forecast when a final vote would be taken, as the date of second reading in commons was not announced, and much depends on the attitude of the house of lords. It is possible the government will introduce special measures to hurry the bill through its various stages.

CASE IS ACCUSED BY MAGUIRE AS HEARING OPENS

Election Officials Called to Witness Stand.

The hearing of charges that Fred V. Maguire, chairman of the board of election commissioners since 1924, has employed persons with police records as judges and clerks of elections, opened yesterday before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles Center Case, who brought the petition for ouster, was accused of starting the action in bad faith not only to remove Maguire but to work toward the defeat of Judge Jarecki, a candidate for re-election this fall.

The accusations against Case were made in Maguire's answer to charges against him, which were read by his attorney, Albert Fink. The answer stated that Case had not brought the action for the purpose of redressing a public wrong but merely to further his own political purposes. Case served as attorney for the board from July 16, 1928 until last March 31.

Makes Charges Against Case.

According to the answer, Case turned against Maguire on March 31 because of the latter's refusal to comply with certain demands which he deemed improper. Case resigned in the belief that such a gesture would cause Judge Jarecki to remove Maguire, Attorney Fink said.

Judge Jarecki refused to take such action and appointed Francis X. Busch to succeed Case, the answer stated, continuing that the Deneen faction, of which Case is a member, was disappointed because Judge Jarecki appointed Mabel G. Reinecke as a Republican member of the board thus ousting the Deneen faction from control in the selection of Republican election judges and clerks.

"Case so contrived that he procured his appointment as special assistant state's attorney on the representation that he had acquired such detailed and intimate information as to the frauds and improper practices to which Maguire was believed to be a party, and on the representation that if he were entrusted with the prosecution, he could encompass the removal of Maguire and the defeat of Judge Jarecki," Mr. Fink's answer stated. "The present proceedings were begun for no other reason."

Suggests Contempt Action.

Attorney Fink asks that if it is shown that the proceedings were not brought in good faith the judge order contempt proceedings against guilty parties. Attorney Fink said that in his opinion State's Attorney Swanson was not implicated in the scheme of Case, but that he had "been sold a gold brick."

Judge Jarecki said that, as he was named as an interested party, he might be disqualified from presiding at the hearings. However, he said, the statutes designate him to sit and he will have to do so. Attorneys Case and Fink agreed that he should continue.

The answer for Maguire denied that he had confirmed or appointed unfit persons to act as judges and clerks. It pointed that more than 15,000 such officials are needed. Maguire admitted that unfit persons have served, "as must inevitably be the case in large cities."

Case Calls First Witness.

Attorney Case called as his first witness James Madia, 23 years old, 3013 Princeton avenue, a judge of election at the April 8 primary. The attorney tried to show that Madia was under indictment on three robbery charges. Madia repeatedly refused to answer questions on this point.

Judge Jarecki interrupted: "At no time did I ever ask a person appearing before me to confess to any crime, because I have taken an oath to support the constitution, and that provides a bill of rights for every man and forbids any man to do that."

Policemen William Tanurka and James Battle testified that they had arrested Madia as a robbery suspect. He was later indicted for two robberies on registration day, March 11, and another last Jan. 29, they said.

At this point Miss Eliza Haley, a teacher and sister of Margaret Haley, head of the Chicago Teachers' federation, interrupted to charge that Case had protected election violators several years ago. She mentioned Earl J. Niemeyer, who, she said, was registered from a vacant lot. She said Case did nothing when she brought the matter to his attention. Niemeyer is a brother of Case's law partner, Grover C. Niemeyer, Miss Haley declared. Judge Jarecki told her she might give her evidence to Attorney Fink.

Henry Watts, colored, 1036 West 14th street, former clerk of elections in the 29th precinct of the 20th ward, testified that he voted 14 times in the April, 1928, primaries for City Collector Morris Eller, boss of the 20th ward. He said his name had been stricken from the eligible list of election officials before he had switched from the Eller to the Deneen faction.

Mrs. Hattie Brown, 328 South Laflin street, testified that William Fellow, a judge of election at the 22d precinct of the 27th ward, was a blackmailer.

Over the objection of Attorney Case, Cornelius J. Harrington was allowed to represent the Democratic County Central committee at the hearings. The hearing was continued until today.

UPDIKE ESCAPES JAIL FOR THIRTY DAYS BY PAYING UP ALIMONY

Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]—Ralph Eugene Updike, former member of the house of representatives from Indiana, escaped a thirty day jail sentence late today when his attorney produced $32.50 in alimony due his estranged wife. When the alimony case came before Justice Jennings Bailey this morning and Updike failed to appear the court held him in contempt and sentenced him to thirty days. An order for his arrest was delivered to a deputy United States marshal who made two fruitless trips to Updike's office in an endeavor to locate him.

Mrs. Updike filed a bill of complaint several days ago, alleging that her husband had failed to pay alimony as directed by Justice Bailey. When this was brought to the attention of the court today Justice Bailey adjudged Updike in contempt and pronounced sentence. Now that the back alimony has been paid, no further court action is contemplated.

Enjoy All Cod Liver Oil's Benefits

Take Tablets Free from Fishy Taste

Scientific wonders never cease—in fact they have only just commenced. An ingenious new mechanism has been invented which shows how ripe a peach is.

Still another clever invention successfully extracts the flesh, bone, strength and energy increasing elements from pure vitamin-tested Norwegian cod liver oil and puts them into sugar-coated tablets.

They are called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets—all druggists have them for sale—and there isn't a man, woman or child with a thin, weak body or rundown system who can't get at least the same benefit from McCoy's as from the finest cod liver oil. The only thing missing is the fishy taste, which nobody likes.

Mrs. Henry H. Manchester of Maywood, N. J., who says that most children hate liquid medicine but that it is easy to give them tablets, finds McCoy's wonderfully beneficial for promptly increasing the weight and strength of her little son. Is it any wonder when you consider that every last weight and strength building element found in cod liver oil is also present in McCoy's in a form that the most delicate stomach easily tolerates?

McCoy's have been tested and approved by the Good Housekeeping Bureau of Foods, Sanitation and Health. And guarantees them—60 tablets 60 cents. For sale at any Walgreen or Economical Drug Store.

THE AMERICAN NAVY AND THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Supporters of the naval treaty say that the objections to it are trivial when they are stated in tonnage and that the difference between what is granted and what was asked is negligible. Mr. Stimson has said that the agreement was the best which could be obtained. But what is now negligible in Washington was paramount in London. The United States had to concede the point to preserve the conference and get the treaty. The opposition to the agreement stands on the ground which the American delegates were compelled to abandon.

It does not seem reasonable that what was a critical point of difference in London should be unimportant in Washington later, and, of course, it is not. It is the test of the treaty now just as it was the test of the conference before. If it had been unimportant it would not have been given decisive weight by the British. The British policy prevailed.

The American fleet under the treaty is not designed to operate beyond Bermuda in the Atlantic or beyond Hawaii in the Pacific. In itself the treaty fleet will be a front door fleet. The more large cruisers the American navy has the further it can extend its protection of American trade and possessions.

The tonnage the United States is not allowed to put in large cruisers it may put in small cruisers. This class of ship with six inch guns is designed against submarines and for trade protection when a navy has many bases, as the British have. It is a British requirement to have the small cruisers or destroyer leaders. The American navy so composed will complement the British navy. The two together can rule the sea and virtually dictate peace if they are operated together. Violent disturbance of world conditions could be prevented by this joint operation. There would be no apprehensions regarding the British empire under such a sea rule, but the American navy alone could not get far beyond its own shores against any serious opposition.

It may be a good thing to have world peace guaranteed by such a combination of sea power, but the primary beneficiary is Great Britain, and the United States, although a beneficiary, is a secondary one. America would not gain anything if the confusion which prevails in China and Russia were spread to other lands and if the British empire finally were broken down. But the United States should not be the implied partner in a stabilizing arrangement and be put in an inferior position detrimental in case the arrangement did not work out or was abandoned for another.

The disputed tonnage which was so important in London and seems to be regarded as so unimportant in Washington should have been conceded to the American naval policy and not retained for the British. Then the American navy could have gone further under its own steam and, being sufficient for America on its own, would not have been less valuable in coöperation with the British. The United States would not, then, have been so dependent on the working of an implied alliance, but could have accepted the future with or without a British understanding.

It must be kept in mind that if this distinction had not been the very core of the naval negotiations they would not have hinged upon it. That they did so is apparent to every one. It was for a sufficient reason now put in the background by treaty supporters in the senate.

THE REV. MR. COTTON MATHER WINS A BALL GAME.

Mr. Wrigley's Civic Players lost two ball games in Boston Sunday and thereby did themselves no particular good, it not being the time of the year when a championship team cares to drop two in a second division basket. The first one went the way of lost ball games, but the second turned out to be exhibit A of several phases of American life.

The good old Bay state probably never will get out of the ancestral hair shirt and haywire. Every now and then its nose will turn blue and it will send out a constable to discover what is being done and to stop it, to frown on a child with candy or take a book away from an adult, to close a theater or cut down a Maypole. Its cosmos is mostly Cotton Mather.

Sunday baseball was forbidden for years, but lately there was a slight yielding on the side of moral radicalism and a law was passed permitting games to be played between 2 and 6 p. m. These being the normal hours of the game, there might seem to be no reason for indicating them as moral. There might be a reason for forbidding morning games because of church services, but ordinarily the ball parks do not bid for customers Sunday morning. The ball team managements were not content to take the privilege of playing one game, but sought to increase the box office receipts by offering the newly released freemen a bargain attraction of two.

Consequently the Cubs were trying to win the second game with time running out and the police with their eyes on the clock. They entered the first half of the ninth with the score 3 to 0 against them. They scored four runs and with one out and the dead line almost on them took two deliberate outs and tried to hustle the Boston team through the last half before 6 o'clock without permitting a change in the score. It couldn't be done, with the Boston team laying back its ears, digging its heels in the ground and waiting for the curfew.

At 6 o'clock the playing of baseball became immoral. The constable descended into the field and the score reverted to what it was at the end of the eighth inning, 3 to 0 in favor of Boston and sound morality. Americans have been a long time in perceiving what was really contained in Jefferson's statement of the inalienable right of the pursuit of happiness. Massachusetts makes it clear. It is pursuit with a writ, a censor, a constabule and an ax. It must be said for the boys with the hereditary blue nose that they catch up with it more often than it avoids them.

THE BAR AND PROHIBITION.

The executive committee of the American Bar association has recognized that there is a distinction between the question whether the membership ought to give an opinion upon prohibition and the question whether they favor the repeal of the 18th amendment.

In THE TRIBUNE'S opinion, frequently expressed, there is a duty upon the association as the representative body of the legal profession to express itself upon prohibition, whether its membership approves of the 18th amendment or not. This duty we think has been avoided on erroneous grounds. The fact that prohibition has become a bitterly contested question in political policy could not deprive that question of its significance as a departure from fundamental principles of the constitution, to say nothing of the principles inherent in the nature of all municipal law or its bearing upon the science of government. On the contrary, the fact that the question is bitterly contested in the political arena seems to us to make it all the more desirable that the legal fraternity should make itself heard upon the issues involved. The lawyer is supposed to be specially informed as to the history and meaning of our constitutional system and also in the science of law. The bar ought therefore to recognize a duty to give the public the benefit of its special knowledge and training. We hope a disposition to avoid disagreeable controversy or serious responsibility will not prevail in the referendum, but that a manly regard for a clear professional duty will insure a full expression by the membership.

To save time, the executive committee has also sent out a ballot upon the repeal of the 18th amendment. This will not be counted if the response to the question whether a referendum shall be held is in the negative. It is to be hoped it will be affirmative and also that the resolution in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment will be decisively carried. As to the immediate concrete effects of the prohibition experiment, lawyers are not much better informed than laymen. But they are or should be better equipped to understand its inherent weakness from the standpoint of the science of law and government and the gravity of the departure it represents from the fundamentals of our American system. Lawyers do or ought to know the nature and limitations of political action and of municipal law. They do or ought to know something of the past experience of our own people and of other countries from which our legal policies and our system of law and government has sprung. They do or ought to know the history of our constitution and the principles expressed in it. We realize that in latter years legal education has been defective in this field. Nevertheless we have a right to seek from the profession of the law such special enlightenment as it can give and such restraint upon uninstructed lay experiment as the moral fervor of uninformed and untrained lay enthusiasts does not provide.

We think the bar not only should express itself unequivocally upon the 18th amendment but by public discussion and pronouncement should elucidate the profound questions of law and government involved. The prohibition amendment was injected into our fundamental law without a proper consideration of these issues. It was the greatest error in our history and would not have been committed, we think, if the American bar had been awake to its responsibilities.

LINCOLN'S BAD GUESS FOR THE 1930 CENSUS.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

President Lincoln, in his message to congress in 1862, donned the prophet's robe and estimated that the country's population in 1930 would total 251,680,914. The census bureau's estimate of the total in the current count is 122,597,000, which discloses Mr. Lincoln's guess as considerably wide of the mark. The Lincoln estimates, together with the actual census returns [estimated for 1930], are as follows:

| Date. | Lincoln. | Census. |
|---|---|---|
| 1870 | 42,323,341 | 38,558,371 |
| 1880 | 56,967,216 | 50,155,783 |
| 1890 | 76,677,872 | 62,947,714 |
| 1900 | 103,208,415 | 75,994,575 |
| 1910 | 138,918,526 | 91,972,266 |
| 1920 | 186,984,335 | 105,710,620 |
| 1930 | 251,680,914 | 122,597,000 |

Lincoln knew that the country's population growth for each decade from 1790 to 1860 had averaged 34.6 per cent, with slight variation; hence his generous figures, for he expected the gain to continue at that rate. For the first 60 years of our nation, the natural increase was almost unique in the world's history. It was the expansion of a new and virile people in a new and virgin land. The percentage remained high in the 1860 census because of a tremendous influx of immigrants in the previous decade. But the huge genetic increase had ended, and the rate now is about the same as that for European and other settled countries.

Statisticians' hind-sight now discloses why Lincoln overestimated. The civil war was a check to population growth, and two subsequent wars also had their effect. Growing competition in making a livelihood has been a deterrent. The cityward rush gave rise to life under new conditions which diminished the number of large families. Immigration has been materially restricted. The agricultural depression has delayed development of farm lands in the west, counted on by early prophets to swell the nation's numbers. Lincoln could not know that these things would reduce the decennial increase from 34.6 per cent in the nation's first seven decades to 21.5 per cent in the next seven, with a trend to a still lower average.

CANCER PASTES.

THE paste treatment of cancer is about the oldest and the poorest. The method of treatment has come down to us from the dark ages, having survived partly because it had some merit. Some other reasons for survival are mentioned later.

They are essentially the same now as when they began their vogue. The ingredient which does the work is a mineral caustic such as zinc or arsenic ointment, and in this particular they are all the same essentially. We read wild claims for newly discovered paste cures, but the fact is the chemists, with all their wonder working, have not found anything for a cancer paste that is any better than zinc and arsenic. These claims for new paste cures for cancer, with all the advertising given them and some hocus pocus, are another reason for the continuance of the paste treatment.

The variations in the paste as different discoverers have developed them or claimed to do so have consisted in changing the color, odor, or consistency by changing the ingredient used to dilute this zinc or arsenic. One proprietor will use magic mud; another, a distillate of muck; another, something else. One will stir in some glycerin; another, some grease. One will add a dye; another, a deodorant. But all build around a metallic burning agent—generally zinc and sometimes arsenic.

Do they cure? Yes, they cure a moderate part of the ordinary skin cancers. Radium, X-rays, carbonic acid snow, cautery, or operation are surer cures and less painful, but the fact remains that pastes cure some cases. Even the poorest pastes remove some cancers and the ulcer does not return. However, there is no reason for choosing a poor method when a better one is available.

When it comes to cancers elsewhere than on the skin, pastes are seldom of value. They are used in cancer of the breast, but the probability is that applied in this location the only tumors they cure are not cancers and in little danger of becoming so. They are rarely used on cancer of the lips. The danger from cancer of the nose, eyelids, ears, and lips is far too great to take chances on cancer pastes.

Radium is now reasonably available. X-rays are about at get-at-able as zinc or arsenic, and there is a surgeon within two hours' ride of almost every one. With so much choice the use of a cancer paste is rarely good judgment.

TREATMENT FOR BOILS.

Mrs. H. N. writes: Can you suggest a cure for boils? My husband has had them off and on for nearly a year. He has tried several cures, such as taking yeast [for 16 months], vaccine, and light, but he still has them. One doctor suggested killing them with carbolic acid as soon as they appeared. He has had a blood test.

REPLY:

Has he been examined for diabetes? How is his blood sugar? What is his work? Does his work expose his skin to irritants, oils, or undue amount of dust? If he can find a cause for his trouble and avoid it prevention is easy.

Among more important causes are: diabetes, diet too rich in sugar and starch, irritation of the skin. The use of a boil phage is effective if the cause has been removed.

OFTEN IS DIFFICULT.

P. H. writes: Some five months ago I was operated on for removal of gall bladder and appendix. Since then the wound has drained constantly, healing for a time and then bursting.

REPLY:

If you mean that bile is still flowing from the wound your surgeon should try to divert it into the digestive tract and close the opening.

PEOPLE AND DISEASES VARY.

J. Y. writes: Why do some tubercular patients in fairly good condition run a little temperature on hot days, in the afternoon, while others are not affected by the heat?

REPLY.

People vary. So do diseases. Some people have fever on slight provocation. Others are different. Consumption may be accompanied by high fever. In some cases there is very little. As a rule, tuberculosis of the infantile type in adults carries considerable infection. That of the other type usually carries less.

As a rule tuberculosis with a tendency to fever is more serious than one with less of this tendency.

TAX ON CAPITAL STOCK.

Chicago, July 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My company is incorporated for $25,000. For the last three years the board of county assessors has added $1,000 to the declared value of our personal property and assessed it at the same rate as a capital stock tax. 1. Can the county levy on capital stock, [2] the tax on which has been paid annually to the state? 3. If so, what is the legal rate? E. W. B.

1. The capital stock tax is aimed to cover the excess in value of the capital stock above the value of the assets.
2. The fact that you have paid a franchise tax does not mean that there is double taxation.
3. See preceding answers.

CLEANED UP.

Chicago, July 14.—[Friend of the People.]—The alley between Turner and Spaulding at 59th street is a dumping ground for the entire neighborhood. Everything is being dumped here from garbage to hot water tanks and broken glass. An automobile cannot go through the alley without getting its tires cut. Can't something be done? H. K.

Report is made that conditions complained of have been remedied. Offenders were notified to stop further dumping and to provide proper receptacles for accommodation of refuse output. "No Dumping" signs have been ordered and a sign will be erected on the vacant property when delivered.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. WMS.

AND STILL EVERYBODY WANTS TO BE ONE.

The senate gets blamed for about everything, and if you ask a senator he'll tell you the job's no snap, but still everybody seems to think it would be mighty nice to get in the senate. It's funny. For instance, the news from Washington said yesterday that the senate's got to work overtime now on the naval treaty thing. They have to hit the time clock at eleven o'clock instead of high noon and stay in session until much later than the usual time for shutting up shop. And before they get through maybe they'll have to carry their lunch in a tin dinner pail and push a ham sandwich and a couple of pickles in their coat-tail pocket for dinner.

Then we all think that when a man gets to be a U. S. senator he needn't worry any more, but gosh, senators run the same chance of losing their jobs as the rest of us. Right now there's a dozen or more of 'em who are scared stiff that they'll be out of work after the election next fall. The farmers seem to be a little sore about wheat fooling around down in the 80's and corn and cotton heaven knows where, and of course they'll blame the senate. The poor old senate gets blamed for everything from a thunderstorm to the boll weevils eating up the cotton crop.

But about this job thing, when the rest of us lose our jobs we have a chance of working somewhere else, but there's no place where a senator can find good work senating except right there in Washington. And his board and keep costs more in Washington than it would anywhere else, and he's got to wear pretty good clothes, including a silk hat and a long tailed black coat. And when you add the price of a silk hat and a long tailed black coat to the several hundred thousand bucks that he has to spend to get elected to the senate you can see for yourself that a man has got to watch his grocery and meat bill pretty close in order to do it all on twelve thousand dollars a year.

THE FRENCH celebrated yesterday the fall of the Bastille. But there's a fly in the ointment. If the doggoned old Bastille had fallen and not been pulled down after it fell (figure it out yourself) the French today would be charging deux franc per head for visitors and the American tourists would be standing in line a mile long waiting their turn. Which reminds us "that," as Cleopatra said to Marc Antony, "there is no rose without one of them doggoned thorns."

Our Own Health Hints Dept. for Chicago in Mid-July.

If your ears are white and look as though they would break off in your hands if you touch them, rub carefully with snow until circulation is restored. For chilblains soak the dogs in ice-cold water until they begin to tingle. For frozen noses rub with a handful of snow and keep up the treatment the same as for frozen ears. For snow blindness stay in darkened room a few hours. For injuries received from falling while walking on the icy pavements smear affected parts with large gobs of arnica. And when the doc comes tell him that in addition to falling on the ice you are pretty sure a rattlesnake bit you and maybe he will give you a prescription for a pint or two of Canadian rye extract. You're very welcome. Any little help that we can give you, we will. Call in again.

A Combination That's Going to Be Hard to Beat.

The drys explain Mr. Morrow's sweeping victory in New Jersey by saying that half of the electorate were voting for Lindy and the other half for Anne, but that "he will suffer an overwhelming defeat if he runs for the presidency in 1932." How come? Why won't the whole proletariat vote for Lindy and Anne with the same enthusiasm the folks did down in Jersey? And gosh, even the people who wouldn't vote for Grandpa or Lindy or even Anne will vote for the baby. And how! Yessir, drys, you're all wrong; you forgot the baby.

HEY, MR. LEGGE! LOOK OUT FOR BOBBY!

Mr. Legge, the Farmer's Friend, is still out barnstorming through the west, explaining (but don't ask us how) his scheme for American farmers to grow rich by growing less wheat, since those mean old Russian farmers are figgering on growing rich by growing more. With all due respect to Mr. Legge's turkey show, it's our suspicion the farmer is walking out on him. We were out in the grain belt Saturday, and it looked to us as though all the farmers have already stopped planting corn and wheat and have substituted midget golf courses as their principal crop. It'll only take the resignation of Mr. Legge and the appointment of Bobby Jones as chairman of the farm board for us to be sure of it.

LAGNIAPPE.

EARL CARROLL has got himself barred from landing in England on account of the girls in his show not wearing much but ostrich fans. We suppose that next Mr. Carroll will arrange for the Royal Household Guards and the Mediterranean fleet to be mobilized at Southampton to forcibly resist his coming ashore. And meantime the show goes on, and oh, gosh! how the money rolls in. Mr. Carroll certainly knows his saps.

THE NEWSPAPERS said yesterday that the Army and Navy club of Manila would have a club outside a government reservation that would be dripping wet because, while the constitution follows the flag in the Philippines, the Volstead act doesn't. WASHINGTON, D. CHICAGO.—Five hundred striking workmen assembled in Uhlich's hall to hear a pledge from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the national organization will stand by the Chicago Building Trades council in its battle against the contractors, which has been in progress for five months.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Katalia Mayer, wife of John Mayer and eldest daughter of the late Theodore Havemeyer, died suddenly in her home under what appear to be mysterious circumstances. Every effort was made by the family to keep the cause of death a secret. Mrs. Mayer, who was in the prime of life and active in social circles, had just returned from the Havemeyer-Whitney wedding at Newport. It is rumored that she had a disagreement with another member of the family and that she shot herself, but at the house it could not be learned whether the wound had been inflicted accidentally or otherwise.

TIENTSIN. — At noon today the British and American allies unsuccessfully attempted to capture a Chinese 15-pounder, mounted last night, which was enfilading the advanced position of the allies. For two hours early in the morning the Chinese shelled the settlements from the native city. The British and Japanese guns shelled the forts from the viceroy's and Yamen's city gates. It is estimated that over 500 shells fell in the settlement.

LONDON. — A Shanghai dispatch says: "Sheng, director of telegraphs, has communicated a message to the consuls here announcing the murder of the foreigners in Peking and laying the blame on the anti-foreign Gen. Tung-Fuh-Siang. The message says that none of the foreigners is left alive."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Senator John Henry Gear of Iowa died suddenly of heart disease at the age of 75. He was governor of Iowa from 1878 to 1882, served two terms in the national house of representatives and was elected senator in 1895.

CHICAGO.—Parley P. Christensen of Salt Lake City was nominated for President by the Farmer-Labor convention early this morning. Max Hayes of Cleveland, O., a member of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, was nominated for Vice President.

IN PRAISE OF TROLLEY BUSES.

Chicago, July 7.—In the last few months the street car company has installed electric buses on several outlying streets and one cannot help but voice a few words of praise for this vastly improved means of transportation. It seems, too, that this is a big step forward in solving our traffic congestion problem. Comfortable, well lighted, easy riding coaches that can wend their way through traffic, pulling over to the curb to load or unload passengers, allowing other traffic to keep on its way and no chance of a reckless motorist endangering the lives of the car riding public. Should a breakdown occur to one bus those following can continue on their regular schedules with no delay whatever. Quiet operation; elimination of the big expense of laying and maintaining tracks; in fact, so much can be said in their favor it is to be hoped that it will not be long before the street car will take its place alongside the horse and buggy as something that was just tolerated in days gone by and give way to this wonderful modern means of transportation. M. R. J.

TOO SLOW.

Chicago, July 8.—The new feeder buses on Elston avenue are quite the berries for looks, and all that, but, my gosh, why do they have to go so darn slow?

CHRISTY ANDERSON.

QUIETER CARS.

Chicago, July 7.—Today the running gear of a street car is no better than the running gear of a common freight car as far as workmanship and noise are concerned. Street cars can be made noiseless and a pleasure to ride in and I believe the street car engineering staff can design a noiseless car if given permission to do so.

I would like to suggest that the car designers give a thought to the following items.

Pressed steel wheels; for deadening noise.

Driving gears; staggered or herringbone type to prevent backlash and gears to be fully inclosed in oil.

Center casting upper bolster plate to have a heavy rubber cushioning insulating car body from running gear; this will prevent any shocks or vibrations to the car body.

TENNIS IN HUMBOLDT PARK.

Chicago, Ill., July 8.—West Side Tennis Fan, whose letter was printed in today's paper, makes those of us who live near Humboldt park feel twice as bad. Although we have room for thirty courts, not one of them is in first class condition, which is worse than four good out of twenty, as in Garfield. Is there any good reason why the west parks' tennis courts are not red clay, cement, or crushed stone instead of the worn out sod and dirt combination, which is most unsatisfactory? As a public convenience for both the tennis and soccer players a comfort station ought to be built at this location, as well as near the baseball fields and bicycle track. ANOTHER FAN.

ON LAWS.

Chicago, July 9.—Why all this grumbling about laws? I can go back and forth day after day, year after year, in business or pleasure and never know that I am running afoul of one of these bugaboo laws. I can go to a play, banquet, baseball game, any old place, and never know that one of these dreadful laws is standing like a specter in my pathway. I can travel from New York to San Francisco, or from the north pole to the equator, and never know that I am bumping into a law, and I have been going it these sixty-yes, sixty plus—years, in these United States.

I wonder how any one recognizes a law when he meets it? It must be that these ferocious laws lie in wait for that peculiar species of humanity dying to smash them.

Really, now, come to think of it, I have never seen a law to be conscious of it. A law never gets in the way of a normal person. It is only the abnormal one who trips over it and finds it troublesome to his personal liberty, whatever that is. I. H. T.

AN ILL-MANNERED AGE.

Chicago, July 10.—It's hardly fair to criticize Uncle Bim for his manners when he is only reverting to the conventions of the present generation, conventions that allow a man to maul all over a woman when walking down the street, and vice versa; a generation in which a woman will permit a man to escort her to a theater or resturant with knickers a part of his attire, or wearing a cap; that tolerates the company of a person that handles his fork as though he were playing a bass viol, and gets away with it.

Is it any wonder youngsters run up and down theater aisles when parents and older persons make concerted rushes for front seats, like so many cattle? Perhaps the more rude and crude one is the better manners one has. TED.

WHAT'S SAFE SPEED IN THE PARK?

Chicago, July 9.—Judge Padden has criticized the policy of the Lincoln park commissioners in regard to bond for speeders. I think it would be wonderful if the municipal judges trying speed cases would visit a few of our hospitals and see how many children are lying in them with broken bones and other injuries due to speeding automobiles. Let Judge Padden turn to chapter 121, paragraph 223, of Smith-Hurd's revised statutes and see if 48 miles an hour is not an unreasonable rate of speed through Lincoln park, where mothers bring their children, thinking they are safe.

WM. E. GRAF.

ADVICE TO GEORGE V.

Chicago, July 9.—The puppet show is on. King George is talking again. This time he is praying for India. Gandhi is also praying, and with him are millions of Hindus. They will surely pray you out of India, George. You bet they will! Better start praying for another part of your somewhat shaky empire before it's too late. M. RUBE.

We have always stated—"Cleanse the scalp of dandruff so the pores can breathe, then the hair will take care of itself." Dandruff is the killer of hair beauty. Get rid of it. Here's a simple, sure, safe way—get a little liquid Calonite from your druggist, use it like you would a shampoo, notice just after one application how clean your scalp is. Try this every day for a few days, then once a week will keep your scalp free and clean and your hair will take care of itself.

HOOVER BACKING FARM BOARD IN STAND ON WHEAT

Capper Urges Purchase of Additional Grain.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover will stand back of the federal farm board in its methods of dealing with the wheat situation, it was indicated today at the White House. The President will rely upon the board's judgment in dealing with the request of Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] for the purchase through stabilization operations of 100 million bushels of wheat.

Senator Capper reiterated today his belief that the board should loosen its purse strings to the extent of loans sufficient for the purchase by the Grain Stabilization corporation of this amount of wheat in addition to the 80 million bushels already held of last year's crop. He said he would probably take the matter up with President Hoover tomorrow.

Meanwhile James C. Stone, vice chairman, and Samuel R. McKelvie, wheat member of the farm board, expressed their belief that extensive stabilization operations such as proposed by Senator Capper would not be desirable. It was their belief that the price might be boosted temporarily, but that the problem of getting rid of the wheat, which already confronts the board in connection with the amount of last year's crop now in storage, would be made doubly acute by further purchases. It is incumbent upon the board, it was asserted, to engage in stabilization operations only to such an extent as seems to be possible without running the risk of a loss.

Mr. McKelvie referred to a speech which he made last week in Columbus, O.

"As a matter of continuing policy," said Mr. McKelvie in his Columbus speech, "it is my opinion that the law should be construed to mean that stabilization operations should be undertaken only in cases of emergency."

U. S. LIVE STOCK SELLING CO-OP IS REORGANIZED

At the instance of Chairman Alexander Legge of the federal farm board, who arrived in Chicago yesterday to confer with officials of coöperative marketing agencies, a change in the representation and voting powers of live stock marketing agencies was made last night by stockholders of the $1,000,000 National Live Stock Marketing corporation.

The action was described as being made to satisfy farm marketing leaders of the northwest, and officials of the Farmers' union, who bolted an organization meeting here in May, taking with them coöperative associations which market nearly half of the live stock sold by such associations. Leaders of the dissenting farm groups were notified by Secretary O. O. Wolf, Kansas City, that the reorganization of the National Live Stock Marketing corporation on the new basis would be completed here today at a meeting at the Hotel Sherman. Officers of the concern had previously told the farm board they would resign in a body to permit the change in organization.

On the plan of representation voted yesterday, every stockholding coöperative in the central sales agency would vote on the basis of volume of business handled annually.

FARM WAGES ARE AT LOWEST POINT IN SEVEN YEARS

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—A 2 per cent decline in farm wages was reported today by the agriculture department from April 1 to July 1, as against "the usual seasonal farm wage advance of 6 per cent for the period."

The decline brought the farm wage index to the lowest July 1 level recorded since compilation of records began in 1923.

The report attributed the recession to "a decline in business activity, with a resultant increase in industrial unemployment."

"The supply of farm labor on July 1," the report said, "was the largest reported by farmers in any month covered by available records. Unemployed industrial workers have apparently turned to the country in search of a livelihood."

Machines Take Men's Places.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 14.—(AP)—W. A. Murphy, state labor commissioner, reported today a total of 7,000 "farm hands" have been eliminated from harvest work in Oklahoma this year because of the combination harvester-thrasher and other improved farm machinery.

FOUR YOUNG MEN ARE KILLED WHEN AUTO RAMS TREE

Clinton, Ia., July 14.—(AP)—Four young men were killed at midnight last night when the car in which they were riding crashed into a tree while the driver was attempting to make a left turn. The dead are: Marvin Sohr, Guy E. Lloyd, Edward O'Hearn and Harold Peterson. The driver, Joe J. Barkhurst, was not seriously injured. Peterson was killed outright and the other three died within and hour after being taken to a hospital.

ACTION STARTED ON AIR RIGHT SITE FOR POSTOFFICE

Say Next Move Is Up to City Council.

Progress in clearing away obstacles to the immediate construction of Chicago's new postoffice was reported to business men by Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury, who with Fourth Assistant Postmaster General John W. Philip spent a busy day here in conferences with federal, railroad and civic officials.

"The government looks with favor upon the air rights site bounded by Van Buren, Harrison, Canal streets and the parcel post building," Mr. Heath declared. "Negotiations are well under way leading to the purchase of the air rights. The next move must be by the railroads which are to apply to the city council for permission to lease the rights."

Negotiations Under Way.

The negotiations now being carried on are between the treasury officials and the Union Terminal company, owner of the Union station. Thomas W. Hulme, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, with Joshua D'Esposito, consulting engineer, have been named as representatives of the company in these negotiations. The firm of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, architects, who are consulting engineers for the new postoffice, is also to be included in the conferences.

The cost of the new federal building plus the acquisition of the air rights has been estimated at approximately $21,000,000. An appropriation was adopted by congress and signed by President Hoover two weeks ago. Plans call for a building ten stories high, approximately 800 feet long and 345 feet wide.

"Finest in World."

Postal officials said that the air rights building will be the finest and largest postoffice in the world. The $21,000,000 is to finance purchase of the parcel post building, remodel it and incorporate it in the main structure, purchase the needed air rights and complete the postoffice proper. The railroads are reported to have asked $11 a foot for the air rights.

"We are anxious to get started on actual construction as soon as possible," said Mr. Heath. "But a month's delay is necessary because my presence is required on the Pacific coast for thirty days. After that, we'll go full speed ahead."

JULY 4 INJURY FATAL.

Kewanee, Ill., July 14.—(AP)—Kenneth Hoffman, 20, son of Herman Hoffman of Walnut, Ill., died at a hospital in Princeton yesterday from tetanus which developed from a powder burn received July 4 playing with a toy pistol.

BEWARE SPREAD OF BOLSHEVISM, POPE WARNS U. S.

Says Time Is Ripe for Reds to Thrive.

VATICAN CITY, July 14.—(AP)—The pope today warned the United States to "beware lest bolshevism spread in America at this moment of financial depression and unemployment."

The warning was conveyed at a private audience to Msgr. James H. Ryan, rector of the National Catholic university, Washington, D. C.

"This is just the ripe time for the spread of bolshevism," the pope said. "The people of the United States do not realize how far it has spread already nor completely what its spread means."

Talks of Stock Crash.

The pope introduced the subject of his own accord by bringing up the Wall street reverses of last year.

"We heard that, following the market crashes, there has been considerable unemployment," the pontiff remarked.

Msgr. Ryan said there were at least "a couple of millions" unemployed in the United States.

"When a number of people are out of work and when business leaders are crippled by depression and unable to care for them, this is a favorite period for the introduction and development of bolshevism," the pope responded.

Where He Learned About Reds.

The pontiff related he had first received a forcible impression of the strength and growth of bolshevism in London some years ago before his elevation to the sacred college. He asked Msgr. Ryan many questions concerning business and political conditions in the United States. He then asked Msgr. Ryan his personal opinion on the status of bolshevism in America.

Not Much Chance.

The Washington clergyman replied that, although unemployment in America had increased considerably, still he believed bolshevism would have a much harder time of it in the United States than in other countries because of the average workman's ownership of property, which would make him disavow the principles of communism.

In fact, he told the pope, many millions of workmen own their own homes and automobiles, an argument which the bolshevists would have a hard time meeting.

Canadian Flyer Killed Trying to Land in Fog

TORONTO, July 14.—(AP)—Lieut. J. D. Vance, one of Canada's best known air pilots, was killed at Hunter bay on Great Bear lake today when he attempted a landing in fog and smoke on Opassy water. He was apparently thrown from the window of his cockpit and drowned. His passenger escaped with cut hands.

AIR CRASH BARES PLOT TO CRUSH FASCIST ITALY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 14.—An audacious plot to overthrow the Fascist government by a systematic campaign of civil disobedience, similar to that practiced by Mahatma Gandhi, India's nationalist leader, has been revealed by the misadventure of the Italian airplane pilot, Giovanni Buzzolesi, who crashed in Switzerland after flying over Milan July 11. There he dropped anti-Fascist tracts.

Several of these leaflets, which were smuggled into France, were furnished today by a young employé of the league of nations, who is intimate with Buzzolesi sympathizers.

There are five separate tracts. One is a greeting to Milan as the traditional cradle of Italian revolutionary movements. The second tells of the formation of a "Justice and Liberty League," which claims to have committees in 30 cities armed and ready for action. The third is addressed to Italian workmen. The fourth charges that Fascism is leading Italy to ruin, declaring that 800,000 unemployed and 14,000 bankruptcies are caused yearly by Fascist policies. The fifth calls upon the Italians to stop smoking.

This tract points out that armed action is impossible until the Fascist system is undermined by a campaign of civil disobedience and nonpayment of taxes.

Buzzolesi, who was injured in the crack-up, is being held by Swiss authorities on the technical charge of flying over a fortified zone.

says:* "As a Cleansing Dentifrice Colgate's has no equal"

Dr. Rogers is head of the Department of Industrial Chemical Engineering, Pratt Institute. His tests on tooth pastes and their action are of the highest interest not only to the public but to scientific circles as well.

Dr. Allen Rogers, Ph.D. University of Pennsylvania; Member American Chemical Institute; American Institute of Chemical Engineers; awarded Grazelli Medal, 1920; author Manual of Industrial Chemistry; Director Department of Industrial Chemistry, Pratt Institute.

WHEN a distinguished scientist like Dr. Allen Rogers announces without reservation that one dentifrice is vastly superior to all others, the world wants to know his reasons. And he gives them. Conclusive, scientific reasons. Backed by painstaking, impartial laboratory research.

Colgate's has no equal. Very well, why? It is a matter of low surface tension, as Dr. Rogers explains. "The sole purpose of a dentifrice is to give the teeth and gums a complete cleansing. It must, therefore, have the ability to get into the crevices between the teeth and remove the decaying foods.

"A tooth paste that has a low surface tension is the one that gives the best results. My tests indicate that Colgate's gives these desired results."

Nothing need be added to that convincing statement from one of the country's recognized authorities.

But if one should ask further scientific proof of these facts, there are such noted scientists as Dr. H. H. Bunzell, Ph.D., of the University of Chicago; Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Dean of the School of Sciences, Catholic University, Washington, D. C., and scores of others equally well known, who have been retained to make analytical tests and render expert opinion—and their individual researches agree entirely with those of Dr. Rogers.

More people use Colgate's on dental advice than any other dentifrice today.

Dr. Rogers says:

"My tests reveal that Colgate's Tooth Paste produces the lowest surface tension. Since surface tension determines detergent or cleansing action, it follows, therefore, that as a cleansing dentifrice, Colgate's has no equal.

"The sole purpose of a dentifrice is to give the teeth and gums a complete cleansing. It must, therefore, have the ability to get into the crevices between the teeth and remove the decaying foods. This action is almost entirely dependent upon its surface tension. A tooth paste that has a low surface tension is the one that gives the best results. My tests indicate that Colgate's gives these desired results."

Are You Protected Against the Carelessness of Others?

You may be the most careful of drivers, but your carefulness cannot protect you against the carelessness of others.

We cannot ward off accidents occurring through the fault of others, but we can make certain that if an accident does occur, we will not suffer a financial loss. The prudent motorist knows that any motor vehicle that is worth protecting against the hazards of fire and theft is worth protecting against the hazards of collision.

Collision insurance protects you from loss arising from damage done to your car. Full collision insurance pays the entire cost of repairs, made necessary because of collision with a moving or stationary object. Deductible insurance pays part of the cost. On a $50 deductible policy, for example, you would pay on each accident, for all damage up to that amount, and the insurance company pays for damage in excess of $50. This means that on an $800 loss you would benefit to the extent of $750.

You get a quick and satisfactory settlement when you place your automobile insurance with the Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club. No red tape; no waiting for the decision of a distant "higher up."

Speedy claims service, together with many other features of the policy issued for the protection of members of the club, explains why insurance sales in 1929 amounted to $3,894,706.04.

As a subscriber you share in the cash savings plan. Last year the "exchange" returned $711,332.11 in cash to subscribers.

A few of the services available to members are:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

LAW TO LAUNCH CAR PLAN WORK MEETS DELAY

Ordinance Not Ready for Committee Action.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Little progress was made yesterday in the plan to have the surface and elevated lines spend $12,000,000 on improvements and extensions before they are consolidated into a new company.

It was announced that because the proposed ordinance, authorizing this expenditure, was not ready, the meeting of the city council transportation committee, planned for yesterday, would not be held until tomorrow morning. It is planned to have the city council itself approve of the ordinance that same afternoon.

Delay Brings Comment.

"If the ordinance had been presented to the committee on local transportation, every alderman would have had an opportunity to hear the discussion and two days in which to study it," said one councilman yesterday. "The ordinance is supposed simply to grant authority to spend $12,000,000 before Nov. 1 and to deduct the amount spent from the $65,000,000 the new company is pledged to spend in its first three years. Yet it is not ready."

Robert Ridgway, chief engineer of the New York transit commission which is spending $6,000,000 a month on subways, has consented to boss subway construction in Chicago, if his commission will permit. He is to make definite reply by Wednesday.

On invitation, Mr. Ridgway conferred yesterday morning in Attorney Walter L. Fisher's office with Mr. Fisher, James Simpson, R. F. Kelker, Joseph J. Sullivan, Allan T. Gilbert and Aldermen J. B. Bowler and McDonough.

Suggest Four Attorneys.

It was there suggested that Mr. Fisher, Joseph J. Sullivan, George A. Mason and Allan T. Gilbert be attorneys for the local transportation committee on subways. E. R. Graham was suggested as consulting architect. In immediate charge of subway design and construction it was proposed to have a board of engineers consisting of R. F. Kelker, David A. Wallace, George M. Wisner, Edward J. Noonan and George C. Lenth. Mr. Ridgway would be the supreme court on all engineering questions.

The reason for having a board of engineers was not disclosed, but it will probably be made public when the matter is presented to the local transportation committee and the compensation will necessarily be considered.

State Figures Show Boston Arrests of Drunks Increase

Boston, Mass., July 14.—[Special.]—Arrests of males in Boston for drunkenness in 1929 reached a total 77 per cent higher than in 1920, and of females a total of 9 per cent higher, according to the files of the commissioner of correction at the state house. Made public today, the Constitutional Liberty league figures show that in 1929 in Boston 33,193 males were arrested for drunkennes, as against 18,675 in 1920, and 1,341 females, as against 1,222 in 1920.

CRANE FOREMAN DROPS DEAD.

CITY EMPLOYES WORK AT DETROIT TO SAVE BOWLES

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—[Special.]—City business was abandoned today while all departments functioning under Mayor Bowles were thrown into the bitter struggle to prevent his recall at the election next Tuesday.

City employes, using city cars, found in each car at the municipal garage, bundles of cards and automobile stickers, which had been left during the night. While Frank Oldfield, superintendent of the garage, denied knowledge of the cards, common laborers in all city departments who are not protected by civil service, were told to get "on the Bowles bandwagon" or lose their jobs.

While this desperate fight was being led by John Gillespie, head the Bowles' forces, to save the mayor, and thereby his own job, it was said that Bowles sent emissaries to Robert Oakman, his chief supporter of last fall and now his opponent, with the message that if Oakman would withdraw from the recall campaign, Bowles would discharge Gillespie, but that Oakman refused to deal with the mayor.

Judge Edward J. Jeffries, of the Recorder's court, led the recall forces in a radio attack upon the mayor tonight. "Detroit is facing a public calamity," Jeffries said. "Regardless of the merits of the controversy, it must be conceded on all hands that the municipal government of the city of Detroit is in a state of utter chaos."

Head of Brokerage House Arrested in Stock Sale

Arthur L. Terrell, head of a brokerage house bearing his name at 105 South La Salle street, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with violation of the Illinois securities act in the sale of stock. The complaint was filed by Assistant State's Attorney James L. Henry in the Municipal court. Terrell was released on $1,000 bond pending trial in the Municipal court.

CAN YOU RECOGNIZE THE GENTLE ART OF SUBSTITUTION?

ONE reason women often fail to recognize substitution is the fact that it is usually done with a suave word and a smile.

You go to the corner store and ask for one brand—you come out with another.

The brand you had in mind was known to you by reputation, by experience, by its advertising, or by all three.

The one that was sold to you was unknown by any of these standards.

Stop to think. Do you want these strange products? Even when they masquerade as "bargains"—although sometimes their prices are the same or higher than well-known, advertised brands—ask yourself how you can measure their quality.

Of course they have a name, a package and a pretty label.

And you have learned by years of experience to believe that packaged and trade-marked goods are better than goods sold in bulk.

In fact, packaging and advertising have gone hand in hand.

Advertising taught you to trust what you found in the package.

Substitutes know that. They are trading today upon your confidence in the integrity of what a package contains.

Read the label on the package. Does it have a name you have heard before? Has that name, and what it stands for, been published in the advertising pages of your favorite newspapers or magazines? Has the maker of that product been so proud of it that he has wanted to tell you about it in print?

If not—why should you buy it? Why should anyone sell it—except for a hope (and usually a mistaken hope) of making more money on the sale?*

Powerful forces are at work to foist unknown and untested brands upon the public.

PICTORIAL REVIEW believes that these unknown products rarely offer quality and purity as certain as you will find in known and advertised goods.

Because of this fact—because of a sincere desire to say a word for those stores which offer you articles of known quality—because PICTORIAL REVIEW wants to reach even more than the two and a half million families who are its regular readers—this frank discussion is published here.

*Note to dealers: Slow moving private brands are often sold to you at lower prices, and with the argument that this will enable you to make more money by handling them. The U. S. Department of Commerce recently made a study of this situation and reports that a few cents more on a smaller number of sales bring in less real money than the continual volume of sales which come from handling articles the public knows, wants and buys with confidence.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 14.—Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion prizefighter, has done all the boxing he intends to do in preparation for his bout of 15 rounds or less Thursday with Al Singer, the New York boy who throws a right hand somewhat the same as an outfielder throws a ball.

Mandell has been training at Gus Wilson's Roadside Rest at Orangeburg, N. Y., where Jack Sharkey recently went to extravagant trouble to get himself in condition to foul Max Schmeling. He boxed four rounds with three other undersized youths this afternoon, and almost knocked out one of them with a small clip on the chin that seemed quite trivial until the other boy's legs became rigid, his arms fell and he looked out over the gathering in the gymnasium with a cross-eyed, loose-mouthed expression.

Punches Rout Grogginess.

Perceiving this, Samuel stepped in to hold him up and bunted him a couple of times on the side of the head to restore him. This treatment seems to be well recognized in the medical code of the prizefighters' training camps. If a man is stunned, two or three firm swats alongside the skull are supposed to clear his head, an adaptation of an old theory stoutly maintained in this country's drinking days, now happily gone forever, that if a man kept right on drinking he would drink himself cold sober again.

This scrawny little fellow who was knocked on the head was a boy by the name of Peter Guthrie, one of those scuffed up indefatigables that one sees wearing greasy old flannel underwear and hand bandages, usually with a few half-healed scars over the eyes, bouncing solemnly on their heels and feinting at hypothetical opponents, in the training gymnasiums where a boy pays a dollar for the use of the facilities, including towel and soap. He made Sammy Mandell look shrewd and deadly, but another boy named Vincent Volante, an alumnus of the Golden Gloves competition class of 1930, took care of himself much better in two rounds.

Bends, Twists from Blows.

Mr. Wilson, who was serving as chairman, introduced the third sparring partner as Johnny McMillan, a Scotchman, and six voices in the front row said, "Stop this one if you have heard me."

The boxing was very frisky, and Samuel performed some interesting twists and bends going under some of Voltane's hooks and swings at his head, none of which landed, although, naturally, a few of them grazed him. He spent a lot of leg in his practice, gliding and leaping hither and yon with girlish grace, but he was wearing an overall suit of knit tights, with flannels underneath, which indicated that he might be having an argument with the last pound or two of weight beyond the limit for his class, which is 135 pounds on the day of the prize fight.

When the boxing was over, Sammy did a series of bends for the good of his body muscles, sitting on a special apparatus, like a huge collar button of mushroom, with his feet held in stirrups on the floor. After that Barney Furey, the ancient trainer, laid him on his table in his little dressing room, wrapped him in several winding sheets and left him to stew in his own moisture.

Boys, Girls of Public Park Eye Badges

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Entry blank on following page.]

The boys and girls of Holstein park, 2200 North Oakley boulevard, who keep Director C. C. Featherly and his instructors busy all summer at the park pool, now are training for THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard races July 27. Champions and near champions, they want merit badges for completing the race in Lincoln park lagoon.

Holstein park has a splendid record in competition with the other athletic centers of the west park district. Among the list of former stars is Arthur Highland, now swimming for the Chicago Athletic association.

List Passes 500 Mark.

More than 500 boys and girls have entered the 100 yard free style races. And when the entries close next Monday that number is expected to be doubled. All boys and girls 12 and 15 years of age, inclusive, are eligible. There are two age divisions. The 12 and 13 year olds form the junior group and the 14 and 15 year olds compete together.

No previous experience is required. Many are entering competition for the first time.

Races Her Brothers.

Anna Marie Horvath, 5228 South Lowe avenue, has entered the 14 and 15 year old division. "I am a pretty fair swimmer," she writes. "I go to the Jackson park beach with my two brothers nearly every day. We race to see who is the fastest and who can swim the farthest, and generally I can beat them.

"Even if I can't win the race, I know I will earn a merit badge," Anna concludes.

The races will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, July 27. The swimmers will report at the Lincoln Canoe club boat house at noon for their numbers.

Clip the blank from today's paper and send in your name, age and address today. Then you are ready for the races.

CHAMPAIGN TEAM ENTERS

Champaign, Ill., July 14.—[Special.]—Champaign Country club swimming team, eleven strong, will compete in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE swim to be held in the Lincoln park lagoon on July 27. The entrants are Jerry Smith, Ed Ebert, Billy Hamlin, Bob Russell, Al Stern, Junior Petry, Janet Beth Bailey, Toady Huckins, Isabel Roloson, Reggie Eisner, and Jane Rose.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BOBBY JONES, GOLFER.

BOBBY JONES is the greatest golfer the ancient and honorable game ever has known. He probably is the greatest golfer the game ever will know. This latter statement cannot be proved because it takes in the future, which none can forecast. But at this writing it's a good prediction.

Now what are the qualities necessary to merit such unqualified commendation? Of course, Bobby of Atlanta carries a lot of golf in his clubs. So do many others. If Jones merely surpassed all other competitors by his skill, we could understand it more easily. But as all golfers know, golf is a strange game when one may be "hot," and one may be "cold." Opponents frequently surpass Bobby for one round, but they don't stick. The Atlanta wonder often is "hot." He never is cold. At his very worst he is at least tepid.

What The Wake marvels at more than anything else about Jones is how he can stand the nervous strain. We know something about nervous strain, for when there are only six or eight persons around the first tee watching our drive we usually get about 90 yards, instead of our best shot of perhaps 150 yards, down the fairway. Yet at Interlachen 12,000 persons were watching Jones, pulling for him, no doubt, but nevertheless imposing an additional nervous strain and getting in his way. Fancy making every shot before 12,000 spectators! O, we just can't!

So we see Jones winning the present national open, his third major title this season, not only because of his superb round of 68 but also because his closest rivals "cracked" on the final eighteen in which Jones "wobbled" to a 75. We can conceive of no greater finish, no greater test of nerve, than his birdie three on the final hole at a stage when a mistake meant the championship.

Touted Off.

I'm familiar with all the old questions!
"May I borrow your program, please?"
Or maybe it's "Have you some matches?"
I'll swear it's just like a disease.

If you stand alone and look worried,
They're whispering in your right ear:
"My boss has it down on this one,

No, the one with the brilliant green vest.
He just told me, but promise you keep it,
That Frightful is really the best."

In spite of my knowledge of race tracks,
In spite of my loss in the past,
'Gainst my will when I get to the window,
It's "Frightful," and Frightful is last.
Paddock Mack.

The Wake was told by New York newspaper men that William Woodward, owner of Gallant Fox, was not a bad fellow, but rather austere and serious, as befitting the president of a New York bank. Therefore we thought he ought to know something of our breezy western ways. Accordingly when we encountered him Saturday before the Classic, we expressed our good wishes and queried, "Mr. Woodward, do you think your colt has a chance in this race?" Gallant Fox, as you remember, was 3 to 10 to win. Mr. Woodward looked at us in surprise, then responded with a quizzical smile:

"Well, my boy, I think I'd be conservative if I were you and play him to place." We did.

ESPINOSA BEATS HUTCHISON FOR NO. SHORE OPEN

Wins in Playoff After Both Tie at 144.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Al Espinosa of the Illinois Sportsman's club won the north shore open golf championship for the second time yesterday at Sunset Valley by beating Jock Hutchison in the playoff after each had shot 144 to lead a field of 200 in 36 holes of medal play. Their match ended on the first green when Al sank a 14 foot putt for a birdie 3.

Behind these two came many who competed last week in the national open, including Walter Hagen, Horton Smith, and Harry Cooper.

Lesperance's 145 Third.

Third place went to Al Lesperance of Westmoreland with 145, while Walter Hagen, Jim Carberry, Lew Waldron, and Harry Adams were tied for fourth with 147.

This is the second successive year that Hutchison tied for the title only to be beaten in the playoff. Last year he fell before Sonny Rouse of Old Orchard on the fourth green. Al Espinosa won two years ago, when the event was originated.

Jock was leading Al at the end of the first round yesterday with a 71 against his opponent's 72, but in spite of five birdies he took a 73 in the afternoon. His greatest trouble came on the fifth where he drove out of bounds twice and took a 7. Meanwhile, Al continued to play a consistent game and got home with another par 72 for a tie. He almost won without the necessity of a playoff, for his 12 foot putt on the last green missed the cup by an inch.

Horton Smith Has 71.

Horton Smith seemed bothered by the wind during the morning round, but came back in the afternoon with a brilliant 71. Hagen shot a 73 and a 74, while Harry Cooper was taking a pair of 74s.

Espinosa got the jump in the playoff by driving straight for the pin, while Hutchison hooked off into an adjoining fairway. Al laid his approach within 14 feet of the hole, while Jock was just short of the green and was forced to chip up. Then Al sank the putt, which ended the match. Leading scores follow:

ADD FAMOUS HOMECOMINGS

Atlanta, Ga., July 14.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, all highest of golf, came home today to receive the greatest reception in the history of Atlanta.

Then, too, Bobby wanted to hear little Bobby III. whistle.

Down through the city's main thoroughfares atop an open car, Bobby rode to the cheers of thousands. Street urchins and millionaires added their voices to the outpouring of the city's hero worship.

Bobby's father and wife rode with the champion. The little Jones tots were in another car.

Bobby Sees Children First.

Hours earlier than expected Daddy Bobby had slipped into town and was with the youngsters while newspaper men tried to locate him without result until the start of the parade. He was listening to the whistle that little Bobby told granddaddy to tell daddy about up in New York.

The parade to the city hall, where Mayor Ragsdale presented Bobby with a scroll and a golden key, was decidedly democratic. Soldiers in olive drab followed brilliantly costumed drum and bugle crops, while pretty women golfers in a huge white tallyho added charm to the show. Uncle Sam and John Bull rode in an ancient Victoria drawn by two mules and Negro caddies beamed widely as they smiled on "Mr. Bob," who "brought home de bacon."

Trophies in Parade, Too.

Bobby didn't start with the parade, but joined it and proceeded a block. From the Capital City club, Bobby and his party entered the official automobile, preceded by a truck carrying the British open and the amateur and American open trophies, guarded by four Atlantans.

Ticker tape tossed from the tops of skyscrapers looked as if the sunny south had seen a miracle—a snowstorm in July. Every office building window was filled.

It was a big day for the Negro caddies. Each division carried a banner in typical language of the dark skinned golf bag carriers and the familiar "check and double check" appeared often. To them he is the greatest man in the world and they'd caddy for him for "nuffin" just to brag to their friends.

The champion today broke his record and spoke for almost two minutes, including applause.

Here are Bobby's words:

"Your welcome makes it impossible for me to say much. It has fairly taken my breath away.

"I had no idea any such affair was planned. As a matter of fact, I had expected to be met at the station by a taxi and nothing more.

"I appreciate all the things you have done for me, more than I can tell you."

WIN FIRST GAME IN NINTH, 10-9; LOSE SECOND, 7-2

Gehrig Hits Pair of Homers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

After five hours of labor yesterday the White Sox and Yankees were able to reach an amicable agreement in a bargain bill that at times seemed to be a travesty on the pastime. The Sox captured their share of the plunder by rallying in the ninth of the opener for a 10 to 9 decision, but in the after-piece they conducted themselves so meekly that the Yanks had an easy time getting even by 7 to 2.

If the Pale Hose hadn't pulled the unexpected in the first battle it would have gone into the books as the most distressing affair ever staged on big league territory. The pitching, notably that by Red Faber and Henry Johnson, was atrocious, and the fielding was of a peculiar brand. But the Sox, after getting into the position of hopeless losers, made amends by a tying rally in the sixth and then winning for Pat Caraway in the ninth on Carl Reynolds' speed.

Gehrig Hits Two Homers.

That the Sox could make no progress in the second game can be credited to two sources. One was that they did not make use of their bats against the hurling of Charley Ruffing. The other was that Garland Braxton, the Hose starter, succumbed early in the fight. In the fourth Lou Gehrig hit his second homer of the day for a season total of 23. Chapman also hit one in this round. The two lengthy smacks gave the Yanks as safe a lead as was necessary and what happened subsequently didn't cause any excitement among the groggy customers.

Caraway and Pennock will endeavor to show some pitching in the final today.

The early portion of the first game was of such a laughable nature that details are not worthy of mention. It is sufficient to declare that there was no particular effort to maintain the interest of the 18,000 spectators. The sad party began to perk up in the sixth, however. At this point the Yanks were coasting out in front by 9 to 5 but when the Comiskey hirelings concluded the chapter they were on even terms with their supposedly classy adversaries. From here to the end it was a struggle.

Reynolds Starts It.

The four runs with which the Sox created the 9 to 9 deadlock in the sixth began with a double by Reynolds. The blow finished Johnson, who was the Yanks' starting pitcher. McEvoy assumed the rôle of rescuer. He dropped Jolley on a fly and would have had Watwood if Lazzeri hadn't fumbled. Barnes forced Watwood and Reynolds scored. Cissell and Tate singled to send Barnes home. Then McKain, who had succeeded Faber, poured a triple into left to shove Cissell and Tate across with the tying runs.

When McKain tumbled into a mess in the eighth Caraway strolled in and fanned Gehrig to halt the threatened revolt. Then Pat had to work only one additional round before his mates administered the knockout punch. Reynolds started this by beating out a bunt on Pipgras with one out in the ninth. Jolley's hop to Gehrig sent him to second. Watwood then clicked a twisting bounder to Lazzeri. The ball slid off Tony's glove for a hit and the speedy Reynolds went dashing over the plate with the needed run.

Yanks Score in Third.

The Yanks desisted from scoring against Braxton in the nightcap until they reached the third inning. They notched a run in this chapter on a pass to Hargrave, a single by Ruffing, and an infield out. Then they put the Sox completely out of business with the home run assault that netted three in the fourth. Lazzeri opened with a single and preceded Gehrig over the plate on the latter's tap into the second story in right field. A moment later Chapman clubbed his homer into the seats in left.

Braxton disappeared in the fifth in the course of a rally in which the Yanks added two more to their total. Lary blew open the round by singling, but Ruth forced him. The Babe hiked to third on a safe clout by Lazzeri. Gehrig singled and Ruth scored while Lazzeri went to third and Braxton to the clubhouse. Rice welcomed Walsh with a hit and Lazzeri registered. There might have been some more runs if Chapman hadn't lined into a double play.

The Sox burst forth with a run off Ruffing in the home fifth because Tate doubled behind a single by Barnes. The next scoring episode was a Yank contribution in the seventh. Walsh walked Ruth, who throughout the long afternoon was guilty of only one single. The Babe scored on Lazzeri's single and a sacrifice fly. After this the show went along smoothly except for a Sox run caused by a pass to Barnes and singles by Cissell and Pinch Hitter McKain in the ninth.

WILLIAM T. BOBS UP IN TIME TO WIN AT 10 TO 1

Gets Nose Decision Over Hot Toddy.

BY FRENCH LANE.

William T., racing in the brown and blue silks of W. E. Caskey Jr., showed up unexpectedly among the leaders yesterday when the stretch battle in the West Shore purse at Arlington was at its most furious stage.

Lativich, the even money favorite, Hot Toddy, Live Oak, Pigeon Hole and Buddy Bauer were striving for the lead. The jockeys were whipping, kicking and shouting.

And just when it seemed that Hot Toddy had conquered his rivals, William T. came on the outside. The spurt carried him from sixth place up on even terms with Hot Toddy in less than a furlong. In the last few strides William T. went on to win by a nose. Buddy Bauer was close up and third.

Winner Pays Nearly 10 to 1.

In the crowd's rush to back Lativich and Pigeon Hole, supporters of William T. were driven to cover, and the aged son of Lucky Hour-Grace Cole went to the post at odds of nearly 10 to 1. When the numbers were hung out, he paid $21.94 to win, $13.82 to place and $10.08 to show. Hot Toddy also was at tall odds, and paid $10.50 to place and $6.60 to show. Buddy Bauer's show price was $11.44.

Early in the mile tussle, which found William T. running the eight furlongs in 1:37, Pigeon Hole, Lativich and Hot Toddy were out in front. But Lativich and Hot Toddy forced Pigeon Hole to cut out such a pace that he ran the half in :46 4-5 and the three quarters in 1:11 3-5. This left Pigeon Hole with little reserve for the vigorous stretch fight, and as he dropped back, Lativich was in tight quarters and he also lost ground. Hot Toddy and Buddy Bauer moved forward, and were joined in a few jumps by William T. Their fight lasted until the leaders bowed to the judges.

Hertz Horse Wins.

The favorite players didn't lose heart over Lativich's defeat and went right back with another heavy play on Mrs. John Hertz' Valenciennes in the Winnetka purse. The daughter of Stephan The Great made good, but had to be hustled all the way to withstand the determined bid of Beaming Over. A sixteenth out Beaming Over all but had Valenciennes whipped, but the Chicagonilly had something left and was pulling slightly away again when the finish came.

Walter J. Salmon showed one of his crack 2 year olds in the first race, which found 13 maiden juveniles lining up at the barrier. Ladder is the youngster's name, and he is a son of Ladkin-Panoply. Ladder easily headed his field all the way and beat First Vote by three lengths, with Skiffy running third.

Iroquois Hunt Today Draws Good Jumpers

Today's steeplechase, called the Iroquois Hunt, has attracted the best crowd of jumpers to go to the post since the sport was introduced here. In the field will be the Warm stable's Valorous, James Simpson Jr.'s Devilkin and Autumn Bells, Joseph E. Widener's Indigo, Val Crane's Charmarten, and the Greentree stable's Fair Enough.

Reveille Boy, winner of the American Derby, will have his first race since his defeat in the Latonia Derby in the Parkview this afternoon. It is a dash at seven furlongs. He will meet plenty of opposition in Victorian, Silverdale, My Dandy, and Golden Prince.

The old iron horse Display demonstrated during the training hour yesterday that he is fast nearing racing condition when he stepped a half mile in 50 seconds.

Misstep is going to be at the top of his form for the Arlington cup. He demonstrated this yesterday when he breezed the cup distance of a mile and a quarter in 2:07 2-5. He maintained an even pace all the way and could have gone much faster.

Gallant Knight is getting tired of chasing Gallant Fox home and his trainer, Kay Spence, has about decided to pass up the Arlington cup with the Audley Farm colt. "Gallant Knight's a fine horse, but I guess Gallant Fox is too good for us," the trainer said.

MRS. ARENDS AND MRS. MIDA LEAD IN WESTERN GOLF

Not to be outdone by the masculine sex with its open championship at Interlachen, western women golfers yesterday dropped sewing baskets and cook books to take up drivers and niblicks for a war against par in the first women's western open meet at Acacia. The holding of an open competition for women is in answer to criticism directed at the association by nonmembers of association clubs.

A high wind coupled with slippery greens bothered the field of 64 starters and sent qualifying round scores in to the nineties as compared to women's par of 82.

Mrs. Lee Mida of Butterfield and Mrs. John Arends of Kildeer divided medal honors, each scoring 46—44—90. Mrs. Mida was unsteady on the greens, three-putting four, but compensated for it by steady play along the fairway. Mrs. Arends started poorly, being seven over par on the first four holes, but from there in picked up birdies at the sixth, eighth, ninth, fourteenth and seventeenth to tie for low score. The qualifying scores:

Mrs. Lee Mida, Butterfield, 90.
Mrs. John Arends, Kildeer, 90.
Mrs. Melvin Jones, Lincolnshire, 91.
Miss Mildred Hackle, Midlothian, 91.
Miss Jane Weller, Vernon Ridge, 91.
Miss Rena Nelson, Exmoor, 92.
Mrs. J. H. Indig, Rocky Point, 92.
Miss Virginia Ingram, Sunset Ridge, 93.
Miss Ruth Wilsey, Bunker Hill, 95.
Miss Helen McMorran, Indian Hill, 96.
Miss Virginia Vilas, Glen View, 97.
Mrs. Lillian Zech, Tam O'Shanter, 97.
Miss June Beebe, Olympia Fields, 97.
Miss Louise Fergus, Glen View, 98.
Mrs. Perry Fiske, Kishwaukee, 98.
Mrs. E. T. Nicholas Jr., Beverly, 98.

Hornsby Here

ROGERS HORNSBY, whose service with the Cubs was interrupted Memorial day by a fractured ankle, returned to Chicago yesterday. He will start to work out at Wrigley field tomorrow and will rejoin the team in Philadelphia on July 24.

"It is improbable that Hornsby will be available for regular service when he reports to Manager McCarthy a week from Thursday," William Veeck, president of the Cubs, said yesterday, "but we expect him to take over his old job at second base by Aug. 1.

"This ought to end rumors that his days with the Cubs are over," Veeck concluded.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 14.—Manager Joe McCarthy of the Cubs spent a rainy day off today speculating on the manner in which President Heydler of the National league will act on the formal protest of the second of Puritan game of yesterday's doubleheader with the Boston Braves. The protest was filed today by William Veeck, president of the club.

The game, you know, at present is in the records as a 3 to 0 eight inning Boston victory, despite the fact the score was 4 to 3 in favor of the Cubs when the Massachusetts Sunday law halted the contest.

Protest Boston Stalling.

Boss Joe said the protest was founded on the stalling tactics of the Boston club, which were contrary to the agreement under which the doubleheader was played. He also quoted Umpire Quigley, who understood the inning could be finished so long as it was started prior to 5:40 o'clock.

It would appear that if Mr. Veeck gets any place on the protest it will be on the stalling contention and not on any fuzzy ideas that the learned Mr. Quigley might have had about New England blue laws. McCarthy thinks a good solution would be to call the game incomplete as of 6 o'clock, then play it to a conclusion with the same personnel.

Mr. Welsh's Sinful Double.

At the time the game actually was halted the Braves were in their ninth inning, Sisler had singled, Chatham had struck out, and Welsh had doubled, Sisler stopping at third. According to the Chicago calculation Sisler is entitled to his single and Chatham his strikeout, but Welsh doubled at 6:01 o'clock, making the blow utterly sinful and null and void.

A more equitable solution would be to play the game over, perhaps.

The two clubs will meet in the final of the series tomorrow afternoon. Malone, or possibly Osborn, will pitch for Chicago and Zachary for the Braves.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 14.—(AP)—With Glenn Wright pounding the ball to all corners of Ebbets' field, the Brooklyn Robins defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 12 to 8, today, and thereby increased their lead to three games in the National league pennant race.

Wright hit two home runs and a like number of singles in four trips to the plate, scoring four runs and driving in seven. The Robins' combined collection of hits off three Pirate hurlers totaled fifteen.

QUEEN OF TENNIS HOME AGAIN, BUT N. Y. KEEPS QUIET

City Saves Ticker Tape as Mrs. Moody Lands.

New York, July 14.—(AP)—Making a beeline back to Berkeley, Cal., and the home and husband she last saw more than three months ago, the greatest woman tennis player in the world landed here today after the most successful of all her European tours.

A tall girl dressed becomingly in blue and white from her navy blue slippers to the crown of her snowy pajama, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody stepped gayly down the gangplank of the Majestic with the unique record of ten straight major singles championships resting lightly upon her youthful shoulders.

Not to Give Up Tennis.

"Giving up tennis after this year? O dear, no!" she smiled at the thought. "I shall go on playing tennis indefinitely.

"It has been a lovely trip, but I am eager to be home and plan to leave for California almost at once—probably the day after tomorrow. I will be back in New York a week in advance of the national championships at Forest Hills starting Aug. 18."

Mrs. Moody, returning in triumph with the French and English championships in both singles and doubles, found none of the noisy welcome with which New York and Atlanta greeted Bobby Jones a few days ago. In fact the welcoming delegation consisted of six reporters, half a dozen photographers and movie men, and two representatives of the United States Lawn Tennis association. Conquering the world without loss of a set is getting to be almost a commonplace feat for this remarkable Californian, and there is little excitement about it.

The queen of the courts was in high spirits, talking with great animation on a variety of subjects.

Praises Tilden and Allison.

"Tilden? He is playing wonderfully. The best of all the matches at Wimbledon, I thought, was the one in which he beat Borotra. They are both playing marvelous tennis. Another great match was when Allison beat Cochet. Allison was playing a little too well for him that particular day.

Instead of Paris gowns this year Mrs. Moody's principal purchases abroad were furnishings for her home.

SEEDED PLAYERS WIN

Kansas City, Mo., July 14.—(AP)—No dark horse appeared today in the opening of play for the 1930 national clay courts tennis championship and pairings for the second round singles tomorrow found all seeded players in competition.

The completion of the first round left the forecast of a possible champion no easier for those who prognosticate on form, ranking, and records.

Those who favored Frederic Mercur of Harrisburg, Pa., were less sure of their choice after Karl Hodge of St. Louis forced the No. 6 national ranking star and co-holder of the tournament doubles title to two deuced sets before the seeded No. 1 player won, 14, 9-7.

The lanky Frank X. Shields of New York City did not show as well as expected against Teddy Eggman, St. Louis, whom he defeated, 6-4, 6-4, in a preliminary match, but appeared in fine fettle a few hours later when he eliminated Ellis Klingeman of Chicago in a first round tussle, 6-2, 6-0.

Wilbur F. Coen Jr. of Kansas City, seeded No. 2, defeated C. V. Sneed, Independence, Kas., in two love sets and gained many more backers than already were pulling for a national title for the boy star who has played much in Europe.

Pare Wins 2 Matches.

Emmett Pare, Chicago, the 1929 champion in singles, won two matches, a preliminary 6-1, 6-0 from J. K. Monroe, Fort Smith, Ark., and a first round encounter from Don Geary, Kansas City, 6-1, 6-4, and appeared in condition to make sterling defense of the crown he won at Indianapolis a year ago by defeating J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J. Hall, co-holder with Mercur of the doubles title, won two matches today, defeating Nelson Mcintosh of Kansas City, 6-2, 6-4, and Carl Black, Louisville, Ky., 6-2, 6-1.

Then there was to be considered Julius Seligson, New York City, who advanced by default; Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., who defeated Louis Thalheimer, Dallas, a tennis player well grounded in the rudiments of the game; Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, and perhaps a half dozen others.

Tigers' Early Attack Beats Senators, 8-4

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—(AP)—The Tigers got to two Washington pitchers for 13 hits and won today, 8 to 4, to make it three to one for Detroit in the current series.

Six of the eight runs came during a continuous assault which lasted through the first and second innings. Dale Alexander had a field day at bat, driving in five runs with three singles and a double. Gehringer and Rice each got triples.

Hadley started for the Senators and gave way to Brown after the game had been lost. Score:

Tribune Book Tells How to Attract Birds

BY BOB BECKER.

THE TRIBUNE'S compact little handbook on birds, which came off the press a few days ago, is now on sale at the Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street.

The book is entitled "Birds and Bird Houses." It contains many illustrations of species which the average suburbanite, farmer, or estate owner is apt to come in contact with and gives tips on how to attract the desirable birds to one's land. This new 80 page handbook sells for 25 cents.

Readers who wish one or more copies sent by mail should remit an extra three cents per copy to cover postage. "Birds and Bird Houses" is on sale only at THE TRIBUNE Public Service Office so all orders and remittances should be sent direct to that office.

Two chapters in this new book which will help bird fans in their efforts to attract more species to a yard, garden, or estate are those dealing with the construction and placement of nesting boxes and the feeding of birds in the winter. In the first of these two chapters a complete table on sizes of nesting boxes is given and sketches of different boxes which can be made at home are shown. This chapter deals with martin houses, boxes for bluebirds, wrens, woodpeckers, and other species which make desirable bird neighbors.

A complete table of winter foods for birds is given in a different chapter which tells how to keep cardinals, jays, nutlatches, and other species around your place in winter. This section of the book also contains many suggestions on the construction of food stations and the way to feed birds like quail, pheasants, and partridges, and other species which usually have to be given rations in the field.

the color of butcher's paper and his scant hair is fuzzy and white, like patches of lint, and looking at the pair of them you would naturally pick old Barney as the more interesting person.

Samuel is a skillful prize fighter, a gentle youth who eats ice cream and will not listen to dirty stories. Old Barney's palms have played slippety-slap rhythms in the rubstuff up and down the nude frames of champion prize fighters since long before Sammy Mandell was born, and he must have his private ideas as he slides his fingers along the tendons in Sammy's structure on the rubbing table after the stewing. I suppose he makes comparisons.

"Now Wolgast," says old Barney to himself, "if he had been fighting this nice little boy here, he would have——"

There has been some talk in trade circles here to the effect that Mandell is selling the championship to Al Singer, having tired of it and realized that 135 pounds is not enough weight for him nowadays. But Mandell's manager, Mr. Eddie Kane, states that this is contrary to the facts of the situation and the Singer party, up at the Delaware water gap, where Al is training, characterized the report as a canard.

"I want to Scotch that report in the bud," Mr. Kane said, banging the counter at a small refreshment emporium down the road a piece from Gus Wilson's, which is a temperance house.

"I will take Scotch myself, Bud," said one of Mr. Kane's friends, and the report was scotched by all present except one, a clergyman in mufti, who took beer.

As the commercial aspects of the prize fight, the Garden corporation is singularly reticent, but it seems that, following so soon after the heavyweight contest between Sharkey and Schmeling, which drew $470,000, the lightweight fight does not interest the customers very much.

Jordan Motor Car.

I am considering investing in some of the low sellers, and would like to know about Jordan Motor.—H. P. L.

Jordan Motor Car company is one of the smaller manufacturers of automobiles. As a result of new types developed in 1929 the price range of its cars was expanded to range from around $1,500 to more than $4,000 per unit. The number of cars sold has declined each year since 1925.

Earnings gradually declined from the $668,958 reported for 1923, to $97,000, before taxes, in 1926. In the last three years losses have been reported.

The management stated that for six consecutive months from February to July, 1929, inclusive, the factory operated at a profit, but that the decline in general business following the stock market slump last autumn resulted in operating losses which offset these earnings.

The consolidated income account for 1929 showed sales amounting to $4,372,333, against $4,503,934 in 1928 and $5,580,593 in 1927. Net loss in 1929, after charges for depreciation, was $672,408, against losses of $795,988 in 1928 and $1,425,753 in 1927.

On May 12, 1930, it was reported that the company's business had improved considerably and that the plant was operating five and a half days a week. The company stated that it was building cars to order and thus avoiding a piling up of inventory.

At the close of last year current assets were $1,262,881 and current liabilities were $369,015, leaving a net working capital of $893,866, which compares with $1,599,665 a year before. During 1929 funded debt was reduced to $187,500.

Preferred dividends have been omitted since Oct. 1, 1927, and at the beginning of the current year accumulations amounted to 15¾ per cent.

The preferred stock is speculative and the common is more so.

Three Bonds.

Would you kindly advise me if the following bonds are a good and sound investment for one who cannot afford to take chances: American Telephone and Telegraph company 5 per cent debentures, due Feb. 1, 1965; Kroehler Manufacturing company 5½ per cent debentures, due Jan. 1, 1937, and Jan. 1, 1938, and Peoples Gas Light and Coke company refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds, due Sept. 1, 1947? If any of these are not considered a good or sound investment, would you please advise me why not?—Mrs. W. M. C.

Each of the three issues mentioned in your inquiry is considered sound.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today under more liberal offerings, but with a fair interest reported at 3.28c delivered, at which basis business was reported. All told sales amounted to 45,500 bags of Philippines and Cubas ex-store at 3.27@3.28c, mostly at the higher price.

Raw futures turned easier under the influence of lower London cables and the decline in the spot market. The market opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher with local and Cuban selling reported, which was offset partially by some commission house buying and closed easy at the lows for the day which were 2 to 3 points net lower, except July which was nominally 2 points net higher. Sales amounted to about 23,000 tons. Prices follow:

Among miscellaneous issues Foster Wheeler has one of the biggest followings in Wall street. This is largely because of its performance throughout the break and the fact that it has always enjoyed quick rebounds after weakness. Foster Wheeler is supposed to have a larger number of new orders on hand this year than in 1929, which accounts for the optimistic earnings estimates on the stock.

Shorts Take Beating.

Shorts are reported to be taking a rather severe beating in Air Reduction, which was selected by the bear contingent just before the current recovery as the stock which offered the greatest opportunity for profit on the down side. The stock has been hard to borrow, and it seems that much of the selling on scale was absorbed by strong interests.

Hard to Understand.

Standard Oil of New Jersey is hard to understand at times. The stock often shows up to the best advantage when current developments in the oil business seem anything but favorable. This was again demonstrated in the last week, when it moved up to a new high on the rally in face of disturbing reports about the retail gasoline business on the coast.

Moves on "Schedule."

For the first time in many weeks Radio has moved according to "schedule." The street has been full of tips to buy Radio in the last few days in anticipation of M. J. Meehan's return from abroad. Large blocks of the stock began to appear on the tape last Thursday, followed by heavier volume on Friday. During the two hour session which closed the week Radio was lifted to a new peak for this recovery in dealings, which made it one of the outstanding stocks of the entire list. Many interpret this move in Radio as a direct challenge to the bear crowd.

No one can deny that earnings are a better index of a corporation's worth than is the value of its plant. Dr. Otto Juch, Federal Minister of Finance of the Republic of Austria, has furnished us with the following statement regarding the Austrian Government International Loan 1930:

THE LOAN — The Bonds of the Austrian Government International Loan 1930 now to be issued are to provide an effective sum equivalent to over $55,000,000 and form part of an International Loan limited to an amount sufficient to yield in the aggregate an effective sum of 725,000,000 schillings (equivalent to about $102,000,000) and issuable in the form of Bonds of various currencies all of equal rank. Concurrently with the present issuance of the American tranche in the United States of America, other tranches are being issued in the following-named countries in the following principal amounts: Great Britain, £3,000,000 sterling; Holland, £500,000 sterling; Sweden, 10,000,000 kronor; Switzerland, 25,000,000 Swiss francs; Italy, 100,000,000 lire; Austria, 50,000,000 schillings.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE — The Bonds of this Loan, which has been approved by the Committee of Control constituted in 1923, are issued to provide for capital expenditures incurred and to be incurred for improvements upon the Austrian Railways and the properties of the Postal and Telegraph administration. The investment program contemplated expenditures, from 1928 to 1932 inclusive, aggregating the equivalent of approximately $102,000,000, of which about 55% will be provided by the net proceeds of the Bonds of this Loan being issued presently.

SECURITY — The Bonds of this Loan are the direct and unconditional obligations of the Austrian Government and are secured by a charge upon the gross receipts of the Customs and of the Tobacco Monopoly of Austria, subject only to the charges in favor of the Austrian Government Guaranteed Loan 1923-1943, herein referred to as the 1923 Loan, and the Austrian Government Czechoslovakian Conversion Loan II. No further charge on the above-mentioned revenues may be created ranking in priority to or equally with the charges of this Loan except that the Austrian Government reserves the right to secure ratably with the Bonds of this Loan the bonds of any future loan issued to provide for redemption prior to maturity of the bonds of any portion of the 1923 Loan outstanding at the time of such redemption.

The gross receipts of the Customs and of the Tobacco Monopoly for the year 1929 were approximately 600,000,000 Austrian schillings (or about $84,400,000). The charges for interest and sinking fund on the 1923 Loan and the above-mentioned Czechoslovakian loan, together with the charge for interest and sinking fund on the total authorized amount of the Austrian Government International Loan 1930, computed for the entire authorized Loan on the same basis as the present issues and at par of exchange, is estimated not to exceed approximately 177,100,000 Austrian schillings (or about $24,900,000) per annum.

The pledged revenues are paid by the Austrian Government, as and when collected, directly into an account under the control of the trustees of the 1923 Loan, who, after providing each month for the service of that loan and the Czechoslovakian loan in accordance with their terms, are to release the balance to the Trustee for this Loan, which, after reserving each month one-twelfth of the amount required for the current annual service of this Loan, will release the balance to the Austrian Government.

*An agreement has been made between Austria and the Powers concerned, subject in the case of France to ratification by the legislature, by which the amounts payable in respect of Relief Bonds have been funded for gradual payment over a period of forty years from 1929 to 1968. The charge upon the assets and revenues of Austria by which the Relief Bonds are secured has been subordinated to the charge in favor of the present Loan. # BUSINESS WILL PUSH FORWARD, REYNOLDS SAYS

Retail Prices Down Near Bottom.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Business, industry, and finance have reached a basis where most of the readjustments that attend the stock market collapse and general depression have been accomplished and they can again go forward. This is the view of Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, and it was supported yesterday by several earnings statements on important corporations.

"We have about shaken down to a sound level," Mr. Reynolds said. "I feel that wholesale prices are about on the bottom. But as the result of improved management, manufacturers have been able to make fair profits despite somewhat lessened volume of business.

"Now retail prices are tending down to a level proportionate to wholesale prices. While it is a shoppers' market, with price reductions somewhat sporadic, this will result in the end in a generally accepted lower price basis. This means that prices are about stabilized and that there is no further incentive for buyers to hold off, particularly as stocks of goods are low.

Cites Buying Power.

"When the public is convinced that prices are reasonable, they will come into the market and the country has tremendous buying power. Wages have held up pretty well and the unemployment situation is not drastic. Money rates are low and will continue so for the rest of the year at least. So there is no dearth of money nor of purchasing power. These factors are bound to assert themselves as soon as public psychology recognizes the fact that we have reached the bottom.

"So I am convinced that we have got down to a level from which we can go forward. It may be a process of gradual improvement and final readjustments in some lines may run over into next year. But the major readjustments have been accomplished and I think the autumn and winter will bring a seasonable upturn in business, perhaps somewhat more than normal proportions. Therefore, I am conservatively optimistic as to the near future and entirely optimistic from a long range viewpoint."

A. T. & T. Reports Income.

Perhaps the most cheerful bit of news was the mid-year report of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the world's largest public utility system. It shows both second quarter and half year earnings larger than in 1929.

Net income for the first half of this year was $81,671,847, equal to $5.71 a share on 14,303,300 average common shares outstanding, compared with $80,102,038, or $6.15 a share on 13,028,407 shares, for the first half of 1929. Net income for the second quarter this year was $41,231,992, or $2.88 a share, compared wtih $39,601,273, or $3.03 a share, for the second quarter of 1929.

"The volume of general industrial activity during the first six months of 1930 has continued distinctly below the record levels of 1929, although comparisons with the performance in 1928 have not generally made an unfavorable showing," President Walter S. Gifford said.

General Electric Sales.

The General Electric company reported sales for the half year at $197,229,346, compared with $194,353,307 for the same period last year. Net profits available for the common stock were $29,273,276, or $1.01 a share, compared with $30,740,768, or $1.07 a share, for the first half of 1929. The United Biscuit reported the half year's net profits at $996,296, equal to $1.92 a share, compared with $839,153, or $1.69 a share, last year.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company reported half year's sales at $548,059,794, compared with $506,837,572 for the first half of 1929. June sales totaled $82,882,433, a gain of 8.12 per cent over June last year, and tonnage increased 15.23 per cent, thus indicating a continued lower trend in prices.

A quick return to pre-war commodity prices was predicted yesterday by George B. Everitt, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., mail order and chain store concern, in formally announcing the new fall and winter catalog. Prices quoted reflect a general drop of about 10 per cent from last spring's quotations on most staple commodities, with some reduction as high as 30 per cent.

Cites Attractions, Perils of Foreign Investments

BY SCRUTATOR.

The first part of 1928 has been marked by large activity in the flotation of foreign securities in the United States, with the German reparations bonds taking the lead in public interest.

One of the frequent queries put to financial men and those whose business it is to give advice or information on investments is: Why are Americans willing to risk their funds in other countries while there is, apparently, no shortage of securities in their own?

The answer lies in the yield attractiveness of foreign issues. Funds sent a long way off and subject to the hazards incident to more imperfect knowledge than is possible at home naturally have to be paid for at a higher rate. The department of commerce has found that in the period 1919 to 1929 all new foreign bonds offered in this country carried an average yield of 6.33 per cent, which was approximately a point and two-thirds more than could have been had on diversified high grade domestic bonds.

Canada Benefits.

This is equivalent to about 35 per cent in interest returns over the high grade domestic bonds. The difference was greater than this average previous to 1922, when business conditions and political destinies were more uncertain than they are now. From then until 1929, when the yield differences were lessened somewhat, there was an almost constant relationship between the price of the foreign and domestic issues.

Canada has been able to get investment from the United States on a basis more favorable than have other countries. It pays on the average only 11 per cent more than American industry for the use of American money. Latin American and European countries have been paying an average of 41 per cent more. Last year the Canadian issues were more than half of all foreign financing offered and this preponderance made the contraction in the difference of yield compared to American payment for the use of bond money.

About half of American investments in foreign countries take the form of bonds. There are vast amounts of capital sent out by American corporations for branch plants, mineral development, and plantations. These added to the security issues are estimated by the department of commerce to amount, excluding war debts to the treasury, to from thirteen to fifteen billion dollars and to return our investors—in 1929—876 million dollars of income.

Reverse Also True.

Foreign investment has its perils. In reverse, numerous instances of Europeans who in the wilder days of American finance lost their principal could be cited. There were repudiated state obligations and failures of enterprises. Other investors in pioneer America were fortunate and obtained higher yields than they could have had at home.

Capital normally tends to flow from the more developed to the less developed countries and American investments in Latin America are now estimated to be much larger than American investments in all Europe. Even at the higher yields it is demonstrable that the country in which the investment is made profits more than the one which invests. Investment trusts, however, with ample facilities for investigation, doubtless are getting real bargains in sound foreign securities.

OFFERING IS MADE OF AMERICA'S PART IN AUSTRIAN LOAN

New York, July 14.—(AP)—Announcement was made tonight of the offering tomorrow of the American portion of the Austrian government international loan of 1930, amounting to $25,000,000 principal amount.

The American issue will be sold at 95 to yield 7.40 per cent to maturity. The loan, the direct unconditional obligation of the Austrian government, carries 7 per cent interest and matures in 27 years. It is redeemable Jan. 1, 1932, by operation of the sinking fund at 103 and interest, but redeemable otherwise as a whole at 103 and interest only after five years.

The American issue is a part of a loan to provide about $55,000,000. The remainder will be floated in Great Britain, Holland, Sweden, Switzerland, Italy, and Austria. Its purpose is to provide for capital expenditures incident to improvement of Austrian railways and properties of the postal and telegraph administration.

Coincident with the announcement of the offering, it was authoritatively stated that the loan makes practically the last step in financing incident to the post-war reconstruction of Europe. It is the first loan by Austria since 1923 when an issue was floated to establish the Bank of Austria and aid in balancing the budget.

ACCEPTS PROPOSAL.

BASLE, Switzerland, July 14.—(AP)—The Bank of International Settlements today announced acceptance of the proposal of the Austrian government to serve as trustee for the forthcoming Austrian loan.

Ask Receiver for Saunders Chain Grocery Store Unit

Memphis, Tenn., July 14.—(AP)—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy and a petition for a temporary receivership for the Clarence Saunders Stores, Inc., unit in a huge grocery store chain, were filed in federal court here today against Clarence Saunders, maker and loser of millions in his career as a chain grocery store operator.

CLARENCE SAUNDERS.

The hearing of the petition for receivership was delayed until tomorrow morning, when it will be fought out before Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson. In an answer to the bankruptcy petition today Saunders asked that it also be heard tomorrow.

Three firms listed debts of $2,952 in their action against the national chain. They said Saunders had paid a debt to a local concern this month and by doing that had created a preferred creditor, conceding he was in a technical state of bankruptcy. In his answer Saunders denied this, the crucial point of the action.

Petition Cites Debt.

The petition for receivership asserted that Saunders owed "a certain banking syndicate" $500,000 and that $200,000 will be due July 16, that much of it already is due and unpaid, and that the remainder will be due in August. This alleged condition, the petition declared, warranted removal of control from Saunders' hands for the time being.

Mr. Saunders said the Clarence Saunders Stores, Inc., has 150 stores in cities including Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Texas; Shreveport, La.; Little Rock, Ark.; St. Louis, Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, Montgomery, and Roanoke, Va. He said the Clarence Saunders corporation, controlling or licensing 230 stores, many of these on the Pacific coast, and others in Kentucky, the middle west, and the east, is not affected by today's actions.

Saunders built the Piggly Wiggly chain to a position of national independence and had made millions from it when he lost it. He engaged in a fierce battle with Wall street short sellers of Piggly Wiggly stock. He took a loss estimated by him at $4,000,000.

Starts in Again.

With a small, borrowed capital he started in again and built up the present chain. Saunders' answers to today's action was filed quickly when he learned of the bankruptcy petition.

The bankruptcy petition was signed by two Memphis firms, the Oliver-Finnie company, wholesale grocers, and Myers Paper company, and the Luce Packing company, Lucedale, Miss. Oliver-Finnie presented the petition for receivership.

PENNROAD PAYS $170 A SHARE FOR P. & W. VA. STOCK

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—Control of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad cost the Pennroad corporation $170 per share for the 222,930 shares of the corporation's common stock which it bought last fall from F. E. Taplin of Pittsburgh.

This statement was filed today with the interstate commerce commission by counsel for the Taplin interests in compliance with a commission ruling made last month, to which protest was entered by the Pittsburgh man.

The matter of the cost of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia shares was raised in a commission hearing on the application of the Pittsburgh company for authority to purchase control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie. Taplin refused to answer the questions, but was ordered to do so by the commission. He asked the commission to reconsider its ruling and finally furnished the information today when the tribunal refused to change its order.

RETAIL STOCKS OF AUTOS MOVE OUT IN JUNE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 14.—Autmobile manufacturers took a long forward step in cleaning up retail stocks of cars last month, it was indicated in figures issued today.

The low production level last month was regarded as significant of the determined effort on the part of the industry to liquidate the retail situation. Factory production apparently was at a level below retail buying demand. This condition not only is clearing dealers' floors of new cars to a point where shortages are likely to develop with any stimulation in public buying, but also enables dealers to concentrate on liquidation of used cars and convert this part of its inventory into cash.

With lower production during July the industry will go into the more active fall market with an inventory situation in the retail field which is said to be without precedent for many years.

It was estimated total stocks on June 1 were equivalent to about one month's supply, with calculations from the field indicating a stock of around 417,000 unsold cars at that time.

Canada's June Output of Newsprint Is 213,634 Tons

Newsprint output in Canada during June totaled 213,634 tons, compared with 287,681 tons in May and 225,055 tons in June last year, the Newsprint Service bureau reports. Production by United States mills in June was 108,398 tons, compared with 118,039 tons in May and 113,407 tons in June, 1929.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, July 14.—The bears lost some more of their fur in today's little fracas on the stock exchange. Except for a brief lived selling flurry in the first hour, the uplifters had control of the situation all day and pressed their advantage rather brutally in some directions.

At times they made it look like a real stock market instead of the makeshift affair it has been for the last month or so. The day's business amounted to 2,731,700 shares, as compared with a millrun average of two million or less for the last two or three weeks. Practically all the leaders established themselves in new high ground for the movement and price gains among some of the fast steppers mounted as high as 7 and 8 points.

Strong Groups Active.

It was evident that strong groups were again active on the constructive side. Radio and Radio-Keith, for instance, which are popularly supposed to reflect the activities of one large operator just back from Europe, changed hands in large volume at constantly rising prices and both finished with substantial gains to their credit.

And as so many have been so safely observing, the market is just now sadly in need of a few generous doses of tonic of this kind.

There was nothing in the general situation today to help the booster crowd in its endeavors. Call money was at 2 per cent and funds were in abundant supply, but no one any longer looks upon credit as a real factor of the market. In fact it's no secret that professional speculators are not stressing any of the customary "factors," so-called, at this time, which means that price movements in a large measure are being guided by conditions in the market itself.

Today, orders to buy were executed right up to the close of the market and some of the best prices of the day were registered in the last half hour. Preferred stocks were particularly conspicuous in the activity, demand for them having been on the increase for several days.

Heavy Artillery.

NEW BUYING AIDS LATE RALLY OF WHEAT VALUES

Close Shows Net Gains of 7-8@1c for Day.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Sufficient new buying came into the wheat market yesterday to more than offset persistent hedging pressure against the movement of the new crop.

While there was a dip which carried the September and December to a new low on the crop at one time, the close was on a strong rally with net gains of ⅞@1c for the day. July finished at 87¼@87⅝c, after selling down to 85⅞c, while September sold between 88⅜@91c and closed at 90⅜@90½c, with December at 86¼@86⅝c.

The peak of the movement of the southwestern wheat crop is expected to be passed this week, the eight markets receiving 5,383 cars for the day, while the primary arrivals of 6,040,000 bu were 1,700,000 bu less than the previous week and compared with 4,455,000 bu a year ago.

Claim Heavy Damage.

Private reports relating irreparable damage to the spring wheat crop in parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan had considerable influence on local sentiment. Many of the professionals were active on the buying side as the forecast was for continued fair weather with higher temperatures.

A Winnipeg operator who is touring western Canada wired from Swift Current that he did not see how Saskatchewan would be able to raise as much wheat as last year. R. O. Cromwell wired from Calgary, Alberta, that filling weather would be the deciding factor. He found the crop very spotted between Great Falls, Mont., and Calgary.

R. W. Kinyon, who covered the territory from Gascoyne, N. D., to Glendive, Mont., said part of the area could probably get only seed back. H. C. Donovan depreciated the possibility of black rust damage in the Dakotas and parts of Canada.

South Dakota Harvest.

Harvesting of spring wheat is now general in southern South Dakota, combines working over a large area with indicated yields of 10@14 bu per acre, taken as an average. There is evidence of premature ripening, but losses from rust are small.

There were intimations of a much larger export business being put through in wheat than is being reported, although the seaboard claimed around 1,000,000 bu had been taken in all positions. No. 2 hard at the gulf sold Saturday at 3½c over Chicago September, making the price about equal to the same delivery at Buenos Aires. The latter market was 1⅞@2c higher for the day, while Winnipeg was unchanged to ⅜c higher. Liverpool gained ½@1d on unfavorable weather reports from the Canadian northwest.

The trade was rather surprised by an increase of only 5,844,000 bu in the domestic visible supply of wheat, with the total now 116,797,000 bu, against 102,341,000 bu last year.

Corn Acts Tight.

Corn showed independent strength throughout the day due to the continued dry weather over the belt and the small stock of cash grain in store at terminal markets. Only 84,000 bu contract corn is now in public elevators in Chicago. According to private reports, bids of 75c for corn were made in Iowa, or 1c above what was offered for new wheat. There was no pressure on the market and the finish was 1¾@1⅞c higher, with July at 79c, September at 76½@76⅝c, and December at 70@70¼c.

Short covering was in evidence in oats, but July was for sale on resting orders and closed ⅛c lower, while the deferred futures gained ⅜@½c for the day. July finished at 34¼c and September at 36⅜c. The first car of new oats of the season was received Monday. It came from Illinois and graded No. 2 white, testing 33 lbs per bu.

Spreading operations continue in rye, with the close 1¼@1¼c higher, July being 48¼c and September 52c at the last. Commission houses were fair buyers.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The fact that deferred futures dropped to new low levels and responded toward the last after absorbing probably the heaviest hedging sales of any day so far this season, created an impression among a good many close observers that short sales at present levels were not advisable. On the other hand, it was said that the damage reports coming from the American and Canadian spring wheat sections are becoming worse, which is creating good buying on all weak spots. One close observer said at the close that the pit trade were mostly long at the last and that the market was in no shape to stand selling on reports of good rains in the northwest.

S. C. Harris, who has been in the east, believes there is a very extensive speculative short interest in the wheat market, sufficient to absorb a great deal of the hedging pressure. He says up to date that short interest has been exceedingly confident, encouraged by a declining price tendency, and the present level seems to us sufficiently low to stimulate a better cash demand, as we approach a diminution of the southwestern movement, and we believe the bear will be increasingly on the defensive.

HOME BANK SELLS 4 STORY BUILDING ON ASHLAND AVE.

Northwestern University Buys on Sheridan Road.

An important sale of outlying property was closed yesterday when the Home Bank and Trust company sold the four story building and ground at the northeast corner of Milwaukee and Ashland avenues to the Milwaukee-Ashland Building corporation. The price paid was not disclosed, but the sale was made subject to a $135,000 bond issue.

The building corporation, which is headed by Harold Friedman of the Friedman Construction company, plans to remodel the structure to meet the requirements imposed by the widening of Ashland avenue. When remodeled, the building will contain stores, shops, and offices. The lot is irregular in shape, and when the widening of Ashland is complete it will contain approximately 2,200 square feet. R. F. Bedlow and Henry White were brokers. Carl B. Nusbaum of Nusbaum, Hugg & Sturman was attorney for the building corporation.

Gets Control of Block.

Northwestern university has purchased from Robert L. Leffingwell the residence at 1840 Sheridan road, Evanston, opposite the life saving station. The purchase gives the university control of the block bounded by Hinman avenue on the west, Clark street on the south, Sheridan road on the east, and Sheridan road on the north. It will be recalled that Sheridan road turns and runs west along the campus at this point. The university bought the property for future requirements and it has leased back the residence to Mr. Leffingwell for five years. The ground is 70x82 feet and the price paid was $1 and other considerations.

The National Tea company has purchased from Walter G. Eissler the property 38x100 feet at 1118 Chicago avenue, Oak Park. The old residence on the land will be razed and a one story store building for the use of the chain grocery company erected.

South Side Purchase.

Peter J. Fitzsimons has sold to Minnie E. Jackson of Lakewood, Fla., the eighteen flat building at the northeast corner of Vincennes avenue and Oakland boulevard, lot 71.5x178 feet, and the twelve apartments at 817-19 Cottage Grove, lot 49.5x200, for an undisclosed consideration. Charles B. Motz of L. M. Smith & Bro. was broker.

The Texas company has leased the following pieces of property for use as gasoline and oil filling stations: 654-700 East 71st street, for ten years at $24,000; the northwest corner of Cicero and Palmer avenues, for ten years at $42,000; the northeast corner of 93d street and Ashland avenue, for ten years at $45,300, and the northeast corner of 75th street and Langley avenue, for ten years at $36,000.

COTTON IRREGULAR

Cotton yesterday had a break at one time, followed by a bulge and a close around the best figures of the day. There was more disposition to buy on all weak spots and the market responded fairly for a time, only to weaken at the last.

Consumption in the United States in May was 474,000 bales and in June last year 570,000 bales. At the last futures in Chicago were 5@13 points lower and in other markets 4@22 points lower. Liverpool closed 1@4 points lower, with spot sales 2,000 bales. Exports since Aug. 1, 1929, aggregate 6,600,000 bales, against 7,900,000 bales for the same time last year.

Spots were 10 points lower, with New York 13.10c, New Orleans 12.69c, Galveston 12.55c, and Houston 12.35c. Prices follow:

The Company thus controls gas and/or oil rights on approximately 120,000 acres.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 5,000 cattle, 27,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep.

A run of 55,000 hogs forced prices down mostly 10@15c yesterday, although best grades of light weights were in demand at last week's quotations during the first rounds of trading. The extreme top held at $9.85, while the general average declined 10c at $8.70, showing the widest spread since last September.

The proportion of packing sows was largest of the season and the range in prices wider than any time in July since 1927. A break of 1@2c per pound in wholesale prices of fresh pork loins at Chicago limited the buying power of smaller houses later in the day and 7,000 were left at the close. Outsiders bought 10,000, the second largest number in some time.

Hog Futures Are Steady.

Hog futures held steady yesterday, in face of the break on the cash trade. Volume of trade, however, was smaller than late last week, with bids and offers far apart on some contracts at the close.

September light weights sold at $9.50 and mediums for the same month at $9.45. July heavy grades were bought at $9.05. August lights were offered at $10.00 and bid $9.35. December light and heavy were bid $8.25 and were being offered at $8.50 at the close.

Yearlings brought stronger prices yesterday, while medium and weighty steers were slow and unevenly lower. Stocker Aircrft 1,100 19 18¾ 19 + ¾

FOREIGN TRADE OF NATION SHOWS DECLINE IN MAY

Recession Most Marked Among Neighbors.

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—May exports of the United States were indicated today by the commerce department to have declined more to North American countries than to any other part of the globe.

The drop in import trade for May was most serious in shipments from Asia, which amounted to $50,000,000 less than imports from there in May, 1929. This was due largely to the price fluctuation of a single commodity, crude rubber, which is one of the great items supplied the United States from abroad.

Make Comparison.

Exports and imports for the month of May as compared with those of the same month last year follow:

EXPORTS.

| | May, 1930. | May, 1929. |
|---|---|---|
| North America | 101,605,841 | 132,896,511 |
| South America | 29,852,980 | 35,852,011 |
| Asia | 35,503,472 | 44,613,038 |
| Oceania | 9,246,022 | 16,925,853 |
| Africa | 7,875,204 | 8,541,166 |

IMPORTS.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Europe | $ 84,136,947 | $113,790,754 |
| North America | 81,138,509 | 92,363,425 |
| South America | 39,179,645 | 53,028,471 |
| Asia | 70,459,290 | 124,410,325 |
| Oceania | 4,118,050 | 5,648,684 |
| Africa | 5,611,484 | 10,307,606 |

Canada, which is tending to become the best single customer of the United States, received exports from this country during the month to the value of $69,559,025, against $97,904,978 last May; imports from Canada for the same period were $37,357,987, against $44,330,153.

Exports to Great Britain were $47,001,968, against $54,430,924, and imports from Great Britain $21,353,376 against $29,762,229. Exports to France were $15,109,543, against $13,248,343. Imports from France were $10,302,026, against $13,953,724.

Low Silk Prices.

Exports to Germany were $17,225,765, against $24,085,806, and imports from Germany $13,045,781, against $20,626,869.

One of the most remarkable changes in the trade figures affecting a single nation was that shown as to imports from Japan, which in May amounted to but $13,874,428, or nearly $20,000,000 less than the total of Japanese shipments to the United States in the same month last year.

Here also the market fortune of a single commodity—raw silk—contributed the principal cause of the extraordinary fluctuation. Silk prices have touched points that are classed as new lows in commercial history during recent months.

Carbon, Worthington Pump, and Vanadium, the latter two having been targets for the shorts for some time.

Utility stocks were strong as a group and some of the best gains of the day were registered in this section. People's Gas scored a net gain of 9 points.

The oils continued to improve with a better outlook for the trade due to the ending of the California price war and renewed steps for a curtailment of the output. Houston Oil advanced more than 4 points, while among the higher priced issues, Standard of New Jersey bettered its position by more than a point.

Railway shares were in good demand all day and several sharp advances were registered. Norfolk and Western jumped nearly 8 points. Delaware and Hudson on a nominal turnover did even better, moving up 9 full points. Johns-Manville braced up with a bang and J. I. Case had one of its good days—7½ points worth.

The Nine Hundred Block

BY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

A FATHER'S CONSCIENCE.

"I won't have no fly-by-night comin' in here and a botherin' me!" Agnes told Mary who was coating pecans with olive oil, the while the oven heated.

"Is he taking notice?" asked Mary, her voice sharpened by surprise.

"You tend to your business," Agnes responded. She was kitchen royalty and she rarely confided more than an order to "them she hired" . . . She heard Mary sniffling aggrievedly and with the far-carrying sniff of her kind. . . . Agnes, in normal moment, would have told Mary to use her handkerchief, but now—she could think of nothing but Mr. Treadway's particularity about the dinner. And his saying—after a clear of throat—that his guests were to be "two—ladies," Agnes' peace was menaced with a threat of the possible passing of an old and beloved order.

Hadn't she given her life to him? (Ah, how many women think this question in various patterns of pain!)

Billy, meantime, and with a self-indulgent smile, considered his "upset" of a recent rainy afternoon. It was, obviously, something that happened occasionally to the most sane of men; but a thing—thank God!—that passed. He was no longer pliable, he knew; love would twist him to odd shapes that would leave cramp. He would be "a good, kind friend to the dear child." (He sang "After the Ball Is Over" as he dusted his willow platters.)

Yet—he told Mary to lay the Venetian cut work dinner cloth and he himself, braved the chill and a probable second sinus attack in order to get candles of the "exact shade" he wanted.

He was eager to see Theresa again; to know himself, while seeing her, the master of his fate. He was fond of that rut he followed so smoothly; the rut from which all roughness had been worn by the treadmill of his days.

But on Sunday at five (a chill day! too chill to wander the garden!) when Peter opened the motor door and Elsie Colt stepped out and then—Theresa, Billy knew that no fleeting Indian summer of love had settled in his heart, but spring, true spring.

Elsie murmured, nearing him, "To be here, Billy!"

"It is good to have you," he answered not quite steadily, looking beyond her and at Theresa, shy, but obviously, too, glad to be crossing his threshold. He took Theresa's coat to know that it was too light; he thought, with a swing

Theresa looked around to see samplers, pewter pieces, English prints, an old Dutch chest, a lowboy, some Sheraton chairs, an Adam mantel, a pie crust table with copper-toed boots on its feet, a grandfather clock with a slow, rather dismal, conservative tick; a banjo clock with a pert, hurried voice; a maple footstool, a long Spanish bench, a choir stall from an English church, Carboys, old bottles of every description, some of them bearing the words "Good luck to the railroad!"; Stiegel glass, early American pressed glass, which Theresa hated; it always looked to her soiled and clumsily thick. Wonderful oriental rugs, "perfect examples of hooked rugs," a spinning wheel. Collector's luck and mania, crammed and tangled in the huge hall, but—not an inch of rest!

"How interesting!" she said. "But to live in it!" she mused. One could not—live in it!

"You're an adorably tactful child!" said Billy quickly, warmly, a little breathlessly; "I've put so much of myself into my house, you know?" (He was growing steadier, with mental feet on known ground) "and before you go—and don't let me forget—I want you and your mother to see the sweetest little Curate's Helper I found in a shop on Charles street in Baltimore; I love the little affair! And, too, I have a strip of brocade I must show you—I'm going to have it made into cushions—years old—softest color.

"You have many wonderful things," Theresa said, smiling as she would at a funny, buff-orpington-suggesting old lady. Billy thought of the maple four poster on the third floor that he had not had refinished.

Theresa did not see the change in his eyes; she was looking through a window. She wished Mr. Treadway were not so old—poor Billy, who felt so disconcertingly young at that moment! Theresa loved the wing that buffeted, and tore; clawed, fought; she would have liked to battle against it in the garden. But that Mr. Treadway would not enjoy such encounter she knew, as truly as she knew that Mr. Deane would like it. Mr. Deane—she could not help but think of him—almost all the time, nor could she help listening for his quick, young step upon Mrs. Nulman's stairs.

Elsie Colt spoke as sharply to Theresa as she ever spoke to Theresa—in public. Theresa came back to reality with eyes a little conscious and with cheeks a little flushed.

Since histories, both great and small, are ever made by one's wish to get somewhere (witness, one G. Washington's crossing of an ice-choked stretch of water and that pre-channel dog-stroke feat of a youth called Leander) it is fitting to record the uneasiness of a short, rather stocky, dull-eyed man with a heavy thatch of gray hair; a man called Arnold Ames.

He wanted, desperately, wistfully, to know how his daughter was getting on; to do "something" for her. He thought of it as he woke; thought of it while he bathed, dressed, and as he ate his breakfast in company with Laura, whose family had always eaten breakfasts heavily, unjoyfully, dutifully, with their mates. He thought of it as—smoking his after-breakfast cigar—he was driven to his office, all rear windows of the car most firmly closed. Even in his office he thought of it between heavy, stolid business with stocks and bonds which generally proved the tortoise and the hare theory.

"Hell," he decided heavily, "It's getting me . . . this—business."

He had never before been so "got" save by Theresa's mother, who had sneered at his need of her; thus driving him to "that woman" whom he remembered with nausea; that woman who had started it all and who had gratified Elsie in going off with "that Colt."

At first Arnold had felt he could bring Elsie to heel by letting her drink the cup of poverty; he had even gone so far as to apprise the heads of the first school which Barrington Colt had afterward taught of "the situation." He had always, to that point, fought fairly, because his slowly moving mind made him consider long. (It is the hasty who make headlines.) And he had meant to take Elsie back; forgive her. (And how he had thought of doing that!) He had been certain that, with her return, she would no longer sit smiling at the solid and thorough way he stowed away food . . . nor raise supercilious eyebrows at his human need for affection.

But all his efforts to bring Elsie back had been wasted and because her heart was too cramped to permit her knowing the latitude of love and of how much the truly loving can forgive, and after his strained and wistful period of waiting (during which Elsie had railed about how she had "ruined" her life in "one romantic moment") he married the Smith girl . . . the one who kept house so well and who taught the Bible class . . . And somehow, he never "got around" to sending Elsie anything for the child. And now, he realized his daughter, Elsie's daughter, could say that he had never done anything for her and, too, Elsie might have made his daughter hate him.

And Laura, whom he had married because it had seemed "a sensible move" and because she was incapable of a seared amusement at slow thoroughness, had intimated that she would go back to the old Smith place at the edge of town if he did anything—anything for them—or attempted to as much as see his daughter. She had made her ultimatum at breakfast and after a silence that had grown so heavy that even Arnold noticed it.

"Why, Laura?" he asked. He laid down his fork. He did not want Laura to see the sudden new trembling of his short thick hand, but she had.

"Because I will. I have said it, Arnold," she replied. Her pendulous lower lip trembled. She had always been so reasonable, too, he reflected, as her frown thickened and the fact that she always had been reasonable made him the more irritable now. It is the patient, long-suffering soul who is punished for an outburst; not the Tartar.

Good Morning!

If you're a fight fan you don't want to miss the mixup in this picture. It's not a prize fight. No. Just a little private conflict between two twenty minute eggs—Lucky Larry Sheldon (Richard Dix) and a Mr. Martin (Matthew Betz), but it takes in a lot of territory that looks like Kansas after a cyclone strikes it, when they get through. It is a lovely, bluggy, exciting fight. The ladies in the audience yip with delighted hysteria during its process and the males present emit low growls of enjoyment. If there's anything synthetic about this scrap, why, then, I'm certainly no judge of simon pure mixtures.

This is a gangster number with a difference. It soft pedals on the heavy stuff, and, carting its principal character, "Lucky" Larry Sheldon, to the small town of Rockville, introduces him as a reformer—and lets things break. This they do, actively, thrillingly, amusingly, believably.

Mr. Dix is in great form and voice as Larry. He does what you hope he'll do the way you hope he'll do it, playing with force and restraint. Mary Lawlor is perfectly charming as the minister's daughter, whose tender care of Larry after a train wreck has laid him low turns his thoughts—if not toward heaven—still away from the life that he has known.

"I'm going straight," Larry tells the policeman who has come on business the picture shall tell you. "That train wreck, well—did something to me. . . ."

"O, yeah," says the cop, looking around for a better reason, and finding it—standing, demure and with downcast eyes, over in a corner. "O, yeah? Well, I wouldn't blame it ALL on the wreck if I was you."

Here's a program picture that's up to the minute. Acting, direction (of a story that's not so very new), sound, dialogue, sets, scenery, and THE FIGHT—satisfy. Politely and sincerely say we that we hope we will be seeing Mr. Dix et al, in another picture some day soon.

If this picture were as good all through as it is in spots it would be quite an offering. As is, it is moderately entertaining throughout and has several richly comic moments. The scenes in which are Emily Fitzroy and Basil Rathbone are the ones that contain the rib tickles. Clever pantomimists these who also know a heap about what inflection means to the human voice.

The title is a fibber. There is no widow. Miss Mackaill is seen as a maid who pretends she's a fiancée—for reasons the film shall show you—but she's nary wife nor widow. Anyhow she is charming to look at and does nice work—as do Claude Gillingwater, Leila Hyams and others playing minor rôles. Unexciting work—but nice.

The story of "The Flirting Widow" is in no way remarkable for originality. You've met it before in different garb, but it remains the tail of the lady who announces she will wed a fictitious character, to discover that there lives, breathes and has his being an individual bearing the name she has given the man of her dreams. Said disturbing creature leaps into her life. Ensues comedy of errors with a happy ending.

The piece has been effectively staged, nicely recorded and pretty well directed. It's acceptable summer fare.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

If you had a daughter of twenty-two, who asked your advice as to her future, what would that advice be?

The Answers.

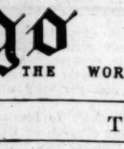
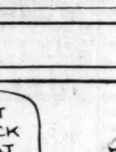
Melvin H. Ouimet, 4507 W. Washington boulevard, service manager—Today at the age of twenty, as a rule, they do not ask for advice. I certainly would be more than pleased, however, to advise my daughter to seek a vocation she herself desired, then by strict application she could become a success in life.



Mrs. Ella Lynch, 10 West Jackson boulevard, Oak Park, housewife — In these strenuous times a girl of twenty knows as much as her parents. When I was a girl the only future one could hope for was a husband with a cozy home.



William Murphy, 3044 Madison street, salesman — I haven't got such a daughter. However, I should do everything in my power to give her the proper education so she could take her place in the business world. Then nothing would please me better than to see her happily married.

Miss Anna McCoy, 10 West Jackson boulevard, Oak Park, designer — My advice would be to decide what she liked to do best, irrespective of what it may be, art, sports, music or business. Then concentrate all your efforts on that and make good. In this age if a person can do one thing well a future is assured.

Mrs. George Perry, 4726 Race avenue, housewife—I first would see that she had been well educated and made the right sort of girl and boy friends. So many mothers are careless about that, and that's why there are many girls of twenty who are aimless. A girl of that age, with proper home environment, can accomplish about anything she sets out to do.

Mothers Plead for Free Ice to Improve Their Babies' Health

Just suppose, reader, that you lived in tenements where ice is looked on as a luxury, wouldn't you write to the ice fund, too?

Yesterday's mail brought three more letters to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund. One letter said:

"I am writing to find out if I can have some ice for my baby for her milk, because I can't afford to buy it, and baby's milk gets sour. I didn't know it was sour at first and I gave it to baby and she got sick. Please will you be so kind to help me?"

"I would like to know if I can get some ice from you," another letter said. "I have three children, 6 years old, 3, and one a year old. I cannot afford to buy ice. My husband has been out of work for nine months, and we have no money."

And from the third mother: "My husband has been unemployed since March and our little boy, 4 years old, is in ill health. Any assistance in giving us ice off your free ice wagon would be greatly appreciated."

After reading appeals like that one wonders what to do about them. THE TRIBUNE free ice fund has only a bit over $600 to its credit this year. It had hoped to give ice all summer long to at least 900 families, as it did last year. The need is just as urgent this summer, in fact, more so, because many more fathers and mothers are out of work.

A lemonade stand operated by three children brought the ice fund $2 yesterday. They were Billie McMakin, Bob McMakin, and Rosemary Cotton. Other ice fund gifts follow:

| Total | $ 49.00 |

For the Camp Algonquin fund to help finance the camp for tenement mothers and children on the Fox river, 45 miles northwest of Chicago, came $10 from Mrs. Albert Stein and $5 from Ida C. Benson, bringing the fund to $1,798.62. Gifts to both TRIBUNE funds should be made payable to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE.

Idaho Provides Missing Link in Horse Race

Bones Called Million Years Old Found.

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—Fossil bones of the connecting link between the present horse and his three toed ancestor have been found in Idaho by scientists of the Smithsonian institute.

Dr. J. W. Gidley, mammalogist of that institution, in announcing the discovery today, said this newly discovered but extinct species was a very valuable contribution in tracing the evolution of the horse.

With the finding of these skeletal remains, he said, there was no major missing link in the anatomical evolution of the horse for about 25,000,000 years. Only two gaps, which lie beyond that period, remain to be bridged, he said, to have a complete evolution history of the animal which once was no larger than the modern fox.

The rich deposit of bones which was unearthed near Hagerman by the Gidley exploration group consists of nearly 30 complete skulls and enough other remains to total 6,000 pounds. Dr. Gidley expects to be able to reconstruct at least three complete skeletons from the collection which has exhibits of both sexes of the animal from embryo to old age.

The newly discovered species is believed by Dr. Gidley to have become extinct on the continents of North and South America 1,000,000 or more years ago.

Study Indian Burials.

Lewiston, Ill., July 14.—[Special.]—Prof. Faye Cooper-Cole and his party of fifteen students from the University of Chicago today staked off a second Indian mound on the Joy Morton estate, five miles southeast of here. In the morning they will begin excavations. The noted anthropologist's party consists of twelve young men and three young women.

Prof. Cole explained this afternoon that the search of the first mound resulted in twenty-five burial exposures. Skeletons, pottery and other articles buried with the Indians were removed after preparing charts of burial positions in the mound.

CITY WILL FIGHT NEEDLESS NOISES IN HEALTH CAMPAIGN

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

The health department is out to put a muffler on the city's noises. Conferences called by Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, health commissioner, are considering separately the different phases of problems involved in saving wear and tear on the nervous systems of Chicagoans. Through these gatherings, the most recent of which was held yesterday in Dr. Kegel's office, it is hoped to abolish the unnecessary noises and to reduce the necessary ones.

Those enthusiastic radio fans who insist on inflicting their preferences in programs on the entire neighborhood until far into the wee small hours; those lusty truck drivers to whose ears the roar of a cutout is music; those pests who drive up before an apartment house full of sleeping people and toot their horns long and loudly to announce their presence—all are to be advised to "pipe down." Failure to comply with the request for less noise will bring, first a demand and later, provided no effect is produced, legal action.

"Approximately two-thirds of the complaints received by this department," Dr. Kegel reported yesterday, "are about noises. More especially about people who keep their radios going far into the night, disturbing others. We have arranged to cope with this annoyance by having people telephone to the health department to report the names and addresses of the offenders. A call then will be made to the home of the culprits and if the request for quiet is not heeded arrests will be made on the basis of maintaining a nuisance.

"Officials meeting here this morning came from various park boards and motor clubs. It was said by those present that it is the intermittent noises that shatter nerves—not the regular ones. For instance, if all motor horns could be keyed to the same note and all the exhaust blasts and musical horns done away with a tremendous improvement in that category would be noted. Of course that's a bit hard to do, however.

"Motor buses, especially the interstate types, are the worst offenders in the vehicle class because of their size and large engines. Representatives of the companies concerned promised to cooperate in the campaign to reduce noise. Four of their magazines in the near future will carry an article I am preparing on the subject. The new feeder buses of the surface lines are almost noiseless.

"Not much has been accomplished to date by the surface lines in efforts to reduce noise, though an expert has been doing research on the subject for the last year. The new traction ordinance carries a clause prepared by this department, providing for the installation of equipment causing a minimum of din."

"Four police departments — the north, south and west park board and the regular department, all have pledged cooperation," Dr. Kegel added. "Commissioner Alcock has said his men would issue warnings against unnecessary noise and would follow it up with arrests.

"We're giving everybody a week's warning. After that we hope to educate people to make less noise, just as they have been educated not to spit on the sidewalk—it's a matter of health in both cases. And we're prepared to back up requests with demands."

Young Lutherans' Leader Fears for Constitution.

Cleveland, O., July 14.—(AP)—About 2,000 young members of the Walther league, Lutheran church society, in convention here, today heard E. J. Gallmeyer, Fort Wayne, Ind., their president, declare that "tampering with the United States constitution for the purpose of regulating personal conduct" places the constitution "in jeopardy."

"Millions of our citizens believe that our constitution should not be tampered with, but should be left as a fundamental guide. The great majority of our Lutheran group hold to this view for two important reasons," Gallmeyer said.

"In the first place, because of the great prosperity which our country had enjoyed under our God favored constitution, learned economists hold that our progress and wealth are directly traceable to our fundamental law, for it made possible individual development. The constitution should not be tampered with by propagandists.

"Secondly, we hold that our religious freedom, our greatest boon under the constitution, is placed in jeopardy when this fundamental instrument is used as a statute for regulatory laws.

"I am talking about tampering with the constitution for the purpose of regulating personal conduct. If well meaning and sincere people can tell us what to eat and to drink, what assurance have we that they will not very shortly tell us how, when, and where we shall worship?

"Is there a complete separation of church and state when religious bodies force upon the country their particular religious views and, using the arm of the state, compel millions of people, who do not hold these same views, to conform to their viewpoints? I thank God that our ministry has not permitted itself to be paid to run the politics of the country, but rather that they have confined their work to being true shepherds of the flock, following the footsteps of the Good Shepherd himself."

The Walther league president then urged the young men and women delegates who are attending the convention from many parts of the country not to permit themselves to be "ensnared in bigoted actions of any kind."

Presbyterians Meet.

The Presbyterian pastors' conference opened yesterday at the Presbyterian Theological seminary with an address by the Rev. Dr. William Chalmers Covert, formerly of Chicago, now of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Presbyterian board of education. Sessions of the conference will be held each day this week. In the first of six addresses, Dr. Covert attacked the "clever cynicism" of negationists, behaviorists, humanists, and moral nihilists in current religious discussions.

Dr. Covert declared that science and invention have created a new age, which has "crowned life with untold physical blessings and comforts, but have left mankind with the deep, elemental mysteries unsolved and have shed no light on the major problem of men's souls."

German Upper House Boosts Plans for International Talkies

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 14.—The day after Will Hays, czar of American movies, arrived here the federal council of German states, the "reichsrat," approved the draft of a bill regulating the exchange of films between America and Germany. The bill it is believed will facilitate the import of American films into Germany.

It is understood that the regulations of the bill, which now goes to the reichstag, are more liberal than the draft originally submitted by the reichsrat. The German movie industry itself asked for abolition of the prohibitive measures which were crippling the American film industry in Germany.

This change of attitude was due to an agreement reached in Paris Saturday on the complete interchangeability of sound recording and reproducing apparatus in both countries.

The willingness of the Germans to cooperate with the Americans indicates that satisfactory progress is being made in the negotiations for an alliance of the powerful German concerns interested in the talkie industry, the German General Electric company and Siemens-Schuckert, with the American group and Warner Bros.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Wife's Best Bet in Husband Holding Is a Well Run Home

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Wives overlook a thoroughly good bet when they deduct from their reckonings the valuable asset to them of a well and smoothly run home. A goodly number of wives are coming to think that their appearance and mental alertness and flip wisecracking are more important.

Not that appearance and good mentality are not valuable assets. They are. But I am talking of a certain type of wife who believes that smartness of looks and dress and a good line are better husband holding assets than an attractive home background with well planned and well served meals. The ideal in a bachelor's dreams is a highly attractive wife, a well dressed one and one who rules with ease and grace over a beautifully run ménage. Some benedicts have discovered it can be more than a dream. There are countless women who fulfill charmingly all the dream requirements.

On the other hand, there is a growing body of married women, fed largely on literature dealing with the "rival" woman in their lives or on hearsay that for every wife there is an outside woman ready to steal her man away—and these are the women who put beauty above everything else. Some of them have experienced a first inroad on their marital security. Their first thought of defense is the beauty parlor. There they rush on the theory that they must try to outwit the "rival" at her own game.

The truth is they have a better game to play—the home one. Let them play the beauty game, too. It's a good one. And today's wife is expected to be pictorially agreeable. BUT, until the lure of a charming home has been utterly exhausted, there's where the battle may be waged with greatest hope of success. However, it was not so much to introduce the home as a strategical base from which to attack the enemy as to make it an impregnable fort.

Man is essentially a comfort loving creature. Give him good meals, comfortable chairs, a certain degree of beauty for his eye to feast upon, room for his legs to stretch and freedom of action around the house and you are building up a better "defense" than you get any other way. Women, being natural extremists, possessed with the beauty propaganda extant at the moment are apt to put all their eggs in that particular basket and overlook the more fundamentally holding thing in a man's life—the agreeably conducted home.

Don't Try to Block Daughter's Natural Interest in Boys

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

You can have a well baby this summer if you know how to care for it. Mrs. Bevans will send you the necessary information on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Yesterday the mother of the young daughter whose interest in boys had suddenly blossomed, was advised to accept the change instead of trying to prolong the little girl stage. She couldn't strip away the new romantic quality that has come into her daughter's relationship with boys even if she tried—so it's better not to try. You can't stem the tide.

Instead let the mother be natural about the whole thing. One of the best ways to accept the situation is by having the house always open to both boys and girls. Don't force outside meetings. Have little parties rather than big ones, and have them often so the youngsters will feel perfectly at ease.

Encourage your daughter to invite boys and girls home to dinner—or let them have Sunday night suppers with which they all help. (Washing dishes at your girl's house is so different from washing them at home!)

This is a natural interest, so see that it comes out in the open. There is much fun ahead for all of you if it does—and a closer companionship as well.

Of course you must be the balance wheel. You can't turn your young daughter loose. You will want to know who your daughter's friends are. You will know where she goes and with whom. You will see that she doesn't lose sleep for parties, that she keeps up her school work and that she has the wholesome fun of outdoors and sports.

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Helen Rend Is Writing Music During Summer

BY THALIA ——.

An industrious young woman who doesn't believe in loafing the summer away is Miss Helen Rend, one of the Joseph P. Rends' trio of talented daughters.

She is taking advantage of these peaceful days to advance herself in her chosen field of musical composition. She has a cunning little studio on the corner of Michigan avenue and Erie street. Therein she spends many hours each day practicing and studying. She keeps no dilettante hours, either, if you please. Any one who has been up and out at 7:30 o'clock in the morning may have occasionally seen an energetic roller skater headed southwards from Scott street. This was none other than Miss Rend in person, who thus provides her own transportation to get an early start at her labors.

She wrote the music that accompanied the Junior League's children's performances of "The Patchwork Girl of Oz" and "Treasure Island," and has consented to work out the music for next winter's plays. The Kansas City and Cleveland Junior leagues have bought the rights to use the "Treasure Island" and "Patchwork Girl" music with their productions of the same plays. All of this attests the charm of Miss Rend's works. She is working now on a suite long "Fantasy," and hopes to publish a group of things sometime next year.

Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff have invited about 50 of their friends to a house warming supper dance tomorrow evening in their pent house overlooking the lake at 1500 Lake Shore drive. There is to be dancing both indoors and in the Italian garden.

Other rising north shore aviators besides Miss Margaret Emily Lynde mentioned in yesterday's column include Nathan Swift, son of the Alden B. Swifts, and Harding Van Schaack, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Van Schaack of Wilmette. They also are enrolled in the training school at Sky Harbor. Crilly Butler, son of the Bush Clark Butlers of Winnetka, learned to pilot a plane when he was at Yale. Occasionally he charters a ship at Sky Harbor. Bob Bennett recently purchased a good looking Stinson Jr. plane and is taking pilot instruction also.

Winnetka has a junior firemen unit recently organized. Some 30 boys, all of them about 14 years old, meet on Wednesday afternoons at 4 o'clock at the fire station for instruction and training for their duties.

Bud Christopher, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Christopher, is chief of the junior firemen, and Art Augdahl is assistant chief. The group includes also Jack Vennema, Justice Chancellor, Craig Benson, Leete Keefer, "Perky" Clayball, John Rice, Donald Cooke, Charles Pinchon, Byron Kanaly Jr., George Smith, Art Littlefield, Jim Pearson, Lyman Smith, and Bill McNally.

John P. Wilson and Oscar W. Johnson spent the week-end with their respective families at the Chicago club at Charlevoix, Mich. Mrs. Robert C. Orr, who is at the club for the summer, now has as her guests her cousin, Mrs. Wilson W. Mills of Grosse Pointe, Mich., and the latter's daughter, Ann Ewell Mills.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward W. White and their children, Barbara Jane and Edward W. Jr., are among the Chicagoans who are to sail on the S. S. Hamburg on Thursday for Europe.

The Robert H. Van Deusens of 1415 Astor street have taken a cottage, "Idle Rest," at Watch Hill, R. I. Mr. Van Deusen arrived last week with their three children, Frederick, Bobbie and Maidza, and Mrs. Van Deusen's mother, Mrs. Ethel Wakem. Mr. Van Deusen will join them this week. Mr. Van Deusen will return to Chicago soon and will go back to Watch Hill for his vacation in late August.

KENWOOD BRIDE

[Du Bois Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kelly of 4613 Woodlawn avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to James T. Barrett on June 28 at St. Ambrose church.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers are in their new home, "Dronley House," at Watch Hill. Their grandson, Norman Williams Jr. of Woodstock, Vt., is visiting them. The Chalmers have had the house altered and the grounds replotted since they purchased it last fall and it is said to be one of the most attractive estates in the colony.

Mrs. Caswell Alan Sharpe, who has been motoring through New England and Canada, has returned to Lake Forest and is with her daughter, Mrs. Alice Rodiger Boswell, at 455 Deerpath avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Alister McCormick are members of that group of Chicagoans who prefer to spend the greater part of the year in California. They have been in their new house at Pasadena since last winter and have decided to remain west until late October, instead of returning in midsummer as they had originally planned. Their young son, Michael, has just recovered from a serious illness.

Miss Ruth Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Fisher of Winnetka, has gone to England for the remainder of the summer.

Sally Calls for 100 Guests and Promises Fun

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Is there unanimous approval of our plans for partying on July 24? Well, I should think so! One grand, all-talking picture, featuring Helen Kane, the original boopa-doop girl, plus five acts of the best vaudeville spell a big whoopee time to me. The Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation wants me to bring one hundred boys and girls to their Palace theater for this party, a week from next Thursday.

The picture, "Dangerous Nan McGrew," sounds like an awfully good one and it must be terribly funny, Helen Kane, the star, does some of her best singing and clowning and she is supported by a good cast. Victor Moore, James Hall, Stuart Erwin, Frank Morgan and Roberta Robinson are in it and Malcolm St. Clair, whose comedy technique is well nigh perfect directed it. The action takes place in the great Canadian northwest in snow clad forests, at hunting lodge house parties, and ice carnivals. There's a wealth of good singing and dancing and we can guarantee you a laugh at least once every minute.

In the vaudeville acts we will see some of the best entertainers of the stage. Louise Groody, who became so popular because of her work in the stage production of "No, No, Nanette" will be at the R-K-O Palace in person in a dancing and singing number. Miss Groody's unusual talent should make this act an exceptionally good one. Then, there will be a musical revue which you will be sure to like because it's headed by Elizabeth Morgan, a Broadway star. And there's Paul Kirkland and Company, a clever dancing act. You'll marvel at Mr. Kirkland's difficult balancing and acrobatic feats. There's one stunt he does on the top of a tall ladder which is especially interesting.

I don't want to tell you too much about the performance because there won't be any surprises left for you but I think I've said enough to convince you that it will be an extremely good one and you shouldn't miss it. Now, if you like the idea of seeing it with ninety-nine other boys and girls, write me a letter telling me why. From the letters I receive, I shall select the hundred who sound the most anxious to attend this party and those who will enjoy it most. Although you have until Thursday morning to get this letter to me, you had better start writing it immediately while all the things I've told you are fresh in your mind. Don't forget to have it include your name, address and age and send it to me at THE TRIBUNE.

Bright Sayings of the Children

A strange child was noticed in the yard. "Who is the little girl?" Frances was asked by her mother.

Quick was her reply: "I don't know her name, mother, but she's a big girl, 'cause when she sits on the bench she can put her feet on the ground. M. S.

My wife was away because of ill health, and I was writing a letter to her. Thinking our four year old daughter might have some message for her mother, I asked, "What will I tell mother for you, Margie?"

"Tell her I kiss her in my heart," she answered. J. M. H.

Historical Exhibit Here Recalls Japan's Debut Among Great Nations

The opening of Japanese treaty ports to the world and the entrance of Japan into western civilization was commemorated yesterday by a special exhibit at the Chicago Historical society. This anniversary celebrates the occasion, 77 years ago, when Commodore Mathew Perry handed a letter, written on velum and bound in velvet, to three princes of Japan, representing their emperor, from President Fillmore and opened negotiations which resulted in the signing of the treaty.

The exhibit included the wheel of the S. S. Powhatan, which carried Perry's party to Japan and later returned with a delegation of Japanese diplomats to Washington to complete negotiations and a history of the expedition written by Perry for the government.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

The hollyhock is called stately as well as decorative and democratic as well as aristocratic in gracing barnyards or the entrances to millionaires' estates. Next year's hollyhocks can be grown from the seed of plants now blooming.

Plants growing this year from pedigreed seed will make the best seed supply for next year's garden spots. The larger the plants, the better will be the seeding, growing and blooming in 1931. The flower is a perennial, but usually is grown as a biennial to be sure of a solid and regular row or border. Three to four years is commonly considered the life of the plant as a perennial as winter killing removes some each year.

The old fashioned single type, it is felt by gardeners, holds more grace than the double flowers formerly popular with their stiff cushions adhering closely to a stubby spike. Some of the newst developments offered by plant breeders include the new pink in both double and single strains and the graceful fig leafed hollyhock which has deeply lobed foliage.

Food Talk.

In the last few years, since women have been coming to the fore, the question of reducing weight to improve looks has become grave. On every side we hear mature women and young girls who seem normal in size and in the best of health talking about their diets. If one listens long enough one usually learns that the diet being followed is some freak fad that has been instituted by some one who knows nothing about good nutrition. Too many of these reducing diets are harmful—even dangerous. There are literally hundreds who have lost their good health as well as their good looks by trying to live on just tomato juice and hard boiled eggs or a lamb chop and a slice of pineapple — all good foods in themselves, but insufficient to build a well balanced diet. Wise is the woman who goes about reducing cautiously.

In the first place, if she is thinking of reducing, she should make sure that she can afford to lose weight. If she weighs not more than 10 per cent above the average for her height and age, then her weight is normal and she shouldn't meddle with good health.

Reducing diets are best followed under the direction of a competent doctor or nutrition worker. They determine the total calorie or fuel needs. Then the diet is planned to include an adequate amount of protein, minerals, vitamins and water. The rest of the diet is made up of energy foods—carbohydrates and fats — but the amounts of these energy foods are reduced to fall below the daily calorie needs. In this way, body fat is gradually used up.

A DELICIOUS SALAD

CARROT, CABBAGE AND GREEN PEA SALAD.

1 cup chopped cabbage.
1 cup cold boiled peas.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
½ teaspoon salt.
Mayonnaise.
Lettuce leaves.

Mix the carrots, cabbage and peas well. Add to them the lemon juice, salt and mayonnaise. Stir carefully until well mixed. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Yield: 4 servings. One serving, total: 261 calories; protein, 13 calories; fat, 196 calories; carbohydrates, 52 calories.

With salads our aim is always to make them as attractive as possible. To accomplish this the ingredients should be chosen carefully in regard to color and flavor. In this salad these characteristics are best retained when the ingredients are combined just before the salad is served.

The process of combining must be gentle and thorough—gentle enough to preserve the distinct shape of each vegetable and thorough enough to have a well mixed mass.

PEOPLE had been friendly enough at first—invited him to go on picnics, walks and rides. But not any more! Even his own invitations were politely turned down now. That's what always happened—every year. He couldn't understand it.

Then, returning to the city on a crowded train, he overheard something. His own name and then—"B.O." And all at once—he knew! Realized why others left him out of things, kept away from him. For "B.O." is the polite term for a condition people dislike even to mention—body odor . . . Now he has adopted a simple safeguard against this fault that kept him unpopular. Next year won't see another vacation ruined by "B.O."

"B. O." weather—beware!

Hot sultry days like these make us perspire more freely—increase the danger of "B.O." We quickly become used to this ever-present odor, seldom notice it in ourselves—only in others.

Because it is so easy to offend and not know it, take this simple precaution. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Then you're safe. For Lifebuoy, even in hardest water, gives an abundance of rich, creamy, antiseptic lather that penetrates pores—removes all odor—leaves you gloriously clean and fresh. # DRY CHIEF BACKS IOWA AGENTS IN McGREGOR RAID

Supports Underlings in Story of Affair.

McGregor, Ia., July 14.—[Special.]—George C. Parsons, deputy prohibition administrator for the northern district of Iowa, who caused the arrest of Mayor Walter and Policeman C. D. Phelps of McGregor and Marshal F. J. Barton of Marquette, following the arrest and fining of two prohibition agents in McGregor on charges of traffic violations and intoxication, has made public a strong defense of H. H. Kirschman and R. H. Taylor, the two agents. He maintains they are not guilty of any of the charges lodged against them.

Parsons' Version of Affair.

Kirschman and Taylor had evidence against Goldy Johnson's poolroom at Marquette, Parsons said, and entered it at about 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night. At the time there were only four or five men in the place. The two agents obtained several bottles of alleged liquor. There was no disorder while the raid was in progress, but the news spread and, according to Parsons, a crowd of men gathered. Kirschman stepped out of the front door with a package containing several bottles of seized liquor and the gang surrounded him. The Marquette marshal, Parsons said, obeyed the request of some one in the crowd to take the package Kirschman was carrying and that he also took Kirschman's gun.

Prisoners Escape.

Taylor waited inside with his prisoners with the idea of going out the back door as Johnson had to lock this door with a key. When Taylor and his prisoners stepped out the back door, they were surrounded by another gang of men and in the confusion both prisoners disappeared.

Taylor forced his way through the crowd and went to the assistance of Kirschman, the two agents eventually succeeding in making their way to their car.

They found upon starting their car that they had no lights and that one tire was flat, it having been punctured with a knife blade, Parsons stated. The wires hooking up the headlights had been torn loose.

Upon arriving at McGregor, Parsons said the two agents parked their car near the Scenic hotel and Kirschman ran into the hotel to telephone Sheriff Larson at Elkader.

Mayor Walter appeared suddenly and arrested Kirschman and Taylor, the prohibition chief said. They were taken over to the McGregor jail and locked up for the night. Although Parsons said both men denied being guilty of any of the charges brought against them, Mayor Walter found them both guilty.

SLAYING ENDS GENUINE APACHE DANCE IN PARIS

Escort Kills Man as Girl Is Slashed.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 14.—A typical apache crime occurred at daybreak this morning in the shadow of the Bastille, after an all night outdoor dance celebrating the French national holiday.

A giant maquereau, wearing the conventional black corduroy pants, short velvet jacket, red handkerchief about his throat, and a long peaked cap pulled down over his eyes, sidled up to a table where a couple were drinking vin blanc, and, without bothering to speak, signaled the girl to dance with him.

When she refused the maquerean grabbed her around the neck and yanked her to her feet. Protesting, she bit him on the arm. In drawing his long knife from his belt, the apache dropped a revolver to the floor. As the girl bent over to pick up the gun the blade flicked across her breast, causing only a slight wound.

The girl handed the pistol to her companion, who sat stolidly watching the battle without lifting a hand to defend her. Lowering his head like a bull, and waving the bloodstained knife blade, the apache charged at the girl again. Her escort, without even rising, leveled the gun and pulled the trigger.

The apache dropped dead and in the excitement the couple disappeared. The gendarmes discovered that the victim was Louis Tremel, 25, alias Louis l'Etrangleur—"the strangler"—and discovered the girl, Fernande Du Hambois, 22, and her companion, Antoine Gatinet, 33, around the corner in a hotel.

RICKENBACKER GIVEN OFFICIAL MEDAL OF HONOR

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—A reminder of a day above the lines near Billy, France, in September, 1918, went to Col. Edward V. Rickenbacker today in an announcement by the war department that he had been awarded the congressional medal of honor, the highest distinction of its kind that can be given by the government.

The world war ace was cited "for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action."

"While on a voluntary patrol over the lines," the citation said, "Lieut. Rickenbacker attacked seven enemy planes. Disregarding the odds against him, he dived and shot down two."

Rickenbacker already holds the distinguished service cross with seven oak leaf clusters. He was officially credited with having brought down 21 enemy planes and four enemy balloons.

RUSSIA ORDERS BIG SHAKEUP OF DIPLOMAT STAFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, July 14.—Another reorganization of the soviet government's diplomatic service abroad, including members of the official trade delegations, has been ordered by the congress of the communist party.

The congress instructed the party to use greater care in the selection of officials for appointments abroad, since a number of desertions, discrediting to the government, have occurred.

Commissar Ordshonikidsie, one of Dictator Stalin's small group of Russians who hold important positions in Russia, reported that desertions from the soviet foreign service began in 1926, when 38 officials refused to return to Russia.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

E. A. SPERRY LEAVES MILLION TO Y. M. C. A. FOR KINDNESS IN YOUTH

New York, July 14.—(AP)—Half a century ago a poor boy from a country town went to seek his fortune in Chicago, and at the Y. M. C. A. he found a home and fellowship and friendly guidance. The boy was Elmer A. Sperry, inventor of the gyroscope, and in his will which is to be filed tomorrow he leaves $1,000,000 for Y. M. C. A. activities in payment of that old debt of gratitude.

The remainder of the estate, amounting to several millions, is left to the three surviving children, Edward G. Sperry, Helen Sperry Lea, and Elmer A. Sperry Jr.

The bequest to the Y. M. C. A. is in the form of a trust fund. For the first ten years the income is to be divided equally between the seventy-fifth anniversary drive of the Brooklyn and Queens Y. M. C. A. and the completion of the Flatbush Y. M. C. A. building fund.

PHONE FRANCHISE LEAVES SUBWAY ISSUE TO COUNCIL

The council committee on gas, oil, and electric light yesterday indicated in a discussion of the tentative draft of a new 23 year franchise for the Illinois Bell Telephone company that the allocation of the cost of relocating the company's equipment in the event of subway construction will be left to future council legislation. This cost has been estimated at $500,000 a mile and under the old ordinance, which expired Jan. 8, 1929, the company was obligated to pay it.

The new franchise provides that the company will be subject to any "valid" ordinance allocating the costs which may be passed by the council in the future and which will apply to other public utilities. This provision, according to Attorney Sidney S. Gorham, committee attorney, will be based on subway legislation passed at Springfield last year.

The omission of a specific provision in the franchise on the relocation costs was characterized as "dangerous" by Attorneys B. F. Goldstein and George I. Haight when they were advising the committee last year.

GOTHAM JUDGE FACING FRAUD CHARGE, RESIGNS

New York, July 14.—(AP)—City Magistrate George F. Ewald, under indictment for mail fraud, resigned today—the fourth judge and fifth official of record in New York city to resign or be removed under fire in ten months.

Magistrate Ewald, his brother and four officers of the Copper Buttes Mines, Inc., are charged with fraudulent practices in the sale of the company's stock. The indictment was returned July 7. All are free on bail and trial is set for Aug. 4.

Chief Magistrate Corrigan asked for Ewald's resignation, saying he would begin removal action if the magistrate did not comply. Today Ewald sent his resignation to Mayor Walker, at the same time denying all the allegations concerning his conduct.

H. S. HARRISON, WRITER, AUTHOR OF 'QUEED,' DIES

Atlantic City, N. J., July 14.—[Special.]—Henry S. Harrison of New York, author of "Queed" and other works, died in the Atlantic City hospital this morning. He was 50 years old. The cause of death was peritonitis. He had undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Harrison was born at Sewanee, Tenn. His father, Caskie Harrison, was noted in the south as an educator and was the founder of the Brooklyn Latin school.

The son went to Columbia university where he received his bachelor's degree in 1900. A few years later he went to Richmond and began his newspaper work on the Times-Dispatch. After serving as book reviewer and columnist he became chief editorial writer of that newspaper. At the same time he began writing fiction.

REPORT RADIUM BEST TREATMENT IN CANCER CASES

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The annual report of the grand council of the British Empire cancer campaign, made public today, says the discovery of an experimental method by which mice may be subjected to cancer of the skin and heart has made available a mass of new material for cancer research. It announces that some causes of the dread disease which formerly were scarcely suspected have been discovered.

The results of radium treatment are improving steadily, the council states, and prove to be better than those of operations.

James Coleman, Railroad Executive and Inventor, Dies

MONTREAL, Que., July 14.—[Special.]—James M. Coleman, 69 years old, formerly of Chicago, died here today after 51 years of railway service. Until his retirement four years ago he was general superintendent of the central region of the Canadian National railways. From 1889 to 1899 he was car foreman in the Grand Trunk railway shops in Chicago. He was known as the inventor of the Coleman locking device which prevents the telescoping of passenger cars in collisions.

But in our hearts he is with us still.
Time may heal, but it never can mend,
For our hearts will be broken until the end.
And of the load he helped us carry,

Double Duty Ensemble for Week-end Vacation

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Another of those transformation ensembles that Paris is busy thinking up this summer has been designed by Jane Regny for the working woman's week-end by the sea.

This ensemble in its complete version looks like a simple about-town costume. You can wear it down town Saturday morning, into the most circumspect office, and no one can guess that it contains beneath its dress a bathing suit. There is a top coat of beautiful, grenadine red, diagonal woolen which you wear both over the dress and over the bathing suit if you like.

Then comes a dress of red and white cotton stuff, with a thread of wool for solidity. This dress is built like a spiral, and Jane Regny calls the whole ensemble "Spirale." There's a reason. It's easy to shed. All you have to do is unbutton the four buttons of the diagonal closing of the waist, and the four buttons of the diagonal closing of the skirt [shown in the small sketch] and the dress unrolls like the spiral wrappings of an Egyptian mummy.

The bathing suit is made of red and white jersey arranged in spiral bands, this arrangement providing the diagonal décolleté of the suit. A belt of red jersey marks the waistline. There is a big hat of white cotton faced with the red and white cotton of the dress.

Hot Dog!

The most embarrassing moment of my life occurred one day at a luncheon given for an old friend of ours. Frankfurters were served, and as I cut into mine, a nice, plump, juicy one, it squirted across the table, and showered grease and water upon the guest of honor. I can't look a "hot dog" in the face without blushing.

I had been doing some typing for a friend. One day, while at this friend's home, we were speaking about our positions. I had said that I was disgusted with mine and would like to look for something else. Meanwhile, his brother came in and complimented me on my typing. Then my friend resumed our talk about positions and asked me if I had anything else in mind. Not thinking, I replied, "No, only the block of paper." Oh! how everybody laughed. And not until then did I realize that he was referring to a position. All the while I thought he wanted to know whether or not I had anything else of his besides the paper. I'll tell the world I was embarrassed.
